RUSSIA ACCEPTS JAP PEACE BID WITH A WARNING

Refuses to Let Tokio Dictate Terms.

MOSCOW, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Soviet Russia informed Japan tonight that she could have peace on the Manchukuan border, but could not dictate the terms.

In conditional acceptance of Japanese proposals for diplomatic settlement of the dispute, Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov told Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu that if Japanese soldiers got back where they belonged soviet military activity in the disputed area would end automatically.

[Tokio dispatches said Japan suggested mutual withdrawal from the area.]

Litvinov assured Tokio's representative that the soviet government always was willing to discuss peaceful settlement of frontier disputes, but said any such discussion must be based on recognition of soviet boundaries as established in existing treaties.

Refers to Manchurian Grab.

Japan's conquest of Manchuria, he emphasized, was no valid reason for altering the soviet-Manchukuan border.

The tone of Litvinov's reply was regarded in foreign circles as an indication that Moscow not only was convinced of the legality of its claim to the disputed area, but also was confident of the ability of Red arms to repel any attack on the far eastern frontier.

Once again the next move in the course of the Changkufeng hostilities was left to Japan.

Japan's proposals for peaceful settlement of the intensified renewal of border warfare in the Changkufeng area—at the junction of Russian Siberia, Japanese Corea, and Japanese-dominated Manchukuo—were submitted by Shigemitsu in two afternoon conferences.

Asks Recognition of Map.

Litvinov declared Russia would be willing to enter negotiations for peaceful settlement, but only on condition that all Japanese soldiers evacuate soviet territory and that Japan recognize the "inviolability" of soviet borders as established by the Russian-Chinese treaty of June 26, 1886.

It is on maps attached to this treaty—the Hunchun agreement—that Russia bases her claim to the Changkufeng hills, occupied by soviet troops on July 11, and where there has been heavy fighting since Sunday.

A soviet communique said the Japanese ambassador opened the conversation by informing Litvinov that the Japanese government's desire was to settle the dispute peacefully, as a local incident. The Japanese government proposed cessation of military operations on both sides and transfer of the dispute to the sphere of diplomatic negotiation.

Demands Troop Withdrawal.

Litvinov replied, the communique said, "If Japanese cease their attack on soviet territory, cease to fire, and recall such remnants of troops as might still remain on soviet territory, the soviet army will have no reason to continue military operations and the soviet government then will be ready for diplomatic discussion of proposals the Japanese government might desire to make.

"However, the inviolability of the soviet borders as established by the Hunchun agreement with attached maps should be guaranteed as a preliminary to such discussion."

The Japanese ambassador, the communique said, stated that he did not intend to renew the dispute about the frontier or about the responsibility of one or the other party because both sides had no common opinion on the subject.

Manchukuo Has Own Data.

He was described as recognizing the validity of international treaties, but maintaining that Manchukuo, after its separation from China, had its own data.

The ambassador was quoted as saying this was the first Japan had seen of the map appended to the Hunchun treaty.

"The Japanese government," the communique continued, was prepared to "proceed on the spot to concrete negotiations on the treaty and on the map."

"Negotiations on making more precise the frontier between Japan and the soviet union already had been carried on and an agreement has been reached on the creation of mixed

New York, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Douglas Corrigan, the jaunty youth who still declares that his flight to Ireland was all a mistake, received an ear-splitting welcome as he sailed up the bay here on the liner Manhattan late today, nineteen days after his unheralded takeoff.

Beaming with delight as airplanes swooped overhead, excursion steamers bearing crowds of admirers tooted their whistles, a city fireboat shot streams of water into the air, and reporters, photographers, radio interviewers, newsreel men and ardent Corrigan greeters fought to get near him, the cheery young flyer remarked:

Big Parade Is Next.

He was assured by Stanley H. Howe, executive secretary to Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, that the uproarious scene was just a preliminary sample of what New York had in store for him tomorrow when he will ride from the Battery up Broadway to the city hall for the city's official greeting.

"The sample looks pretty good," Corrigan replied; "bring on the whole works."

Through all the hubbub his infectious grin never left his face and his ready wit stayed by him as he answered questions, shook hands, and did his utmost to please all who crowded around him.

Despite the heat he kept on the brown lether windbreaker that he wore on his flight. He smilingly explained that the gray trousers he had on were bought in Dublin because "I wore out the seat of my pants on the trip across." Otherwise his attire consisted of the clothes in which he flew the ocean, he said.

Sticks to His Story.

When rescued from the turmoil, his good nature still unshaken, Corrigan repeated his insistence that Los Angeles was his intended destination.

After a rest he told reporters he hopes to make a tour of the country in his 9 year old $900 plane, winding up at the national air races at Cleveland Sept. 2 or 3. After that, he said, he has no definite plans.

"I've never had any aims in life," he said. "That's why I've never gotten anywhere."

Parrying question after question, he said that he believed Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is the greatest man in the world and that Howard Hughes and his crew did not get enough credit for their flight in which "they took just as much chance as I did." To a question about his plane he replied, "She is good for another nine years."

No Girl Friend, He Says.

To an insistent woman interviewer Corrigan said that he had no "girl friend" and that he hadn't seen many girls while he was abroad. As for the girls on the Manhattan, he said, there were only a few of them and they were "the tame kind that don't bother you."

But passengers on the boat said he spent some time with Audrey Cartledge of London, a fellow passenger, and he did permit a picture of him with Audrey aboard the ship.

Corrigan begged off from a private dinner given in his honor by the mayor's reception committee, saying he was too tired to leave his hotel suite. He was represented by his brother, Harry, and the latter's wife.

JOSE (REMEMBER HIM, BY DAMN?) TRIES OUT THE RUMBA WITH ZASU

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Zasu Pitts and Don José Formos Diego, mayor of Ponce, Porto Rico, tried to dance the rumba here today, although they couldn't speak the same language. The mayor recently had undergone an appendix operation. Said he: "By damn, these doctors he's put too much bandage for the belly, but I dance just the same."

Soon the mayor was calling up all his friends to "come see, I'm making danze wiz ze nize American girl."

At luncheon later, however, they ran into difficulties when Zasu ordered a salad made with roquefort cheese. Said the mayor: "I'm loving you, but these cheese she's making too much stink."

OPPOSE $70,000 POSTOFFICE FOR TOWN OF 2,000

Chillicothe, Ill., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Some residents do not think this little town of 2,000 needs a $70,000 postoffice. One of them is Ald. Frank Bacon. He is the owner of the building housing the present postoffice.

Ald. Bacon frankly admits he is concerned partly for his own interest. He explained the present postoffice was built by him only six years ago at a cost of $12,000 at the request of the government. He holds a ten year rental lease.

The $70,000 grant, under the government's pump priming program, was obtained several weeks ago by the town's business men's association. Ald. Bacon charged it was done as part of a local political scheme to take the postoffice from his building.

A 35 Mile Golf Game to End Brokers' Row

J. Smith Ferebee, young La Salle street broker, owns half of a Virginia plantation valued in excess of $30,000. When darkness settles tonight over the four golf courses at Olympia Fields J. Smith Ferebee will own the entire plantation—or none of it.

This will hold true also when darkness settles over the loop, over the lake, and over the stockyards. But the golf courses are specified because it is on them that Ferebee's status as a landed gentleman will be decided.

He will decide it himself—with four wooden clubs and ten iron ones. He will try to play 144 holes of golf, twice over each of the four courses, during the fifteen hours between dawn and dark, making a score of 95 or less for each eighteen holes. If his score goes over 95 for any one of the eighteen hole rounds he loses the plantation.

Wager to Settle Row.

Ferebee's marathon golf game today will decide a wager made to settle a disagreement over management of the land. The plantation, which is in Princess Anne county, Va., between Norfolk and Virginia Beach, was purchased for $30,000 cash two years ago by Ferebee and Fred Tuerk, also a member of a La Salle street brokerage house.

Its 300 acres were planted to cotton, corn, and potatoes, and have increased greatly in value. But Ferebee and Tuerk could not agree on the management. And they couldn't divide the plantation to the satisfaction of both.

Neither wanted to go to court. Neither wanted to buy out the other. So a wager was made. Ferebee once had played ninety holes of golf in one day. He boasted he could do 144. Tuerk had always ridiculed this assertion. This, then, became the terms of the wager.

Weariness to Be Factor.

Ferebee's golf handicap at Olympia Fields is ten strokes; that is, his usual game entitles him to subtract ten strokes from his score. He will play today without benefit of the handicap, however. He ordinarily shoots eighteen hales in less than 85 strokes. Considering that weariness late in the day may effect his game, he agreed on 95 strokes for each eighteen holes as the maximum for the test.

To win he must walk at least 29.3 miles, the measured distance of the four courses, each played twice. Ferebee expects to walk 35 miles. Golfers

NOTED MAGISTRATE'S WIFE IS FINED; BROKE 12 MILE SPEED LIMIT

LONDON, Aug. 4.—An attempt by police court officials to cloak the identity of the wife of a London magistrate in court for a motoring offense caused a furore here today.

When "case No. 35A" was called in Southwestern police court the prosecutor said the defendant, who pleaded guilty, had exceeded the twelve miles an hour limit in Battersea park. Magistrate Clyde Wilson, in dismissing the case on payment of $5 and costs, said the defendant had "a splendid record."

Denied the defendant's name, reporters "raised the roof." Granted access to the records, they found the defendant was Mrs. Claud Mullins, wife of a noted magistrate who normally sits in Southwestern court.

GERMANS CREATE "PEOPLE'S" RADIO; IT'S A MIDGET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—The German radio industry today introduced a midget radio receiving set. It costs $14. The former "people's set" sold for $26.

The midget has two tubes and measures 9 by 9 inches. Purchasers will be able to hear Germany's stations, but no foreign stations, which are frowned upon by Nazi authorities.

Owners of radio sets must pay 80 cents a month to the postoffice. The propaganda ministry controls all broadcasts. Germany has 9,500,000 radio subscribers, who turn over $7,600,000 a month to the government. Part of this fund is used to finance other branches of Nazi propaganda.

Mexican High Court Judge Throws Out Bachelor Tax

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4.—(AP)—A law imposing a special tax on bachelors, adopted several months ago by the Tamaulipas state legislature, was declared unconstitutional today by Magistrate Jesus Garza Cabello of the Supreme court. He praised the legislature's efforts to increase the birth rate, but ruled that a Mexican citizen cannot be forced to assume a particular civil status.

Senator Berry and Tennessee Governor Trail

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A slowly tabulated city vote tonight began to swing Tennessee's Democratic primary lead in favor of candidates backed by National Committeeman E. H. Crump, Memphis political leader.

After a seesaw battle on the face of early rural returns Prentice Cooper of Shelbyville moved in front of Gov. Gordon Browning, seeking renomination, and Tom Stewart forged ahead of Junior Senator George L. Berry and Representative Ridley Mitchell in the race for the United States senate.

Cooper Far in Lead.

Returns from 1,687 of 2,271 precincts showed:

The organization commanded by Crump rolled up a heavy vote in Shelby county [Memphis] for its coalition ticket.

With 54 precincts of 127 reporting there the vote was:

Election Plot Charged.

During his campaign Browning charged that an effort would be made to steal the election in Memphis, the Crump stronghold. Only a few days ago he abandoned plans to send National Guardsmen to patrol the polling places there. He denied that he gave up that plan because of a federal court injunction barring troops.

Hundreds of armed peace officers patroled the Memphis polling places, however. Although there were complaints of irregularities from the Browning group, there was little disorder.

Loses Roosevelt Support.

Senator Berry attempted unsuccessfully to collect a $5,000,000 claim against the Tennessee Valley authority for marble lands which later were declared worthless. Formerly in the favor of President Roosevelt, Berry lost the administration's support when exposure of the facts of the claim resulted in the series of charges against the conduct of the TVA.

There was no Republican primary. The Republican state executive committee called it off after Harley Fowler of Knoxville and John Pritchett of Nashville were unopposed for nomination as senator and utilities commissioner, respectively.

Hope of British Visit Fades for Blind U.S. Girl and Dog

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Hazel Hurst, young blind American lecturer, and her "seeing eye" dog remained aboard the liner American Merchant today with hopes of gaining permission to take the dog ashore dwindling rapidly. Yesterday she telegraphed King George VI. asking him to intervene against the regulations requiring dogs to be quarantined. But King George was on a vacation cruise. Miss Hurst made arrangements to return to the United States tomorrow.

FORMER SHERIF KILLED; 2 SHOT IN GUN BATTLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Jackson, Ky., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Political feud guns tonight drew Breathitt county's first blood in the Barkley-Chandler primary battle for United States senator. A leader of Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler's faction was shot and killed and two other politicians were wounded, one seriously.

The shooting heightened preprimary tension in this town of 2,000, where voters take their politics with an occasional dose of buckshot. Fifteen gun toting clansmen of the slain man came to town hunting for the one who is blamed for the shooting.

Jailer Sought as Slayer.

William Combs, county jailer, who is managing the local campaign for Senator Alben Barkley, is sought as the slayer. Chief of Police A. S. Sizemore said witnesses told of seeing Combs flee, a smoking revolver in each hand.

The dead man was Lee Combs, 35 years old, former county sherif. He is not related to William Combs. Those wounded are Lee Combs' brother, Lewis, 31 years old, and Sherif Walter Deaton.

Lewis Combs is the county campaign manager for Gov. Chandler. He was shot in the back and was taken to a hospital in Lexington, ninety miles away. Sherif Deaton's gun arm was shattered by a bullet. He is a member of the Barkley faction.

Former Political Allies.

Until Gov. Chandler chose to make the race against Senator Barkley the Combs brothers, William Combs, and the sherif played their politics on the same side of the fence.

Breathitt county has a large percentage of voters on the WPA rolls, and the Barkley forces, with federal money, have been strong. Under the leadership of Lewis Combs and his brother, Gov. Chandler recently has been picking up ground, and now the race is considered to be even.

Just as the Barkley faction was ending a meeting tonight at headquarters on the second floor of the old Hargis Bank building, Sherif Deaton saw the Combs brothers cross the courthouse square.

Sherif Warns Brothers.

"Lee Combs has an office on the second floor of the building," said Chief Sizemore, "but the sherif warned the boys not to go looking for trouble. There had been some guying on the street earlier in the evening."

The sherif followed the Combs brothers as they started up the stairs of the bank building. At that moment Bill Combs appeared at the top. With him was Walter Jenkins, a WPA employé, and other Barkley men.

There was a burst of gun fire. Lewis Combs said later that neither he nor his brother was armed. Chief Sizemore said the sherif had no chance to draw his revolver. A moment later, according to the chief, William Combs ran down the stairs with his guns and disappeared.

Kinfolk Rally.

As soon as word got around the Combs boys' father, Sollie, a former county jailer, drove two miles out in the country to his farm and rallied his neighbors and kinfolk. Soon they were back in town with their guns and were roaming the streets and searching the countryside for William Combs.

"They told me they didn't want any one fooling with them tonight," remarked Chief Sizemore. "If they find Bill Combs they might be rough with him. I guess he's out of the county by now."

EXHORT KENTUCKY VOTERS

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination in Kentucky, which ends in a primary election Saturday, has the aspects of a protracted revival. At meetings the voters sing and sometimes hear ministers pray. Then they are promised economic salvation through the federal treasury.

Alben W. Barkley, the administration floor leader in the senate, is running with the express approval of President Roosevelt. His platform is unquestioned obedience to the President. In substance he has told the electorate that this pays; that since 1933 he helped to bring $280,000,000 in federal funds into the state for permanent improvements and relief benefits.

Gov. A. B. [Happy] Chandler, the opposing candidate, is making the race against the wishes of the President. His complaint is that Barkley didn't do enough for Kentucky. "I could have got all Barkley got for you and more," he says.

He has made it plain that if elected he will not be a rubber stamp. Although Chandler has asserted that Roosevelt is not unfriendly to him, Barkley describes the governor as an active enemy of the Roosevelt administration. He points out that the governor has never said a single kind word for the national administration.

The nomination of Chandler, which appears unlikely, would be a blow to the national administration, possibly the most severe it has had this year. Barkley has keynoted the President into two terms and "may do it again," to quote his own remark. Nobody doubts that he would support Roosevelt enthusiastically for a third term.

Gives Washington a Scaure.

Chandler may not win, but he has given Washington a scare. The farmers are getting their soil conservation checks at the right time to impress them with Barkley's cash value. The WPA rolls have been expanded by 35,000 or 40,000 men.

Charges that federal pay rollers in Kentucky are being forced to contribute to campaign funds meet denials, but the pay rollers are paying. It also is denied that WPA workers are being coerced. State Representative Henry Ward, an enthusiastic Barkleyite, says that "90 per cent of them are naturally for the senator."

To bring the race to a point where he still has a chance if there is sentiment for him among the silent voters, Chandler has made great efforts. Thousands of state pay rollers, it is charged, have been assessed for his benefit.

State Pay Rollers Busy.

Nearly all of them are working diligently to get out his vote. They are also building highways, not all of them in areas of heavy trafic. The newly organized rural highway department is spending heavily for forced account roads. These are built by labor employed directly by the state and not under contract. The Barkley forces assert that by doing this work Chandler is losing funds already allocated by the federal government.

But it is Chandler's personal magnetism and his record as governor that gives him strength. He is a cheery, ambitious, active politician of 41. He got his start by singing to political audiences. Seven years ago he was nominated for lieutenant governor as a compromise candidate. Three years ago he defied the old leaders of the party, ran for governor, and won, getting about 260,000 of the 495,000 votes cast.

They say Happy could walk down the streets of any town in Kentucky, be recognized by all the inhabitants, and call half of them—white or colored—by name. Since his recent illness, which kept him off the stump for a week, he has given up handshaking, but he is still vigorous. He still insists he is the best governor Kentucky ever had.

He declares he cut the state debt from $28,000,000 to $6,500,000, figures which are disputed by his enemies. They say he actually made a slash of only $10,000,000 and that he has had $10,000,000 a year more in revenues than any governor ever had before.

He repealed an unpopular sales tax, but replaced the levy with a state income tax, a cigaret tax, and a heavy retail tax on whisky. Many Kentuckians don't like these taxes.

Barkley Busy in Campaign.

Barkley, who is 61 years old and an effective speaker, has been making as vigorous a campaign as the governor. He makes five or six talks a day, and apparently thrives on the exertion. Like Chandler, he will interrupt his prepared remarks to chat informally with persons in his audiences.

The Republicans also are having a primary. John P. Haswell of Hardinsburg is the organization choice for the senate. Little interest is being taken in congressional races, which are regarded in eight of the nine districts as walkaways for the incumbents.

Kentucky's interest is centered on Barkley and Chandler. The voters are trying to determine which is the way to get the most from the federal treasury.

WPA LABORER DIES AT WORK.

Richard Douglas, 43 years old, colored, 1112 Blue Island avenue, a WPA worker, died of a heart attack yesterday while working in the basement of the Van Vlissingen school, 137 West 108th place.

CHARGES GUFFEY TRIES TO REDUCE TAX JUDGMENT

Pittston, Pa., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The name of Senator Joseph F. Guffey today was linked with an effort to settle a $500,000 income tax judgment against John C. Kehoe, Luzerne county Democratic leader and coal operator. Guffey now is on a vacation in Europe.

An assistant collector of revenue, Frank P. Wall, said he wrote to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau informing him of the circumstances. He protested that the proposed settlement was so small it would fail to cover the cost of the investigation.

Wall said it had been agreed that Senator Guffey's secretary, Richard H. Bailey, would come to Pittston Saturday to meet Kehoe. Bailey, in Atlantic City, replied that Wall "is stretching the truth. I'm going to Wilkes-Barre tomorrow for a golf tournament to which I was invited by Congressman J. Harold Flannery some time ago. While there I shall call at the Kehoe home, but I know nothing of his income tax payments and they will not be discussed during my visit."

Kehoe denied Wall's charge. In Washington a treasury department official said Wall's telegram had been referred to the department of justice.

STREET CAR INJURIES FATAL.

Joseph Kilburg, 81 years old, 811 Oakdale avenue, died in the Illinois Masonic hospital early today of injuries suffered yesterday when he was struck by a Halsted street car near Oakdale avenue. The motorman was F. W. Helm, 7934 South Marshfield avenue.

GUILTY OF BRICK MURDER; GETS DEATH IN CHAIR

Verdict Returned by Jury in 70 Minutes.

Robert Nixon, young Negro, must die in the electric chair for the brutal brick murder of Mrs. Florence Johnson, mother of two small children. A Criminal court jury so decreed last night in one of the speediest death verdicts on record in Cook county. The case was tried before Judge John C. Lewe.

The jurors found Nixon guilty on the first ballot. Then they took time out for a belated dinner and soon afterward agreed to impose the death penalty. From start to finish the verdict took only one hour and ten minutes.

Takes Verdict Without Emotion.

Nixon, heavily shackled and guarded by eight bailifs, never flickered an eye as the clerk, August Glosa, read the finding. A murmur arose from the large crowd in the courtroom, but there was no further demonstration. Sixteen detectives stood at vantage points in the courtroom because of the reported presence of trouble makers.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley and Assistant John S. Boyle expressed satisfaction with the verdict. Elmer Johnson, a city fireman, the husband of Nixon's victim, said Nixon got what he merited.

A motion for a new trial was made by Nixon's lawyers, Joseph Clayton and W. C. Burton. Judge Lewe will hear it on Aug. 12.

Seized Near Scene of Crime.

Mrs. Johnson was beaten to death with a brick in her apartment at 4631 Lake Park avenue last May 27. Nixon was arrested a short time later as he was walking away. He confessed the crime and named Earl Hicks as his accomplice and actual slayer. Hicks was seized and accused Nixon.

Nixon's defense was mainly an alibi and charges that police tortured him into confessing. His alibi, that he was elsewhere at the time of the murder and his charges of a third degree, were proved false.

Mr. Crowley and his aids will confer today on the feasibility of trying Nixon immediately for another murder—that of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle. She was raped and beaten to death with a brick in her room at the Devonshire hotel, 19 East Ohio street, on June 29, 1936. Nixon has confessed the crime and police found his fingerprints at the scene.

Two Blasts Lift Pavement Near 8100 Addison Street

Two explosions in the 8100 block of Addison street yesterday lifted the pavement in two places and jarred several houses in the sparsely settled neighborhood. Barricades were erected to safeguard motorists. Today city workers will try to determine the cause of the blasts, which police attributed to accumulations of sewer or natural gas. Two years ago a similar explosion occurred in the 8100 block of Irving Park road.

SILENCE GREETS HOFFMAN'S DARE TO LABOR BOARD

Allegan, Mich., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Representative Clare E. Hoffman said tonight that he had heard nothing but silence on his challenge that the national labor relations board stop him from attacking the C. I. O. before factory employés. Hoffman is seeking the Republican renomination from the 4th district.

He made his challenge last night in a speech before nearly 1,000 employés of the Clark Equipment company in Buchanan. It grew out of the fact that some time ago copies of one of Hoffman's talks attacking the C. I. O. were distributed to employés of a Maryland shoe company by an employé of the company and that the labor board had held such distribution to be an unfair labor practice.

Eugene B. Clark, president of the Clark Equipment company, pointed out today that the company had no connection whatever with the meeting. It was sponsored by the employés.

MOTHER AND SON FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN HOME

Davenport, Ia., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. C. A. Nash, 45 years old, and her 14 year old son, Burton, were found shot to death in their home here tonight by Mr. Nash, who had just returned from a trip to Omaha.

Nash, vice president of the United Power and Light company here, found the body of his wife, which had been slashed and shot twice, on the kitchen floor. The body of his son, shot through the left eye, was in the basement.

Police said a rifle which Nash had given his son last Saturday was found near the boy's body.

MARTIN DENIES RED CHARGES OF FOUR OUSTED AIDS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers' union, today denied charges by four suspended union officials that Jay Lovestone, former American communist party head, dominates the U. A. W.

The suspended officers said they have photostatic copies of Martin-Lovestone correspondence regarding the union's operations.

"I've never written to Lovestone or conferred with him," Martin said.

Earthquake Shakes Houses in Los Angeles District

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Earth shocks were felt in the Los Angeles district late today. Houses were shaken at Huntington beach. Heavy shocks also were felt in the southwest district of Los Angeles, Inglewood, Waltshire, and Beverly Hills. No damage was reported.

ATTACKS LIFER'S CHARGE ANOTHER WAS SLAYER OF 2

South Paris, Me., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Attorneys for Francis M. Carroll sought today to break down the story of Paul Dwyer, 18 years old. From the witness stand yesterday the pale nervous youth named Carroll as the slayer of Dr. James G. Littlefield and the physician's wife.

Dwyer is under a life sentence for the murder of the elderly physician as the result of a confession he made last October. Subsequently, however, he changed his story and named Carroll, father of his one time sweetheart, Barbara, as the slayer.

In his new version of the double killings, Dwyer said Carroll, former deputy sherif and church deacon, beat and strangled Dr. Littlefield after the physician threatened to expose Carroll's alleged mistreatment of his daughter, Barbara. The youth said Carroll killed the physician's wife to hide his first deed.

Prevoiusly Dwyer asserted Carroll had threatened and bullied him into driving off with the bodies of the couple and confessing the double slaying.

NAVY ABANDONS ITS SEARCH FOR HAWAII CLIPPER

MANILA, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The United States navy today abandoned its vast search for the missing Hawaii Clipper, which disappeared over the Pacific with 15 occupants a week ago.

All navy ships and planes participating in the hunt, which covered more than 100,000 square miles of ocean and shoreline east of here, were ordered to return to their bases in Manila bay.

Naval authorities said they were halting the search only after exhausting every possibility that the giant flying boat was afloat or that she ever would be found.

4 BANDITS HOLD 40 AT BAY; LOOT OFFICES OF $8,000

At 1:35 p. m. yesterday, four men wearing handkerchief masks, entered the building at 2410 West 18th street. Covering the elevator operator, George Debs, with guns, they rode to the fourth floor.

There they entered the office of the Link Belt company. Menaced by guns, forty employés, including W. J. Newman, the cashier, and Joseph Gauss, office manager, ceased work.

Two of the bandits opened the vault and stole $3,000 from a till, thirty pay envelopes containing $1,000 more, and $4,000 in negotiable government bonds. Then with business-like precision they marched out with their $8,000 loot, took the elevator to the first floor, and drove away in an automobile.

SLAYS HIS PARENTS AND BROTHER; THEN FIRES HOUSE ON FARM

Superior, Wis., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Several hours after he had shot and killed his parents and an older brother and then set fire to their farm home, Harlan Hopkins, 18 years old, was captured this afternoon at Danbury, 50 miles south of here. The youth had fled from the blazing home near Hinckley, Minn., in the family auto.

"I did it because it looked like I would have to stay on the farm," he told police. "My mother was an invalid, and if anybody wanted to go away I had to stay home and take care of her.

"I wanted to get away from farm life and become successful and edit a magazine on politics and economics."

Police said the boy appeared to be mentally unbalanced. They quoted the youth as saying he shot his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hopkins, and his brother, Paul, 21, as they slept.

FRENCH DECREE HITS BACCARAT; GAMBLER TO QUIT

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Nicholas Zographos, head of the Greek gambling syndicate, said tonight he would be forced to close down his operations at Deauville and Cannes. The announcement followed a government decree reducing by 50 per cent the baccarat play in French casinos as a move to stimulate roulette.

Zographos said: "I cannot continue to bank under these conditions as the odds are too heavily against me." Zographos, who once was an admirer of Wallis Simpson, now the duchess of Windsor, was reputed to have won millions of dollars playing baccarat.

Cannes, Vichy, Deauville, Biarritz, and other famous French resorts are affected by the ruling, which comes in the midst of the best gambling season in France for many years.

BURNED BY FLAMING GASOLINE.

Fred Adams, 21 years old, 1736 Shermer avenue, Northbrook, was seriously burned yesterday when a pan of gasoline was ignited by a match in a garage at 1891 Shermer avenue, where he was employed.

RAGWEED POLLEN IS IN TOWN, AS YOUR NOSE KNOWS

Hay fever victims were warned yesterday that ragweed pollen is beginning to float in from the country and from neglected city and suburban lots. The first pollen grains of the season were detected Monday by O. C. Durham of North Chicago, working on top of the old postoffice with federal authorities.

Meanwhile the board of health, starting its campaign against lot owners who refuse to cut ragweed, sought warrants for the arrest of three persons, Mark J. Sheehan, 9211 Bishop street, lot at 9000 Stony Island avenue; Edmund J. McQuaid, 5812 South Racine avenue, lot at 8617 Stony Island avenue, and Dora Wiltjer, 6951 Princeton avenue, lot at 8045 Stony Island avenue.

An ordinance passed last year makes it unlawful to permit weeds to grow more than 30 inches high. During the last three weeks health department inspectors have investigated more than 400 complaints about weeds in lots.

UNBUCKLES LEG, DIVES; SAVES BOY DROWNING IN PIT

Rescuer Then Gives First Aid; Youth Dies at Pool.

A one legged swimmer, an expert in the water despite his handicap, yesterday saved the life of a drowning boy. The rescuer is John Frystak, 19 years old, who lost his right leg six years ago in a railroad accident. He saved Eugene Chlebowski, 12, of 7535 West 72d place, Summit, in a pond at Harlem avenue and 64th street.

In another swimming accident George Wilde, 18, of 6211 South Hermitage avenue, died of a broken neck soon after being taken from the Ogden park pool yesterday by a guard. Apparently he had collided with another swimmer.

Sinks in Deep Water.

The Chlebowski boy, who is unable to swim, ventured into deep water in Harlem Hole, a pit left from excavations a few years ago for the Harlem avenue bridge. Other swimmers, seeing his struggles, shouted for help.

Frystak, who lives at 7539 West 61st place, Summit, was sunning himself on the pit bank. He removed his artificial leg, breaking a strap in his haste, and quickly stripped. He then dived from the seven foot bank, found the boy on the bottom twelve feet from the surface, and towed him ashore.

There he applied artificial respiration, and by the time deputies arrived from the Willow Springs highway station, the boy had returned home, uninjured.

Fails to Rise After Dive.

Wilde, son of Rudolph Wilde, a painter, had been diving with friends. Then he failed to come up. Henry Perillo, 30, recreation instructor assigned to the pool, pulled him out and summoned aid.

Firemen from squad 9 had worked over him for fifteen minutes when Dr. J. J. Dwyer, 1344 79th street, found that his neck was broken, apparently as the result of collision with another swimmer. A friend, Edward Prendergast, 18, of 6130 South Honore street, had a bump on his head but could not recall the cause.

PIONEER TAKES HER FIRST RIDE IN PLANE AT 100

A few days after her 100th birthday, Mrs. Cecilia Welch McConnell arrived at Chicago airport yesterday aboard a Transcontinental and Western Air Skyclub plane, departing later for Kansas City. She is returning to Turner, Kas., after living several years at Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.

A sprightly centenarian, she recalled details of another trip, in 1843, when as a child of 5 years she traveled in a covered wagon from Decatur, Ill., her birthplace, to Iowa. Her family was the twelfth to settle in Marion county, Ia., then populated principally by Indians.

As a young student in the Female seminary in Springfield she and other college girls campaigned for Lincoln. She knew him and heard the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate. Traveling with her was a daughter, Mrs. Grace Short, 68 years old.

Legion Presents Portable Iron Lung to South Side

Members of district council 3 of the American Legion yesterday presented the city's first mobile iron lung unit to the south side for the use of any resident of the district stricken with infantile paralysis. It was purchased with contributions from the 6,900 members of the council. The Drinker respirator will be kept in a special automobile trailer.

A DIVORCE JUDGE TO OBSERVE HIS GOLDEN WEDDING

Judge Joseph Sabath, who has heard about 45,000 divorce cases and united many couples in marriage, will celebrate his golden wedding anniversary next Tuesday. He is 68 years old. His wife, Regina, is 67. They were married in Kenosha, Wis.

A dinner and reception will be given them in a night club by their children, Albert Sabath, Mrs. Stella Grollman, and Milton Sabath. Judge and Mrs. Sabath reside at the Chicago Beach hotel.

Judge Sabath came to this country from Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, when he was 15 years old. In 1910 he was elected to the Municipal court. He served 28 years on the bench. He is presiding over the divorce motions call in the Superior court this summer. Asked for a simplification of his ideas on marriage, Judge Sabath said: "The one cardinal rule of marriage is to bear and to forbear."

Notice to a Thief: You Cost Poor Girls Their Vacations

This story is for the thief who broke into the Ogden Hill branch of the Chicago Boys' club, 6405 South Hermitage avenue, early yesterday. The thief stole $318 from a safe and property worth $1,313. The money was part of a fund to defray expenses for 300 girl members of the welfare association at camp this month. Several girls will lose their vacation as a result of the theft.

Sisters Sent to Bridewell for Robbery of an Escort

Connie and Gene Jordan, 4152 Kenmore avenue, who forced an escort to take off his trousers after they robbed him of $14, were sentenced to thirty days each in the Bridewell by Judge Oscar S. Caplan in Woman's court yesterday. They also were fined $5 each. The sisters said the robbery of Arthur Stayart, 1143 Waveland avenue, was only a joke.

Park and Civic Heads Plan Carnival of Lakes and Air

A carnival of the lakes and air to replace the carnival of the lakes given the last two years by the park district, is to be planned today. A committee of business men and civic leaders will meet with George T. Donoghue, park general superintendent, at a luncheon at the Palmer house. The event will be presented Aug. 28 in lake shore harbor between Ohio and Oak streets.

Player Will Win or Lose $30,000 Plantation.

say he probably will walk nearer forty.

The Olympia Fields courses have many wooded spots and there is a good deal of steep climbing ahead of Mr. Ferebee.

He expects to spend only 90 minutes on each round. This would allow him to finish the Marathon in twelve hours of the fifteen available.

Army men point out that the walking alone will require ten hours, if he walks at four miles an hour and goes forty miles. This would leave five hours for swinging.

To finish in 95 for each round, Ferebee will have to swing 760 times, which is at the rate of five strokes every two minutes, or 24 seconds to the stroke.

Meanwhile Ferebee prepared for an early start today. He underwent a physical examination and Dr. Charles Alexander of Harvey declared his condition excellent. Ferebee is 31 years old.

Tees Off at Dawn.

He spent the night at Olympia Fields, retiring at 10 p. m. after a dinner of T-bone steak, cantaloupe, and iced tea. He planned to rise at 4 a. m., breakfast on orange juice, sweet rolls, and coffee, and be at the first tee at 5, ready to drive when the light grows bright enough.

Ferebee will play his first two rounds on the No. 4 or championship course which is 6,474 yards in length. Then he will go to No. 1, which is 6,562 yards. No. 3 will be next, 6,383 yards, and No. 2 will be last. It is 6,365 yards long.

There will be three caddies, two to go ahead on the fairways to watch the ball and one to carry the golf bag. Dr. Alexander will accompany Ferebee throughout the day to watch his condition and feed him. The player will eat candy bars as he walks. And, on the doctor's advice, will drink plenty of beer that will be cool but not cold. This is to insure ample perspiration to keep his body temperature down. If it is a hot day there will be salt in the beer.

Extra Shoes to Be Carried.

Ferebee will take two extra pairs of shoes, well broken in, and will change them on the course. He will wear long trousers.

As the challenged, Ferebree will be the sole judge of whether the weather is suitable. He may postpone the play if he feels the weather will be against him. The forecast is for fair and warm.

The official observer of the match will be Robert O'Keefe, a broker. Ferebee is vice president of Barney, Johnson & Co., and Tuerk is a partner in Fuller, Cruttenden & Co., both of 120 South La Salle street.

Great excitement seized La Salle street when news of the $30,000 golf game spread a few days ago. Yesterday betting on the marathon appeared to eclipse legitimate trading, several brokers declared.

Though it is possible under the 95 stroke agreement that Ferebee might lose his wager on the first course, he will complete the contest because of these other bets, said to total several thousand dollars.

And as to the outlook for his success: Dr. William E. Code of Chicago played 153 holes in a single day at the Edgewood Valley course in 1923 when he was 45 years old. But he didn't have a 95 stroke minimum against him.

Bob Swanson, a marathon golfer, played 306 holes in 19 hours at Sunset Fields, Los Angeles, in 1933. He walked seventy-six miles.

Marathon Golfer

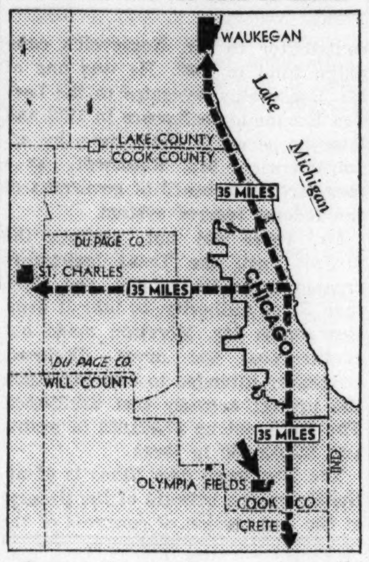
J. Smith Ferebee, who plans to play 144 holes of golf today, eating dinner before retiring at Olympia Fields last night. He has wagered half of a 2,400 acre Virginia plantation and $2,500 that he can complete the marathon without going over 95 strokes for each 18 holes.



Dotted lines indicate various hiking trips Ferebee might take by walking the same distance he will cover on the 144 hole marathon on Olympia Fields' four courses.

3 JUDGES WEIGH FATE OF BOY, 15, WHO SLEW GIRL

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The fate of Lindbergh Heist, 15 years old, confessed rape slayer of Shirley Ann Woodburn, 6 years old, was taken under advisement by three Criminal court judges today. The three, Alfred Mack, Charles S. Bell, and Allen C. Roudebush, are expected to announce their decision within a week.

With the youthful slayer on the stand, Defense Attorney Arthur Fix attempted to draw a picture of the boy's home environment, pointing out that the boy's mother had taken the boy to live with her in disreputable places; that his stepfather, now in an insane asylum, gave the boy drink and told him of matters far beyond his age, and that the boy often had to satisfy his hunger from garbage cans.

Two psychiatrists, Dr. C. H. Calhoun and Dr. Thomas A. Ratliff, called to the stand by Prosecutor Dudley M. Outcalt pointed out that, although the boy was of high intelligence, he had sadistic tendencies which could not be corrected by any known course of treatment.

COURT UPHOLDS FORM OF CHARGE AGAINST HINES

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey won a major point today in his preparations to try Tammany District Leader James J. Hines for conspiracy on a charge of policy racketeering when a Supreme court justice upheld a brief bill of particulars he submitted earlier this week.

Dewey said that the three public officers named in the bill were the only ones involved in evidence, but that they were not all who had been influenced by Hines and others in the 100 million dollar alleged conspiracy.

Two Sent to Leavenworth for Passing Bogus Bills

Sam Causa of La Salle and Walter Thompson of Sheridan, La Salle county, were sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge J. LeRoy Adair yesterday for possessing counterfeit notes. Causa got two years and Thompson fifteen months. Joseph Diamond of Spring Valley, Bureau county, was placed on probation for three years. The men were accused of passing spurious bills.

TEXANS PROTEST TO ICKES AFTER PWA DAM FLOOD

Charge Storage of Water for Power to Blame.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes has been deluged by protests from indignant Texas farmers and civic organizations, denouncing what they call the $5,000,000 "man made flood" in the Colorado river valley two weeks ago.

Mr. Ickes has dispatched a reclamation engineer, Harry W. Bashore, to investigate the operation of the $22,350,000 PWA Buchanan dam project, created with federal easy money for flood control, irrigation, and hydroelectric power.

What was predicted on the floor of the senate last June 9, when the administration's $376,700,000 omnibus flood control and power bill was passed, has happened in Texas.

Copeland Attack Recalled.

The late Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.], relying on the testimony of army engineers, told the senate that flood control and water power are incompatible; that for water power purposes a reservoir behind a dam must be kept full in order to feed the turbines, whereas, for flood control, the reservoir must be kept empty in order to receive and hold the flood waters when they come.

The Buchanan dam reservoir on the Colorado river, some 80 miles above Austin, Tex., was kept full of water, presumably for the maximum production of power, despite warnings for several days of record breaking rainfalls and floods on the tributaries of the Colorado, especially the San Saba.

Rich Crops Destroyed.

When the flood waters reached the Buchanan dam the reservoir already was full, so the dam spilled over and caused one of the greatest floods in the history of that part of the country, inundating several counties and destroying rich crops in the fertile valley lands.

After the disastrous floods, citizens' protest meetings were held in various parts of the valley and the charge was made that the Colorado River authority, a public agency operating the project, had deliberately subordinated flood control to water power production. The authority virtually admitted this in a statement, saying in part:

"The authority assumed responsibility of operating its project in such manner as to produce revenues sufficient to liquidate its indebtedness, and revenues can be derived only by putting impounded flood waters to beneficial uses.

Cheap Power, Their Alibi.

"The board feels that they owe an obligation to the people to see that the cheap power which may be generated from stored flood waters is made available to the people."

Directors of the Columbus, Tex., Chamber of Commerce sent a telegram to Mr. Ickes on July 27, saying:

"Today the Colorado River valley lies in wreck and ruin, inundated by one of the most disastrous floods in recent years, caused by very heavy rains in the Colorado river basin above Buchanan dam. The Buchanan flood control dam was being held full of water for purposes unexplainable. Rains occurred in the week and our information is the gates were not opened until Saturday, July 23, and when the water was loosed it was discharged in such tremendous volume it is now approaching the disastrous flood stage of 1935, which was the third highest in history."

Origin in Politics.

The Buchanan dam had its origin in politics during the early days of the Roosevelt administration, when Mr. Ickes was dispensing his first PWA appropriation of 3 billion 300 million. The project had been started by a subsidiary of the Insull utility interests but left uncompleted when the Insull empire collapsed. A private company was organized by a group of promoters for the purpose of completing the project with federal easy money.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation turned it down, as did the finance division of Mr. Ickes' PWA. However, great political pressure was brought to bear upon high places, with the late Representative James P. Buchanan [D., Tex.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, exerting much of the pressure. That accounted for the name of the dam.

One of Mr. Ickes' subordinates prepared a special confidential memorandum on the project, containing this statement: "The plan contemplates acquisition of said property by a corporation now being formed by Mr. R. W. Morrison of Texas, who is known to the President."

Mr. Morrison had been a heavy contributor to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign fund in 1932. He was one of Mr. Roosevelt's delegates to the London Economic conference in 1933 and later he served a short time, by appointment of Mr. Roosevelt, as a member of the board of governors of the federal reserve system.

Mr. Ickes did not approve the project until the Texas legislature created a public agency, the Colorado River authority, to take it over. How much Mr. Morrison made out of the deal was never disclosed. Originally intended to cost $4,500,000, the project actually cost $22,350,000. The PWA put up $7,350,000 in grants and $15,000,000 in loans.

The Buchanan dam fiasco is of national concern because of the passage at the last session of congress of the $376,700,000 omnibus flood control bill. As passed by the house and reported by the senate commerce committee, that measure carried out the recommendations of the army engineers for a comprehensive flood control program. Water power was to be incidental, with the army engineers having final authority as to the practicability of installing penstock dams for future power development.

Backed by Leader Barkley.

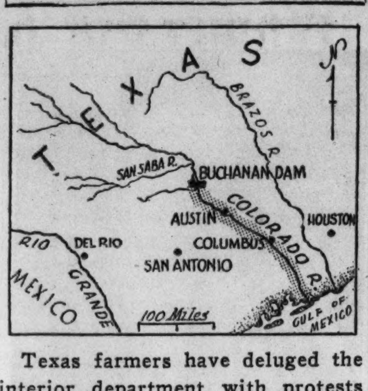
On the floor of the senate, however, Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky and Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.] offered two amendments, demanded by President Roosevelt and without any hearing or investigation they were enacted into law.

As enacted, the law requires the installation of power facilities whenever demanded by the federal power commission, subject only to the disapproval of the secretary of war, who is responsible to the President. Furthermore, the law requires the United States government to acquire, by purchase or condemnation, title to the lands, rights of way and easements in connection with all flood control projects.

Senate opponents of the measure, as amended, said it subordinated flood control to power and would serve as the framework for President Roosevelt's proposed nation-wide system of TVA's.

Senator Norris frankly expressed the real purpose of the administration amendments when he argued against vesting control of power installations in the corps of engineers.

"Man-Made Flood"



Texas farmers have deluged the interior department with protests against the $22,350,000 PWA Buchanan dam. Opponents of the dam project predicted that dams could not be built for flood control and water power. When the water from excessive rains reached the Buchanan dam two weeks ago, the reservoir was full of water to be used for power production. The water spilled over and flooded the river bottom in every county from the dam to the gulf (shaded area), causing a loss of $5,000,000.

The Most Severe Check for Aroma in Whiskey!

MAKE THIS REVEALING CHECK FOR BOUQUET, BODY, AROMA, FLAVOR

USE A "SNIFTER GLASS", SOMETIMES CALLED A "NOSE GLASS"
A tulip-shaped, thin, clear glass—holding about 4 ounces if filled to the top—but which is provided with an etched line as a marker where to stop pouring. If you don't own one of these glasses, use ordinary brandy snifter.

1 Fill the "snifter glass" to the line.
2 Now carefully warm the "snifter glass" with the whiskey in it.
3 Pour the whiskey, which you are checking, out of the glass.
4 Warm the glass again (rolling it between the hands).
5 Shake out the glass until you see it has become almost dry.
6 After 1 HOUR pick up glass, warm in hands, and note bouquet.
7 After 4 HOURS warm glass with hands, repeat check and note bouquet.
8 After 12 HOURS again warm glass with your hands and repeat the check.

PINT $1.75

NOTE If the bouquet still lingers after this protracted period, you hold in your possession a whiskey which has passed the most severe check that any whiskey can undergo.

Schenley's Bonded Belmont passes with flying colors!

It takes a truly great whiskey to pass a check as severe as this. To our knowledge, there is one whiskey that can meet it... Bonded Belmont. For Bonded Belmont is the real old-style Kentucky Bourbon of luxury unlimited... a Bourbon of body, bouquet and flavor deep as a diamond... a veritable gold mine of good taste!

LOSER MAVERICK C.I.O. RECRUITER, GREEN ASSERTS

Texan and A. F. L. Chief Wage Verbal Battle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Maury Maverick, the C. I. O. Democratic congressman from Texas who was defeated for renomination recently, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, enlivened the political scene today with a vigorous exchange in which the attitude of the A. F. of L. toward C. I. O. candidates was made clear by Green.

Maverick recently charged that his defeat was due in part to the opposition of Green's organization. He quoted Green as stating that anybody friendly with the Committee for Industrial Organization of John L. Lewis would be fought by the A. F. of L. regardless of his labor record.

Quotes Maverick Speech.

In a lengthy letter of reply made public today, Green asserted that Maverick had acted as a recruiting agent for the C. I. O. He quoted a speech made by Maverick in Detroit before the United Automobile workers in which the Texan said:

"This is a major sweep—this movement of the U. A. W. and the C. I. O.—it is a major move of the citizens of the United States of America. It is in the cards!"

"As a fortune teller," wrote Green, "Mr. Maverick read his cards in reverse. Despite his predictions, the country is now sweeping the C. I. O. into the discard.

"Aside from that, it must be remembered that the C. I. O. is a dual, rebel movement, seeking to destroy the American Federation of Labor and replace it.

Charges Aid to Enemies.

"Then how in the world could a candidate who voted against the American Federation of Labor, spoke in disparagement of it, and encouraged its avowed enemies expect the A. F. of L. to support him for reelection?

"It is my deeply considered opinion that Maury Maverick, aside from his frequent outbursts of asinine buffoonery, was an ill-tempered, ill-informed, unstable and half-baked legislator and therefore I congratulate the members of the American Federation of Labor in his district whose voters helped to defeat him."

Maverick related an interview he had with Green in which he asked for A. F. of L. support. He said he had mentioned his support of the American Federation of Teachers, an A. F. of L. affiliate. He quoted Green as exploding:

"I don't care anything about those teachers. They are half communist and C. I. O. anyway."

Denies Attacking A. F. of L.

He added that Green had wired to Texas a denunciation of him as a friend of the C. I. O. and one who had often attacked the A. F. of L. unjustly on the floor of congress. Maverick declared he had never attacked the A. F. of L.

Green asserted that Maverick's version of the interview was inaccurate and unture. He said he informed Maverick of the A. F. of L.'s opposition to him because he had definitely sided with the C. I. O.

"I did send a letter to A. F. of L. representatives in Texas denouncing Maverick," said Green. "I said of him that he had shown by his utterances and actions that he was more a C. I. O. agent than he was a congressman representing all the people of his congressional district."

Quotes Speech Praising Lewis.

Green quoted another speech made by Maverick at Swarthmore college in which Maverick said:

"I am for industrial unionism. And Bill Green, who is head of the American Federation of Labor, is a very nice gentleman but Mr. Lewis seems to be a great American labor leader. My sympathies are with industrial unionism and I am willing for all my people to know that."

"Well, we were willing for all the people of Mr. Maverick's district to know that," remarked Green.

He Goes to Reno

Errol Flynn and Lili Damita.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The whereabouts of screen star Errol Flynn and his plans for the next few weeks intrigued the film capital tonight after reports from Reno, Nev., that he had appeared in Nevada's divorce capital.

Flynn left his studio and his beautiful wife, Lili Damita, early yesterday, saying he was going to charter a boat and sail down the Mexican west coast.

Reno reports said he spent last night in a hotel there and checked out today, presumably for Lake Tahoe. Lili said she didn't know where Errol had gone. A close friend of the actor said he had left here by airplane, sending on to Reno his station wagon, a utility auto. United Airlines verified his departure for Reno. Flynn and Miss Damita have been married four years.

4,997 IN CHICAGO QUIT WPA ROLLS FOR REAL JOBS

Private employment has taken 4,997 persons from rolls of the Works Progress administration in Chicago during the last two months, H. K. Seltzer, district WPA director, said yesterday. The WPA was notified by 705 persons that they had obtained private jobs. The 4,292 others were dropped from the pay roll when they failed to report for work. "When a person fails to report for duty for a full pay roll period we assume he has other employment," Seltzer said.

BALKS AT GIVING DETAILS OF CASE AGAINST EARLE

Prosecutor Cites Court's Order to Committee.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—A special committee of the Pennsylvania legislature today was unable to make District Attorney Carl B. Shelley disclose the grand jury case he has prepared against Gov. George Earle.

The committee, which possesses power to imprison witnesses who refuse to answer questions, told Shelley to appear again Tuesday.

The committee asked him to reveal any evidence in support of charges of graft and corruption against the governor and the Democratic state administration.

Cites Court Order.

Instead of complying, Shelley, who is a Republican, submitted a copy of Judge Paul N. Schaeffer's order under which the evidence is impounded by the court.

The order, intended to prevent interference with the grand jury investigation, also directed Shelley and the chief complaining witnesses not to testify in the legislative inquiry. Judge Schaeffer will preside over the grand jury investigation.

The legislative committee then read into the record the subpena which was served on Shelley yesterday. It also reviewed the powers granted to it by the special session called by Gov. Earle to block the grand jury inquiry.

Refuses to Give Testimony.

Herbert B. Cohen, chairman of the legislative committee, and Abram Salsburg, counsel, attempted to question Shelley.

"You are availing yourself of the order of the court restraining you?" asked Salsburg.

"I am not availing myself of it," replied Shelley, "I am bound by it."

"And therefore you will not testify?" continued Salsburg.

"I do not propose to violate the court order," said Shelley.

"Then you refuse to testify," said Salsburg.

"Under the order of the court, I cannot testify," Shelley replied.

Contempt Action Blocked.

Salsburg complained to Cohen that Shelley was making it difficult for the committee to certify him for contempt before the house when it reconvenes Monday.

"The house cannot judge him in contempt," said Salsburg, "unless he has positively refused to testify."

Cohen then tried to elicit an unqualified refusal from Shelley, but was unable to do so. As last Earl B. Compton, assistant district attorney, warned Cohen that the pressure he was exerting to make Shelley violate the court order might expose Cohen to punishment for contempt of court.

One Home Town Gives Two Winners in Kansas Primary

Parsons, Kas., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—This little railroad town is the home of the two top place winners in the Republican primaries of last Tuesday.

Former Gov. Clyde M. Reed, who won the nomination for the United States senate in a four way race, is publisher of the town's newspaper. State Senator Payne H. Ratner is the nominee for governor. Fellow citizens last night held a celebration in their honor.

While Reed and Ratner did not work together in the primary campaign, friends of each point out that substantially the same organization supported the two Parsons' men for the nomination.

Senator Ratner had the backing of Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee in 1936, whose organization, built while he was governor for two terms, still is intact. Landon inherited his state organization, partially at least, from the Reed administration in 1929 and 1930. Landon helped organize the Republican party for Reed's governorship campaign, of which he was manager.

However, due to personal differences, Landon did not openly support Reed for the senatorial nomination. He announced privately that, if Reed was nominated, he would support him for election in November.

Politically both Landon and Reed are progressive, but they are said to have split in 1929 when Gov. Reed appointed Henry J. Allen as United States senator to fill the unexpired term of Charles Curtis, who resigned to become vice president.

During the primary campaign just closed, Henry Allen vigorously fought Senator Ratner, Landon's choice for governor, and was only lukewarm toward Reed's candidacy.

Party members have no fear that Reed will go over to the Roosevelt radicals when he gets in the senate, though he was friendly to the Roosevelt objectives, as expressed in 1933 and later. Reed's first open break with the Roosevelt program came when the President sent his Supreme court packing message to congress.

Reed Outlines Platform.

In a statement issued today at Parsons Reed said: "I shall go to the people of Kansas upon the platform that this state is entitled to another man in the senate who will stand upon his convictions, despite pressure from any source.

"In my campaign I tried to express my disagreement with the New Deal, upon fundamentals and some of its current program, without falling into the error of being too conventionally partisan and criticizing everything our opponents have done, or may do.

"With some of this program most of us Republicans agreed in the emergency of 1933. That emergency has passed and my present disagreement with the national administration is fundamental and not personal or partisan. The administration's present program is a menace to the country and must be changed if our form of government is to be preserved."

The publisher of the Parsons Sun, now 67 years old, was born at Champaign, Ill., in 1871. His parents brought him to Kansas in his childhood and he was educated in the Parsons schools.

For thirty years Reed was in the railway mail service, rising to superintendent of the railway adjustment division. He entered politics in 1919 as Gov. Henry J. Allen's secretary, later served on the ill-fated Allen industrial court, and still later on the public service commission.

Reed was elected governor in 1928, but was defeated two years later. Since then he has engaged in publishing his paper, in appearing before federal and state bodies on behalf of labor and farm organizations, and in looking after his mining properties in Arizona.

Opposes "Rubber Stamper."

Reed will oppose Senator McGill, an ardent New Dealer, who has the blessing of Guy T. Helvering, internal revenue commissioner, all-powerful in Kansas Democratic politics.

McGill is a native Kansan, a Wichita lawyer, who was unknown in politics until he ran for senator in 1932, opposing Ben S. Paulen, who had defeated Senator Henry J. Allen in the Republican primary.

McGill nas been accused by Reed, Knapp, and other Republicans of being a "rubber stamp" New Dealer. Reed's campaign against him will be made on that basis.

WE KEEP HOUSE

By CALEB

"I'D LIKE to wander through your store some evening after closing time," said a man as he paused to look at its lighted windows along State Street. "What a vast and silent place it must be then."

We agreed that he would find the trip interesting—but not at all as he imagined it. Instead of a quiet, sleeping place he would find himself in the center of strenuous and widespread activity. Not long after the last customer has departed, the housekeeping staff takes possession to begin its work of cleaning every inch of the store, carrying on far into the night.

The housekeepers' headquarters are like arsenals organized against dirt and disorder. Brooms and brushes in orderly ranks are on hand by the hundreds. Gallons of soap, scouring powders and cleaning compounds are ready, while vacuum cleaners, machines for polishing waxed floors, feather dusters, cloths and scrub brushes round out the list of weapons.

Among the salients to be covered are some two million square feet of floor space and five thousand or so panes of window glass. Thousands of lighting fixtures, acres of carpets, stairways, elevators, escalators, doorways—all must have their share of attention. The good housewife takes no keener pride in her home than do these wielders of household weapons in the store. The work continues during the day to keep things spick-and-span through hours of busy traffic on every floor.

And so the housekeeping force is divided into day and night groups. In all, there are well over two hundred men and women, each responsible for a small sector of the main front. The whole project has been systematized through the years until it moves with the smooth precision of clockwork.

We hold with the sage who remarked that the cleanliness and order of a man's house reflect his mind. The housekeeping we do is a matter of considerable moment to us. We give it a good deal of attention; we want it to reflect an orderly, systematic and scrupulously honest frame of mind.

We want to do as thorough a job behind counters as in front of them—no dust on high shelves out of sight, none left in corners hard to find. Only thus does our housekeeping reflect what we want it to of our business household.

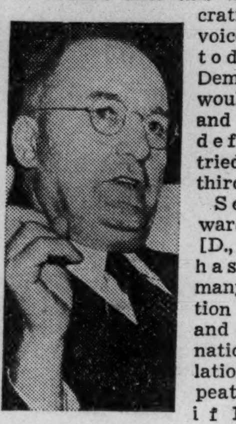
SENATOR BURKE RAPS PROPOSAL FOR THIRD TERM

Says Any Attempt Would Shatter Party.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4—(AP)—For the second time this week a Democratic senator voiced the view today that the Democratic party would be split and the President defeated if he tried to obtain a third term.



Senator E. R. Burke.

Senator Edward R. Burke [D., Neb.], who has opposed many administration measures and criticized the national labor relations board repeatedly said that if President Roosevelt ran for a third term it would "split the Democratic party into a thousand pieces."

Earlier in the week Senator James Hamilton Lewis [D., Ill.], an administration stalwart and Democratic whip of the senate, expressed a somewhat similar view. Lewis expressed the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt could be reëlected only if a third party sprang up, threatening government ownership of private enterprise and repudiation of government securities, and business appealed to the President to stay in power.

Favors Single Term.

Burke, who placed before the last congress a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to limit terms of Presidents to one six year term, said he would reintroduce the resolution when the next congress convenes. He said the length of the term was not of much concern to him and that he would be just as well content to have it set at seven or eight years as six.

In 1913 the senate passed a resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to limit the term of the President to one of six years, but it died in the house.

Hold One Term Enough.

Burke said the government's operations had become such vast enterprises that it was unfair to ask any man who had served one term to try for another.

"I have no idea as to President Roosevelt's thought on the matter," the Nebraskan added. "He thinks he can carry out his program better than any one else. In this situation there always will be people around who will urge him to seek a third term.

"I don't think any man could be elected to a third term. President Roosevelt probably could come as close as anybody, but he would be defeated. I personally would oppose anyone seeking a third term under any circumstance."

Senator Burke also took a slap at Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania. Burke said that action of Earle in asking a legislative rather than grand jury investigation of charges in connection with Pennsylvania's primary election might provide grounds for contesting his seat in the senate in the event he is elected.

G. O. P. Speakers Disdain Hot Weather Siesta; Assail Foes

BY PARKE BROWN.

Two speakers at a public meeting of the program committee of the Republican national committee last night departed from the previously observed rule of keeping all utterances at the midsummer conference academic and impersonal.

Charles P. Taft II.

Charles P. Taft II., son of William Howard Taft, talked about the lack of administrative ability in Washington, mentioned Roosevelt and other Democratic leaders by name, and even described the President as an amazing combination of machine politician and master mind. He said that widespread extravagances are not due to a leak, but to the suction pump of the Democrats.

Charges Relief Corruption.

Robert L. Johnson, former relief administrator for the state of Pennsylvania, who is now president of the National Civil Service Reform league, repeatedly asserted in a matter of fact way that the present administration is using relief funds for political purposes and charged it with wastefulness and corruption. He declared that the relief problem must be turned back to the states gradually.

While it has been rumored that mention of personalities has been frequent in some of the round tables of the program committee during the last four days, those meetings have been closed to the public and the press. In the series of nightly public meetings in Thorne hall on the Chicago campus of Northwestern university the speakers until last night had been so restrained that some auditors suggested they followed a form of censorship instructions.

Foresees Victory Combination.

That was not true of Taft, who started into straight political talk in the first paragraph of his speech. There he voiced a belief that the Republicans, with the right program, will see the conservative Democrats in 1940 joining with the 17 million 1936 G. O. P. voters to put the Roosevelt forces out of power.

"Don't worry about the purchase of the election through the expenditure of government money," he said. "Its effect in a general election has been exaggerated. Such purchase cannot be accomplished against a united conservative party. Our main problem is intelligent union.

"We are opposed to conglomeration of ill assorted political groups who find unity only in the leadership of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Challenges Liberal Label.

"A part of these groups style themselves Liberals. We challenge their right to any such designation. The other part are apostles of political realism. Headed by James A. Farley and flanked by Kelly and Nash of Chicago and Pendergast of Kansas City, they are lineal descendants of Machiavelli and his theory that the end they claim to seek justifies any kind of political methods.

"The President himself is an amazing combination of the machine politician and the master mind who knows all the answers.

"The master mind is a technician, an engineer, seldom an administrator. The machine politician is single-minded in seeking and retaining power, but is likewise seldom an administrator.

Suction Pump Gets Money.

"In every great department of the federal government and in every state, the money of the taxpayer—which means the money of every citizen—is leaking away. At least from the standpoint of the taxpayer it looks like a leak. In fact, it is a suction pump, the suction pump of the Democratic national and state organizations."

Johnson charged that in addition to building up political machines among relief workers, Democratic leaders have impressed reliefers with the belief that unless they vote for Democrats their only means of livelihood will be taken away.

At the close of the evening meeting Dr. Glenn Frank, chairman of the committee, announced that tonight's session had been canceled.

PRESIDENT HOOKS SHARK, SAILFISH WITHOUT A HOOK!

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Aug. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, at his first press conference in thirty days, after his arrival here today, told about winning the big fish prize yesterday when the cruiser Houston paused in its 540 mile trip from the Cocos Islands.

The prize winner was a 230 pound shark, which the President said was the biggest fish he ever caught. He added that he never wanted to catch another like it. For an hour and thirty-five minutes the President played the shark before hauling it in.

Gets Sailfish Without Hook.

Then he related that he caught a 100 pound sailfish several days ago—without a hook.

After feeling a strike on his line, he said, three sailfish besides the one on his line jumped out of the water. When his catch was dragged in his line was found tied around the fish's beak and the hook was gone. Mr. Roosevelt said he guessed this was the first time anybody had caught a sailfish without a hook.

The chief executive appeared in glowing health after a nineteen day fishing trip in the Pacific. Wearing an open necked sports shirt, Mr. Roosevelt received United States and Central American newspaper men aboard the Houston. He said the good neighbor policy in the Americas is proving a success.

Praises Chaco Peace Treaty.

Asked regarding the Chaco peace treaty signed by Bolivia and Paraguay, the President said all were happy that the long negotiations had been successful.

He declared the Chaco pact showed what could be done by the entire American continent in favor of peace.

President Juan D. Arosemena of Panama, Gov. Clarence S. Ridley of the Canal Zone, high army and navy dignitaries were received aboard the Houston for tea. Later fifty old timers who spent at least four years on the original construction of the Panama canal were guests at a presidential reception.

Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early said the Houston would visit Providence Islands in the Bahamas for one final day of fishing before arriving in Pensacola, Fla., Tuesday.

GARNER FOR PRESIDENT IS URGED BY TEXAS DEMOCRATIC LEADER

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A Texas delegation instructed to vote for John N. Garner for President in the 1940 national Democratic convention was urged here today by Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, state director of finance for the Democratic national committee.

"I am confident that Vice President Garner is the presidential choice of a majority of the Democrats of the nation, and that we have an excellent chance to win the nomination for him in 1940," Miller said in an interview.

RUSSIA ACCEPTS JAP PEACE BID WITH A WARNING

Refuses to Permit Tokio Dictate Terms.

commissions," Shigemitsu was quoted as saying. "For the time being, however, one must talk in a practical way about the cessation of hostilities."

Once in Hands of China.

In reply to Shigemitsu's contention that the maps cited by the soviet government never had been published and that it would be "unwise to settle the incident on such a basis," Litvinov suggested:

"It is not our fault if Tokio fails to possess maps and agreements which were in possession of the Chinese government and should be in the hands of Manchukuo."

The communique said that the matter of concern by the commission must not be the establishment of a new frontier, but "demarcation [installation of frontier posts] or redemarcation of the frontier on the basis of existing agreements."

The outcome of the conference and the fact that the Changkufeng fighting had not spread indicated the incident would not develop into a major conflict.

Report Further Firing.

TOKIO, Aug. 4 [Friday].—(AP)—A Japanese army communique today said the Changkufeng battle zone, which dominates Possiet bay, a soviet naval anchorage 140 miles southwest of Vladivostok, Russia's great Pacific base, was comparatively quiet, "although occasionally soviet artillery directed shots at Japanese positions" The Japanese said the Corean village of Kojo still was under sporadic bombardment.

The empire's capital and other major cities of eastern Japan were blanketed in darkness last night and early today as a result of the frontier fighting in which soviet airplanes played a part.

Taking cognizance of the proximity of Vladivostok, only 700 miles to the west, and other soviet sea bases, authorities ordered "partial light control as a precautionary measure.

Trap Guerrilla Band.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 5 [Friday].—(AP)—A band of 3,000 Chinese guerrillas was reported surrounded and facing annihilation today by Japanese forces in the Hangchow area, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, territory nominally under Japanese control.

Yangtze river floods aided the Chinese, who said dikes broken by rising waters thirty miles above Kiukiang had inundated large areas and threatened to block the Japanese advance toward Hankow.

At Hangchow Japanese troops posted machine gun guards around the British operated Church Missionary Society hospital and removed 103 wounded Chinese soldiers. Hospital authorities told the British embassy the Japanese in doing so failed to recognize the British flag and violated a written agreement providing that the wounded should remain in the institution for the duration of the war.

Agree to Negotiate

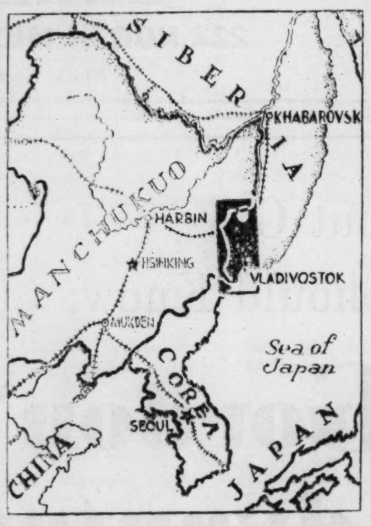
Russia has given conditional acceptance of Japan's proposal for a peaceful settlement of the dispute over Manchukuan-Siberian border which caused the Changkufeng fighting (see arrow). Japan bases its contentions on boundary posts which locate the border as above. Russia bases its contentions on a map attached to the Chinese-Russian treaty of 1886. Moscow possesses the sole original of the map. Location of the area contained in the map above is represented by the black oblong in the map below.



BAIT NAZIS WITH TRADE IN BEHALF OF FLEEING JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Trade concessions to Germany as an inducement to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to permit Jews fleeing from Nazi persecution to take part of their money with them were discussed here by the international refugee committee tonight.

Present plans are that the United States and British ambassadors in Berlin will inform the German government of the committee's aims.

Apart from getting financial aid for the Jews, the committee also seeks to induce Berlin to spread the flow of emigrants over a period of years. It is suggested the governments concerned should take more imports from Germany to compensate for the increased demand on Germany's foreign exchange which would arise by permitting the refugees to take part of their funds out of the countrf.

SPANISH REBELS BATTLE TO SAVE "KEY TO TERUEL"

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 4.—(AP)—Loyalist troops drove forward to the outer defenses of Albarracin, called the key to Teruel, in eastern Spain. today. At noon they attacked the reinforced insurgent defensive positions, from which the rebels fought desperately to protect the town.

Albarracin is fourteen miles west of Teruel, provincial capital, which has changed hands twice during the two years of civil war.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the insurgents' corridor to the Mediterranean, loyalist and rebel troops were locked in a determined struggle before Gandesa, on the Ebro river.

Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel commander in chief, has concentrated his forces there in a major effort to block effectively any farther progress in the loyalists' Catalonian offensive which began July 25.

Truck Sets Off Land Mine in Palestine; 6 Jews Die

JERUSALEM, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Six Jews, two of them women, were killed and eleven were seriously injured today by a land mine explosion near Kfar Saba, in the plain of Sharon between Samaria and the Mediterranean sea. The mine was buried in a road and was set off when it was struck by a truckload of Jewish laborers.

CZECHS WARNED TO END FLIGHTS OVER NAZI SOIL

Berlin Threatens to Use "Defense Measures."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—The German government warned tonight that "further border violations by Czech airplanes" will cause Germany to take "the same measures France took against Spain," and that violators of the borders must reckon with the possibility of defense measures.

[French anti-aircraft guns have fired on Spanish war planes when they crossed the border into French territory.]

Throughout the day the German press attacked Czechoslovakia, asserting that the flight of two Czech military planes over the German border at Glatz yesterday was intentional. Occupants of the planes photographed the Glatz fortress, it was charged.

Dr. Vojtech Mastny, Czech minister, called at the foreign office this morning to extend his government's apologies. The flyers, he said, flew across the border only after they lost their way during a training flight. He said they turned back when they recognized they had left their own country.

Germans Scoff at Claims.

German papers ignored the envoy's visit and apology. They scoffed, however, at the idea that the flyers lost their way. Visibility, they said, was excellent and the Glatz fortress was bedecked with swastika flags in honor of the Breslau Turner festival.

The Germans insisted upon "exemplary punishment for the flyers and their superiors."

The Berliner Tageblatt warned that a "dangerous situation will develop if the Czech government continues to tolerate deliberately staged border incidents which sabotage Runciman's mediation action."

[Viscount Runciman, former president of the British board of trade, is now in Prague hearing evidence on Czechoslovakia's minorities problem. He is seeking to solve the question of autonomy for the various minorities in Czechoslovakia, especially the Sudeten Germans, who are pro-Nazi and backed by Reichsfuehrer Hitler.]

"Responsible men in Prague must realize no state can tolerate military reconnoitering flights over its territory," the Tageblatt said, "and that Germany will take the necessary precautions when the occasion arises."

CZECHS VOICE REGRET

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Aug. 4.—Czechoslovakia's government voiced regret today that two Czech planes flew over the German border city of Glatz yesterday, an incident which brought a sharp protest from Berlin. The aviators will be punished, officials said.

Yesterday's incident threatened for a time to complicate the work of Viscount Runciman, who arrived in Prague yesterday as a mediator in the Czechs' minorities dispute.

Runciman tackled the minorities problem in earnest today. He called on President Eduard Benes and Premier Dr. Milan Hodza. In his hotel he received representatives of the Sudeten Germans.

A curious element was added to the situation by the arrival in Prague of Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador to Berlin. He had traveled by plane from Warsaw, Poland, where he conferred with the American ambassador. Wilson insisted his visit was unofficial.

FASCISTS CHARGE CATHOLICS WITH SHOW BOYCOTTS

Press Assails Pope for His Opposition.

ROME, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Il Regime Fascista of Cremona, a newspaper which reflects the views of Fascist extremists, today carried on the controversy between the Catholic church and Fascism which became an open one in the exchange between Pope Pius XI. and Premier Mussolini over the Fascist race doctrin.

The newspaper, published by Roberto Farinacci, former Fascist party secretary, complained that the Rome vicarage of the Catholic church had promoted a boycott of a Fascist exposition.

It said the boycott was based on moral objections to the bathing costumes in swimming pools at an exposition of the "after work" organization in the circus maximus.

Hits Catholic Coolness.

The paper is an advocate of Italian anti-Semitism and also persistently has attacked what it considers to be indications of Catholic coolness toward Fascism. It recently questioned the compatibility of membership in Catholic Action and the Fascist party at the same time.

Mussolini's newspaper at Milan, Il Popolo d'Italia, meanwhile explained that a prohibition against Jewish foreign students was a "defense measure" necessitated by an influx of Jewish refugees from Germany, Danubian and Balkan countries.

The government yesterday barred foreign Jews from Italian schools, a measure of limited scope since it does not affect Italian Jews. The Milan newspaper said it had been necessary to dismiss Italian workers to make room for the newcomers.

Italian Jews considered the decree significant, as the first practical step in line with the newly announced Fascist doctrine that Jews "do not belong to the Italian race." Creditable sources foresaw early appearance of a law governing activities of Italian Jews.

Ask Waiters' Ban on Jews.

VIENNA, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Waiters in Viennese coffee houses today were asked to sign declarations that they favor a ban on Jewish patronage in their establishments. Some of the waiters assured their Jewish patrons they felt they were signing their economic death warant because Jews were their chief customers.

Child Plays With Matches and Is Fatally Burned

Burns suffered when his clothing caught fire from a match, caused the death of Anthony Tuleo, 2 years old, in St. Anthony's hospital last night. The boy found a package of matches in his home at 3034 Taylor street, and lighted one. His screams attracted his father, Joseph, who beat out the flames. The youngster was already burned, however, on the face, chest, and abdomen.

What Money Cannot Buy—

Pictured above, as proudly displayed upon the coat sleeve of a veteran passenger conductor, are the symbols* of a full half-century of Illinois Central service.

These symbols stand for experienced dependability—a characteristic which money cannot buy and one for which both the railroads and their employes are distinguished.

A railroad is dependable because it combines sound track, strong trains, known rates, financial responsibility and experienced employes who thoroughly know their jobs.

Notably fortunate in the latter respect, the Illinois Central has 8,000 employes who have worked for the road a quarter-century or more, and its total personnel represents an aggregate service record approaching a million years.

The Illinois Central is now in its eighty-eighth year. A great deal has been learned throughout these years that insures dependable service for shippers and travelers.

GUARDS PROTECT MACHINERY FOR LOMBARD HOMES

Start Work Today; Aid of Contractor Seized.

Excavating machinery was delivered under heavy guard yesterday to the scene of the recent strike violence in Lombard and preparations were made to resume work there today. Sherif Arthur Bennett of Du Page county declared trucks carrying materials would be fully protected. Police Chief Richard Groote said his men would be on guard night and day.

The day did not pass, however, without a new incident to plague William Wallace, the contractor, a member of the Landis Award Employers' association. This was the arrest of Louis J. Wing, 65 years old, former Chicago policeman who was assigned by the Landis Award association to help guard Wallace's equipment. He was arrested by Sherif Bennett because he was carrying a pistol.

Trouble Begins with Strike.

The trouble at the project—the erection of two homes at Ash and Martha streets in Lombard—began on June 14 when a strike was called by the powerful Du Page Building Trades council. Since that time pickets have prevented Wallace's men from delivering materials.

On July 27, Warren B. Bolton, truck driver for Wallace, was brutally beaten when he tried to make a delivery at the site of the project. Three men have been arrested in connection with the assault and the Du Page county grand jury is investigating labor terrorism in the area. On July 30, Gov. Horner called on Sherif Bennett to preserve order in the county.

Deputies Convoy Machinery.

Yesterday, accompanied by a guard of Cook county deputy sherifs, Wallace and Bolton transported an excavator from the village of Schaumberg, twelve miles away in Cook county, to Ash and Martha streets in Lombard. At the Du Page county line, Sherif Bennett and eight of his deputies were waiting. They convoyed the machinery from there on.

Pickets were on duty at the project and several union men were gathered across the street, but they made no effort to interfere. When the truck carrying the excavator was stopped and Wing stepped out, Sherif Bennett saw that he was carrying a gun.

On being arrested, Wing said he has a permit to carry a pistol in Cook county.

"That is no good in Du Page county," Bennett told him. Wing was arraigned before Justice of the Peace W. H. Johnson at Wheaton and was held to the grand jury in bond of $1,000, which was posted later in the day.

Springfield Milk Drivers' Strike Endangers Supply

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Delivery of milk and other dairy products here partially was halted today in a dispute over a contract between employers and the American Federation of Labor milk drivers' union. The drivers declared a strike at one dairy plant and operators of six others announced they had removed equipment from the streets "until such time as officials feel it is safe to resume deliveries."

MAYTAG PLANT REOPENS UNDER RULE OF TROOPS

1,000 Workers Back; CIO Votes to Return.

BY CHARLES PURVIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newton, Ia., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—C. I. O. strikers returned to their jobs at the Maytag Washing Machine company today as the plant reopened under martial law on orders of Gov. Nels G. Kraschel. More than 1,000 men were reported at work this afternoon at machines that had been idle for three months.

Members of the union, whose strike on May 9 kept more than 1,400 employés idle, voted 378 to 161 to return to work. Thus ended, temporarily at least, what many persons had considered an attempt by the C. I. O. to make Newton the opening wedge for the capture of Iowa's industries.

Workers Hurry to Plant.

Men who had worked little or none for the last three months hurried to the big plant early this afternoon. Some grinned sheepishly as they passed through lines of National Guardsmen and entered. Once they were inside the wheels of the town's main source of employment soon were humming.

The men returned to work without a contract under a settlement announced last night by Gov. Kraschel. The governor, who had acted as a mediator, termed the settlement the best proposal the company would make. It provided that the men return under the 10 per cent wage cut which precipitated the strike, but provided for future wage increases if business warants.

Members of the C. I. O. made it plain, in the stormy session at noon in which they voted to go back to work, that they were returning under protest. They asserted they will seek to reopen negotiations when the troops are withdrawn.

Townsfolk Are Optimistic.

While there were indications peace would exist only so long as the National Guard remains in Newton, townsfolk believed the trouble would soon simmer down.

About half of the Maytag employés joined a back to work movement several weeks ago, and it was believed that more than half of the others would work peaceably.

Alice Gillen, Jasper county relief director, announced that relief for Maytag employés ceased with the reopening of the plant. The strike caused 383 persons to go on relief.

At its meeting today the C. I. O. adopted resolutions criticizing Gov. Kraschel and charging that he had coerced the union into accepting his proposition under threat of opening the plant with the armed guard. Maj. Gen. Mathew A. Tinley, in command of troops that have kept this community under martial law for two weeks, took part in the negotiation conferences.

C. I. O. Officer Seized.

William Sentner, district head of the C. I. O., was arrested by National Guardsmen for questioning soon after the C. I. O. meeting. He is under indictment on two charges of criminal syndicalism and had been free on a contempt of court charge in connection with the strike trouble.

The political aftermath of Gov. Kraschel's part in the strike was the subject of much speculation. He had been accused of shuttling back and forth, first favoring one disputant and then the other in an effort to win support in his campaign for reëlection.

John Connolly Jr., attorney for the C. I. O. and a Democratic leader in Des Moines, indicated that the governor had lost considerable ground. The attorney told the C. I. O. that there probably will be "some political suicides in Iowa over this."

Clashes with United States.

The governor's desperate attempts to effect a settlement were attributed to a clash between his own authority and that of the federal government, which he aroused by using troops to stop a national labor relations board hearing into the strike. The governor had charged that the hearing was a disturbing factor in the strike and was impeding its settlement.

The board, however, moved its hearing from Newton to the federal courthouse in Des Moines and prepared for a test of the case.

Last night the governor backed down and withdrew his orders for troops to stop the hearing.

WOUNDED MINISTER ADMITS BEING SHOT AS WINDOW PEEPER

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The Rev. Frank C. Guyatt, 40 years old, Dublin, Ind., minister and Indianapolis salesman, confessed to police today he was peeping into the window of a home here Tuesday night shortly before he was seriously wounded by a shotgun charge.

The pastor, a Canadian war veteran, was shot by a resident who had earlier chased away a prowler from his home. Later he encountered Guyatt at the rear of the home, he said, and after the preacher struck at him he fired the gun. Guyatt said at first he was in the neighborhood on business. He will be prosecuted on a peeping Tom charge if he recovers.

Guyatt blamed his behavior on stories he had read in spicy magazines and books. He admitted he used a wire to insert through a screen to raise the window shade.

THINK TWICE MADAM, BEFORE YOU WASH CLOTHES IN CHEAP SOAP CHIPS

This Can Happen:

1 Cheap soap chips can all too quickly take the life and color out of fabrics by employing harmful alkali and harsh chemicals.
2 Cheap soap chips can cause you needless back-breaking rubbing to remove dirt because they produce thin, weak suds.
3 Cheap soap chips can cause your clothes to wear out long before their time by requiring ruinous boiling, scrubbing and rubbing.

OH, DON'T MAKE THAT MISTAKE, DEAR. I TRIED SOME CHEAP SOAP CHIPS AND WHAT THEY COST ME IN WORN CLOTHES WAS A PITY. THAT'S WHY I NEVER USE ANYTHING NOW EXCEPT AMERICAN FAMILY FLAKES.

Thousands of women will tell you that this is the safe way to get clothes clean

ARE you being "penny-wise" and "pound-foolish" about the soap you use? Are you entrusting your wash to cheap soap chips that require ruinous boiling, rubbing and scrubbing—in order to save a few pennies? Then read the next statement carefully: It is ruinous boiling, scrubbing and rubbing that all too often cause clothes to wear out long before their time. Actually rob you of many months of service you rightfully deserve.

American Family Flakes work on an altogether different, safe principle. First, these famous flakes are guaranteed not to contain harmful alkali or harsh chemicals. Second, they are especially made for the hard water of this region. Third, laboratory tests have proved that American Family Flakes contain more suds-making material than other package soaps tested.

American Family Flakes dissolve almost the instant they hit the water into rich, active suds. Even grimiest spots come out without back-breaking rubbing and the rest of the dirt seems to soak loose like magic. That is why the wash comes out sparkling white and sweet-smelling; why colored fabrics are gay and brilliant; why even daintiest fabrics are perfectly safe in the rich, gentle suds of American Family Flakes.

Get a box of American Family Flakes from your dealer. Your very first wash will prove a revelation as you see your clothes come out gloriously clean with so little work on your part. Then and there you will prove that you will never want to use cheap soap chips again. And before long, you will know why American Family is the largest-selling brand of soap in this territory—and why thousands of women say: "It is cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes." Made by Procter & Gamble.

JUSTICE DELAYS SIDLEY INQUEST INJUNCTION SUIT

Executors' Lawyers Will Quiz Crown Witnesses.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Court proceedings in an injunction suit to stop the inquest into the death of Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, Racine, Wis., malted milk heiress, today were continued until Sept. 9.

The delay means that the public inquiry into the death of the eccentric American cannot be resumed before Oct. 1. An appeal will be taken despite whatever disposition the Ontario courts make of the injunction suit, and a final ruling in the matter cannot be obtained before October, according to crown attorneys.

Today's postponement was granted by Justice Roach upon the plea of D. L. McCarthy and R. H. Sankey, attorneys who represent four of the five executors of Mrs. Sidley's three million dollar estate.

Seek to Quizz Witnesses.

The lawyers asked for time to interview nine persons called as witnesses by the crown lawyers who oppose the injunction. The witnesses have made affidavits which the crown agents have filed with the court. The interviews, which will be conducted privately, will relate to testimony given in the affidavits.

W. B. Common and C. R. Magone, crown lawyers, made no objection to the postponement. They knew that, in any event, the plaintifs are entitled to a thirty day delay to procure and post a bond to cover court costs. This is necessary because none of them is a Canadian resident.

The court action today virtually places the affair Sidley in a stalemate. The first phase of what is expected ultimately to be a legal fight over Mrs. Sidley's will has come to a temporary standstill. The battle lines remain tightly drawn, but the engagement cannot be forced until fall.

Mrs. Sidley died July 6 in the Toronto home of W. Perkins Bull, financier and attorney. She had been a guest there for more than a year and had been seriously ill for several weeks before her death.

Will Disposes of Wealth.

On April 8 she drew up a will disposing of her wealth. That document, now on file in the Racine courts, left Bull $250,000 and a third interest in her residual estate after other bequests were fulfilled. Mrs. Sidley made similar provisions for her only son, William Sidley.

After terms of the will became known Sidley, who is 21 years old, and Alexander J. Horlick, one of Mrs. Sidley's two brothers, indicated they would contest the will. They will attempt to probate one of three earlier wills Mrs. Sidley made over the period 1924 to 1934.

In recent weeks it was disclosed in Toronto that Sidley's campaign was begun even before his mother's death. On July 4 he arranged for an inquest after her death and had consulted Ontario authorities.

Quiz Ordered in Death.

After Mrs. Sidley's death the Canadian inheritance tax investigators began examining her financial affairs and G. D. Conant, attorney general of Ontario, ordered police to make an investigation.

It was disclosed that physicians attending Mrs. Sidley at Bull's home had refused to allow specialists her son brought to Toronto to see her during the days immediately before her death. Toronto medical experts also were barred from the patient.

Inheritance tax investigators ordered all of Mrs. Sidley's and Bull's bank accounts frozen for purpose of a general audit. This audit recently was completed, but the order holding all funds and accounts in the banks has not been rescinded.

On July 26 Coroner Smirle Lawson of Toronto opened the inquest. Attorney McCarthy, who announced that he represented all the executors appointed under Mrs. Sidley's April will except her son, protested.

Protest Is Overruled.

Coroner Lawson overruled his protest and John Moore, chauffeur for Mrs. Sidley for months before her death, testified to her eccentricities and her penchant for writing checks for large amounts and handing them to members of the Bull household.

After this hearing, which lasted less than two hours, the four executors filed the injunction petition.

The legal action here has clearly defined the two groups that may engage in the struggle over Mrs. Sidley's will.

On one side, of course, will be young Sidley and A. J. Horlick. On the other will be William Horlick, Mrs. Sidley's second brother; Col. B. F. Ferrand; Andrea Pultz, and Bernard F. Magruder.

Executors Under April Will.

All the latter group are executors under the April will. Col. Ferrand and Magruder both were given sizable bequests in the will. Magruder is the sole executor of the estate of Mrs. William Horlick Sr., mother of Mrs. Sidley, who died in Racine three days after her daughter's death.

Bull is not a party to any of the proceedings here, and he would not be, officially, a party to any will contest. The defendants in such an action would be the executors.

However, Bull is friendly to the four executors who are supporting the injunction suit. An affidavit by him was filed in court in support of the petition. Bull's personal attorneys have been attending the legal conferences over various matters that have arisen in the courts.

In the will contest Bull would be in the position of an outsider. Undoubtedly he would be called as a witness.

Mrs. Rix was arrested after her car struck and fatally injured Charles Coffin, 45 years old, 15309 Paulina street, Harvey, at Michigan avenue and 13th street on July 7. Witnesses testified that Mrs. Rix was not responsible for the accident. She had previously been cleared by a coroner's jury.

RUNS DOWN 7 ON HIS 2D ATTEMPT AT DRIVING AUTO

Machine Strikes Crowd Awaiting Street Car.

Seven persons were injured yesterday when an errand boy, driving an automobile for the second time, plowed into a crowd of persons waiting for a street car at Blue Island avenue and 18th street.

The driver was Irwin Beausejour, 1311 West 15th place. Although 20 years old, he told Maxwell street police he can neither read nor write. He said he lost control of the car. After striking six of the victims, the car continued over the curb, hitting a newsstand and injuring the owner, Morris Sachs, 1347 West 18th street. Beausejour was not hurt.

All Expected to Recover.

All of the injured were taken to St. Anthony's hospital. Besides Sachs they are Mrs. Anna Parme, 1644 West 18th street; John Misukawicz, 1739 West 18th street; Mrs. Belle Nichols, 1850 South Springfield avenue; Andrew Kerabike, 1658 West 18th street; Frank J. Vonasek, 2123 South 59th avenue, and Mrs. Margaret Koch, 1647 West 14th place. All are expected to recover.

Beausejour told the police that he took a machine owned by Ted Pechousek, 4908 West Monroe street, when sent on an errand. Beausejour said he left school three years ago when he was in the fourth grade. Both Pechousek and Beausejour are employed by the H. C. Christians company, 1550 Blue Island avenue, butter and egg dealers.

Car Overturns; Kills Woman.

Miss Odelia Heimer, 30 years old, 3305 Diversey parkway, was killed and five other persons were injured, four of them critically, early yesterday when the car in which they were riding plunged from the pavement and overturned several times at Skokie road, one-half mile north of Lake street, Wilmette.

Mrs. Helen Gabrich, 34 years old, 13516 Brandon avenue, died in the Roseland Community hospital last night of injuries incurred last Friday in an automobile accident in which her husband Peter Gabrich, 50, was killed. Five other persons were injured. The accident occurred at 130th street and Doty avenue.

Mrs. Edna Schultz, 48 years old, 5841 North Drake avenue, died in the Swedish Covenant hospital yesterday from burns suffered Sunday when the parked car in which she was sitting at Peterson avenue near Kimball avenue, caught fire after it was hit by another machine. Mrs. Schultz' daughter, Roma, 20 years old, who was also injured in the crash, died Monday. Her husband, Matthew, was seriously injured. Police are seeking the driver of the other car.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 487 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 375 were killed in Chicago, where 11,136 were injured in the same period.

EXPECT TO FINISH UNIFIED TRANSIT PLAN IN 4 WEEKS

Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], chairman of the city council's committee on local transportation, said yesterday that a preliminary draft of a transit unification ordinance would be completed in the next four weeks so that public hearings could be started soon after Labor day. Representatives of the surface lines, elevated railways, and bus company began conferences this week with a council subcommittee to draft the ordinance.

Yesterday's meeting, Quinn said, was concerned with preliminary discussions of three major issues—the regulatory powers to be granted to a new Chicago transit commission, the valuations to be placed on the traction properties, and the rate and type of compensation to be paid to the city.

Hits Bus While Driving 60 Miles an Hour; Fined

Julius Bucsa, 18 years old, 1241 North Shore avenue, whose automobile collided with a Chicago Surface Lines bus at Menard and Montrose avenues on Wednesday, was fined $25 by Judge Lambert K. Hayes in Boy's court yesterday. The charge was reckless driving. Joseph Benedict, 2800 North avenue, the bus driver, testified that Bucsa was driving 60 miles an hour. Benedict and four passengers were shaken by the collision.

SYPHILIS WAR SHOWS ADVANCE ON TWO FRONTS

More Cases Treated, and Fewer Are Infectious.

The number of syphilitics seeking treatment in Chicago has increased 12 per cent. At the same time the number of cases diagnosed as infectious has decreased 33 per cent.

These significant facts were disclosed yesterday in a comparison of syphilis cases reported to the board of health from January through July with cases reported for the corresponding months of 1937.

Anti-syphilis leaders regarded the trend as evidence that the city's campaign against venereal disease is making progress in [1] draining the vast pool of unknown syphilis in the general population, and [2] arresting the early cases which are the principal sources of the disease's spread.

9,007 Cases Under Treatment.

The board of health's own venereal disease clinic, other clinics, and private physicians reported 9,007 cases under treatment compared with 7,977 for the first seven months of 1937. Despite the increase in case-finding, the infectious cases reported dropped from 1,361 to 929.

While the Chicago anti-syphilis campaign began in January, 1937, the board of health's field testing program was not started until late in the fall. In the first seven months of 1938, 68,031 persons volunteered for blood tests.

Nearly 5,000 of these persons had positive reactions, indicating a syphilis infection. Treatment, however, is not begun until a clinical diagnosis has been made.

Increased Laboratory Load.

The city laboratory's work of testing blood samples has increased 250 per cent. It ran 188,447 syphilis tests in the first seven months of 1938 as compared to 53,352 in the same period last year. The daily attendance at the city clinic increased from 728 in January, 1937, to 1,272 in December and 1,646 last month.

The number of cases reported by the board of health clinic increased 1,135; by private physicians, 507. Private clinics, however, recorded a decrease of 612. The three classifications reported 4,340, 2,089, and 2,578 cases respectively in the last seven months.

Of the persons seeking tests at the city's 39 field stations, 72 per cent were under 35 years old, the age bracket where syphilis strikes most frequently. The 28 per cent over 35, nevertheless, had 42 per cent of the syphilis infections.

WM. J. MOXLEY, FORMER G. O. P. LEADER, IS DEAD

Funeral services for Col. William J. Moxley, former Republican leader and congressman from the 6th district, will be held in Our Lady of Grace church, 2455 North Hamlin avenue, at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Col. Moxley died yesterday in the home of his son, George T. Moxley, at Lake Geneva, Wis. He was 87 years old.

Born in Ireland, Col. Moxley came to Chicago in his early childhood. After attending the public schools he entered the teaming business. He became acquainted with Thomas Gallagher, an iron molder, and William Lorimer, a street car conductor, and followed them into politics. All three men became congressmen. Col. Moxley was elected congressman to fill out the unexpired term of Lorimer in 1909, when Lorimer was elected to the United States senate.

Surviving Col. Moxley, in addition to his son, George T., are another son, William Jr., and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Dadie, both of Chicago.

THE AMERICAN UNION STILL ENDURES.

Gov. Kraschel of Iowa has blazed through a week of imperiousness, in full command of every situation in which he found himself. The exhibition was all the more dazzling because he has found himself in so many different positions. He began by ordering out the Iowa troops to close the Maytag factory in Newton, Ia., until the management and the C. I. O. reached an agreement.

Iowa soldiers kept the men who wanted to go back to work from reëntering the plant and gave the strikers' organization a big advantage in the negotiations and in the labor board hearings.

These strong armed tactics caused the people of Iowa to open their eyes and wonder just what their governor thought he was. Then Mr. Kraschel boldly shifted his position and closed down the hearing of the federal labor board. His general in command told the federal examiner that the minutes of the hearing could indicate that there had been an adjournment at the orders of the governor of Iowa.

The astonished federal official, finding a federal law had been nullified by the state military power, took a 48 hour recess while Gov. Kraschel extended martial law over the state of Iowa. The labor board administration in Washington ordered the Newton hearing transferred to Des Moines, just as the Wierton hearing was transferred to Pittsburgh when Steubenville, O., got too hot for it.

When the people of Iowa began to wonder how they would emerge from this unexpected secession from the Union the indomitable governor said the hearing could proceed in Des Moines, but resolved to use his troops to open the Maytag factory and protect workers who wished to return. When Gov. Davey of Ohio made a quick shift from using the Guard to keep plants closed and decided that it was his constitutional duty to preserve order, he was accused of backsliding and irresolution.

Gov. Kraschel has been resolute enough, wherever he stood. The people of Iowa are trying to keep up with him and find out where he is standing. His resolute peregrinations have at last brought him around to ground which may be fairly sound under his feet. If he has stopped wandering around the Maytag workers may go back to their jobs if they want to, the suspended business of Newton may be resumed, and it is unlikely the United States marshal will be compelled to ask for federal soldiers to protect the labor board examiner in conducting his hearing.

Iowa has been through a number of interesting experiences in the last month or so. The people may feel relieved to discover that they have not been carried out of the Union. They are as deeply attached to it as the people of any other state and would do as much as any other persons to preserve it. New Deal governors are giving it a number of serious shocks these days, having been made restless by the spirit which breathes out of Washington. The people of Iowa undoubtedly have cooled Gov. Kraschel down a bit. Although a period of severe strain the country over may be ahead of us, there is reason to believe that the people of the United States are not yet ready to allow the republic to be torn to pieces by the megalomaniac hysteria of New Dealers in high places of authority.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE.

The football season is a trying time for readers of the sport pages. The heroes' names are hard to pronounce. We suggest as a warming up exercise a little practice on the names of certain tennis players of whose capabilities our Mr. Donald Budge spoke with enthusiasm on his recent return from European triumphs. Mr. Franz Kukuljevic of Jugo-Slavia was one of these. There also was Mr. Kukuljevic's teammate, Mr. Ferenc Puncec. Mention was made also of M. Bernard Destremeau of France and Mr. Cejnr of Czechoslovakia. If the workout with these names is found too light a few practice shots can be taken at Boguljubow, who used to figure in the international chess matches.

ITALIAN NAZI IMITATIONS.

Italy's adoption of racial restrictions and persecutions is too imitative to be flattering to Italian pride and too unjust to be complimentary to intelligence. When Hitler visited Rome and when the legions were turned out for him it was observed that the soldiers did not goose step well. The mistake was in making them try it. Hitler may have wanted to say: "Don't make me laugh." Mussolini's illusions of old Rome should keep him from imitations which are not congenial to tradition or temperament.

Italy was the first of the Fascist states, whatever honor there may be in that. When Mussolini changed his coat, dropped socialist colors and credo, and marched on Rome to suppress his socialist brothers and their offspring, the communists, he was not imitating Berlin, but, as it proved, offering the Germans the model for a form of government—worse luck for them. The Fascist state has been a strong master, but its record of purges and atrocities has been mild compared with the Russian and German and those of the smaller fry which make up the dictators' Europe.

Even Lipari, the barren home of the exiles, is probably better than a Hitler concentration camp. There have been no great Italian blood purges. The murder of the socialist Matteotti is no such blot as the Hitler pistoling of Storm Troopers and generals or the Mongolian debaucheries of Stalin. Italy, for all the imperialistic sins of Il Duce, has been making an experiment in government which with modifications, after the test of trial and error, may fit itself to Italian temperament, economics, and social requirements. If it does not make the grade the Italians still have their older constitutional system in reserve.

SO THESE ARE ICKIES.

Edward Barry, in his account of what happened at Ravinia park when Benny Goodman's swing band made an appearance Wednesday night as an added attraction to the symphony season of the Ravinia Festival association, did not exaggerate the effects of this performance as a social phenomenon. He wanted to keep well within the credulity of readers who were not present and not seem to be exaggerating. He referred to the almost unbearable excitement which discharged itself hysterically.

Most of the auditors were young. Several thousands were of high school age or but little older. They were the most interested and the most ecstatic, and possibly the most intelligent of the listeners. A number of elderly persons, obviously regular Ravinia symphony patrons, departed after a half hour, with curious expressions. They were looking fixedly at something they couldn't see. Although their faces were worn and they appeared to have aged suddenly, there was no evidence of acute suffering.

These older people seemed rather to have been hit over the head with a blunt instrument and to be following some instinct of self-preservation which was leading them out of the park and to their cars. Whatever they had experienced, it was too much for them and in a cataleptic state of glazed eyes they were walking heavily and slowly, following remembered paths toward an exit which their blind instincts told them must be in the direction they were taking. Undoubtedly, most of them got home and few will remember what happened to them. They went somewhere and then they found themselves at home.

This behavior, not intended to be in any way discourteous or critical, was one part of the social phenomenon, but only marginal. It is useful only as a contrast to the folk behavior of the younger which may engage the psychologists as much as it does the musicians. The musicians may come out of their study with balanced minds and cheerful convictions. The folk significance will produce fewer confident theories.

Music has never had such effect upon the American population before. One young person who was asked to explain, if it were possible, what had happened, said that the variation of the beat, happening when it shouldn't or getting lost completely, coming where the accent shouldn't be, where it was unexpected, or being delayed—this combined with the blue notes—produced an intense electrical effect which surcharged the whole body, which then emitted cheers and screams to be heard about a mile in every direction out of the park. "It gets in your bones."

The reflection that this is the jungle and that the addicts are visibly reverting may be both unintelligent and unfair. There was some tree climbing, but that was because in so great a crowd only part of the audience could see, and seeing a swing band is quite as important as listening to it. The tree climbers only wanted a view of the skin beater. They haven't yet begun to swing from limb to limb—only to swing.

Older people hearing the music and what it does to the young think they have plunged into the jungle and, startled by the tom-toms, look for the savages. More likely, the phenomenon is one of the more abundant life. The children are following the piper. No one knows where they are going. No one knows where anything is going, but the hysteria is on. Everybody is happy and hoppy. It can be understood why the addicts are called jitterbugs, but why ickies? Could it be? Is it that close to the truth? Then there should also be hopkies. Love, it is wonderful.

BLAME THE WIVES!

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

If you get bumped by an auto when stepping off the street car on your way to work this morning don't blame the driver, blame his wife. Or maybe the cause is some other annoyance in the life of the harassed motorist, and his careless driving is his way of maintaining a mental balance and getting even with secret grudges.

Nagging wives, more often than not, are the cause of trafic accidents, according to Dr. Herbert A. Toops of the psychology department of Ohio State university and Dr. S. Edison Haven of Wayne university. They have written a book, "Psychology and the Motorist," the first, so they claim, from the viewpoint of the driver.

It must be admitted that the professors try hard to get at the original causes of things. Less nagging at home will, in their opinion, cut trafic mishaps better than do fines and jail sentences. Courts today are too "punishment-minded," seeking to revenge rather than cure, they say.

Clean up such situations as discord at home, say these psychologists, and trafic accidents will take care of themselves. This seems like simplifying things a bit too much. Although there may be any number of repressions at home, there is something wrong with the man who works out his spite by crashing trafic lights and turning corners on two wheels. Some people are reckless not because they are stepped on mentally here and there but because they do not possess enough mental capacity in the first instance to be intrusted with an automobile. There is probably some truth in the psychologists' contention, but it cannot be the whole truth. The goof who blares a horn in the middle of the block to make cars up ahead start still will have to be dealt with for what he is, nagging wife or not—a senseless pest.

Mississippi River Home Town.

The Mississippi flows by my home town, cool, gray, of unbelievable expanse, its width so vast as to chill you with a threat of its secret, terrifying depths. You strain your eyes to scan the far Iowa shore—battlements of green seemingly impregnable.

Black Hawk of the broken heart, eagle faced and proud, paddled past my home town. Between the shores of the river lies an island named for him—an island which might even be his feathered emerald-green war bonnet tossed wearily aside to float forever on the regal river.

Mark Twain's keen, sun-crinkled eyes have swept its plumed, green surface and have idly dwelt upon my home town as he stood his trick in the pilot house in the old steamboat days.

Just below where Midas spilled a shining hill of gold nestles the little town. Main street dabbles its toes in the Mississippi. Elms arch over till their finger tips interlace to form a cool cathedral, dusky and bird-voiced, where a little prayer from a contrite heart will surely reach to God.

Not long ago strangers come to the town soiled it with a sordid murder. A big city newspaper sent a reporter down to get the story. He was young and brassy and he held the little town up to ridicule and with an eye to a catchy line he called it, "The town that time forgot."

My old neighbors, hurt and bewildered, flinched at the sneering jest. Their babies had been born there and their sires slept in the silent city on the hill. And, saddest of all, a few of the modernists whispered behind guarding palms that maybe this smart alec reporter was right. But the brash young reporter went back to the city and time spread its healing balm.

The little town raised its head again. Today it sits snuggled against the shining sandhill, smiling at the river—a harbor of peace and tranquility—little Mississippi river town.

Grant Park Concert.

One doesn't have to go to Sunrise farm to find "the peace that passeth all understanding."

Thousands find it here in Chicago every night—at Grant park.

Monday I saw it glowing in the faces of those who sat about me while Hans Lange and the Symphony plumbed the mysteries and sought out the depths of the Le Lac Enchante.

The fidgety five year old in front of me who left his footprints on my summer slacks fell under the enchantment and melted into reverie in his father's embrace; the elderly foreign couple across from me, who sat looking at the orchestra yet seeing it not; the clerkish looking chap with horn rimmed glasses who rested chin in hand in Rodinesque contemplation—but with eyes in the sky . . . these people captured a wisp of beauty and held on to it for a precious moment before it passed on to memory.

Is not the appreciation of these who toil and live in heat and noise keener perhaps than those of Sunrise farm who live on the bounty and the beauty of nature?

Jim Luntzel.

A Chicago shut-in who enjoys the Grant park concert broadcasts has moving pictures taken during rehersals which are screened for him during the program broadcast, so he can see the setting and musicians. The artists have been obliging in posing. . . . Rehersals at Ravinia are popular. Listeners bring their sewing and knitting and hear the music free. Last Saturday they heard Heifetz play two entire concertos at rehersal. Heifetz left Ralph Poole of the Ravinia board breathless when he lightly tossed his $75,000 Guarnarius into the back of Mr. Poole's roadster and dashed into his favorite haberdasher's in Chicago to buy a tie for the Sunday afternoon concert.

BLIND NEIGHBOR.

My neighbor does not grope his darkened way
Along our thoroughfare
Nor hesitate, uncertain in his homeward stride;
He cannot see, but uses no exploring cane,
For he is well aware
His dog is keeping vigil by his side.

Loyal canine friend, so faithful and so wise!
He does not heed his kind
That would divert him from his self-appointed task,
But stalks along in dignity becoming to
A leader of the blind.

A greater joy than this he does not seem to ask.
O, careless driver of the motor car,
You may not know how near
To these good friends your senseless haste brought sorry plight.
But lo! The hand that guides the fool, the dog, the blind
Saved them from harm and fear
To wander on their journey through the long, long night.

PELLAGRA—A PROBLEM IN NUTRITION.

EVERY physician is a pseudo criminologist as well as a detective. He is the leader of an investigating squad which includes nurses, dietitians, laboratory workers, chemists, X-ray specialists, and many other experts.

Infections may be likened to gangsters on murder bent. Even when in a playful mood they may commit assaults which are likely to leave the individual crippled for life. When, however, a malady is traced to its source or "hide-out," uncovering its true character may result in the extermination of the outlaw.

For nearly two hundred years pellagra has eluded capture. Although the exact cause remains unknown, we have learned how to arm ourselves against its ravages; to render it harmless, if it can be discovered in time. We now regard it as a nutritional disease which can be banished from our midst by maintaining a proper diet.

There is some relation between this disorder and a sickness in dogs known as black tongue, which, in fact, is believed to be a counterpart of pellagra in human beings. The cure is the same, since restoring appropriate food to the afflicted animals will overcome the symptoms. Unfortunately, research workers have not been able to place a finger positively upon any one deficiency. However, certain fractions of vitamin B assume important rôles, and it is entirely possible that the trouble may reveal itself as similar to pernicious anemia, which depends upon a chain of interlocking chemical reactions.

There are three characteristic signs: an eruption on the skin which may be mistaken for sunburn, diarrhea, and finally manifestations of mental instability—dementia. At first the victim may complain of weakness, loss of appetite, and indigestion, which develop before the onset of the diarrhea. Then come abdominal pain, burning along the alimentary tract, vertigo, and nervousness which may be quite severe making the patient exceedingly fractious and difficult to manage. Forgetfulness is common, and ideas may be flighty—reflecting periodical attacks of mental confusion.

The skin irritation may occur on any part of the body and usually is associated with considerable stinging and itching, the area later swelling and growing deeply congested. Eventually its peculiar dark color [pigmentation] becomes obvious. In some cases watery blisters form and rupture.

Sore mouth is experienced early, and the tip and margins of the tongue are red and swollen. Presently ulcers may appear not only on this organ but on the inside of the cheek. Many mention the sensation of smarting whenever food is taken. Sometimes the diagnosis can be made from the skin changes, coupled with the rawness within the mouth.

On questioning, the sufferer invariably will disclose an unbalanced diet, hence the physician will plan at once for correct and ample nourishment. Variety is essential, with milk, eggs, fresh meats, and vegetables in sufficient amounts. Because it may be impossible to supply all of these elements immediately, dry brewer's yeast is prescribed to give the upward start necessary for recovery, the quantity for an average case ranging from four to six teaspoonfuls, four to six times daily.

Recently the telling effect of nicotinic acid in the relief of black tongue in dogs has led to the recommending of this substance by mouth as a valuable therapeutic measure, and complete remissions have followed its use. One such report states that in seventy-two hours diarrhea ceased and the stools became normal. The skin defects also began to heal promptly, although nutritive factors such as liver were required to complete the process.

Here, then, is a preventable disease which can be conquered by adequate and more diversified meals. If we inadvertently neglect dietary requisites and pellagra is in the offing, the taking of powdered yeast for a week or so rectifies the omission.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS.

Mrs. J. C. writes: Should poliomyelitis appear this summer, what precautions may be taken?

REPLY.

The polio [infantile paralysis] season will soon be upon us and parents are urged—for the next month, particularly—not to permit children to become overtired, overheated, or to take too much food.

There is some reason to believe that the virus may gain access to the nervous system from the digestive tract although it is known that infection may be absorbed via the nasal mucous membranes. In our present state of ignorance it is well, therefore, to take extra precautions should any digestive upset appear. Put the child to bed and give him plenty of fluids—lemonade or weak tea. Buttermilk may be helpful in lowering the number of bacteria in the intestine. The nasal passages and the throat should be kept clean. A weak salt solution [1 teaspoonful of salt to a pint of water] may be used for irrigating purposes and for gargling.

So far vaccines have not been of the slightest help. While convalescent serum should be employed as soon as the ailment is diagnosed, no positive evidence is at hand as to its curative power. A few years ago the suggestion was made that the upper portion of the nasal passages be sprayed with a weak solution of zinc sulphate. Recent reports from Toronto—where this was tried extensively last year—are not enthusiastic as to its value. The procedure should be applied only if your physician recommended it.

Good general hygiene [including a daily bath], is, of course, essential. The house should be screened thoroughly against mosquitoes and flies as it is entirely possible that polio may be spread by some insect.

DIZZINESS AT 63.

Mrs. D. writes: What causes momentary dizziness on arising in the morning? I am 63 years old, blood pressure 148.

REPLY.

The digestive tract should be suspected. A saline laxative once each week may be tried. Cutting down the salt ration and reducing the intake of water are suggested. A special article on this topic will appear shortly.

VITAMINS FOR CHILDREN.

J. L. K. writes: 1. Is synthetic vitamin B-1 better than yeast, or as good? 2. Are such tablets all right for children?

REPLY.

1. No better; probably as good.
2. Yes.

STATES AIMS OF THE A. M. A.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—I have read with genuine interest and appreciation the editorial in this morning's TRIBUNE pertaining to the action that is, apparently, contemplated by the United States department of justice looking toward grand jury investigation into the affairs of the American Medical association.

For many years the American Medical association has steadfastly pursued a course designed to accomplish the realization of the objects stated in its constitution—"to promote the science and art of medicine and the betterment of public health"—and, unless unsurmountable difficulties are thrown in its way by agencies more powerful, it is my opinion that the association will continue to follow the course that it has unswervingly followed. There is no agency that is more earnestly interested in making the benefits of scientific medicine available to all mankind than the medical profession of the United States in its organized capacity.

The American Medical association has actually spent millions of dollars of its own money directly in the public interest. It has coöperated to the fullest possible extent, whenever opportunity has been given, with governmental agencies and with reputable groups, voluntary and official, that have been interested in promoting sound public health policies, and it is the purpose of the association to continue such coöperation whenever that can be done without violating the high principles for which the organized medical profession stands. It seems reasonable to advance the claim that the medical profession has, on the basis of its age old experience, established a knowledge of the nature of the problems involved in the delivery of good medical service and an understanding of those factors that operate to produce deterioration of good service.

Incidentally, I have noted a news item in this morning's TRIBUNE that the Tennessee Valley authority, an official agency of the federal government, prohibits any physician from engaging in the practice of medicine in the community established at or near the Norris dam unless such physician secures specific authorization from the Tennessee Valley authority or its responsible agents. OLIN WEST,

Secretary and General Manager,
American Medical Association.

MOST POPULAR ON THE AIR.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—In my position it is easy to see which are the most popular programs on the air. In running the S. S. Roosevelt's sound system I get the most [and most insistent] requests for the Cub-Giant baseball games. Next in order is Jack Benny [off now], which in turn is followed by requests for Benny Goodman's music.

Baseball games are by far more popular than any other program.

H. V. SARNOWICZ,
Radio Operator, S. S. Roosevelt.

MORE OF CHATTANOOGA.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—I was interested in Mr. Knight's description of Chattanooga courtesy in your recent issue. I can go him one better in regard to the courtesy of the Chattanooga police department. The officer on duty made a hotel reservation for us, and when we reached the hotel the room was ready for us.

I wrote the police department expressing appreciation and stating this was a police courtesy that was new to a Chicagoan. C. D. EWER.

EFFECT OF BOLTON SLUGGING.

Maywood, Ill., Aug. 1.—I have been at heart a union man for many years and have felt that the unions were really helping the working man.

However, I have at last changed my mind, or, shall I say, have had it changed for me. Learning the brutal, cowardly attack upon Warren Bolton by six yellow dogs, my opinion of unions and unionism has dropped to an all time low.

Who do these thugs think they are that they must be paid $1.75 an hour? With times as they are they should be glad to work for $1 an hour. But then the greedy union officials couldn't get quite as much rakeoff.

From now on my battle cry will be, "Down with all forms of tyranny, including unionism." J. C.

HOPE LIES WITH THE YOUTH.

Montgomery, Ill., July 30.—I have just returned from a camp ground where for a week I tried to play and pray with over 200 young people in the Epworth League institute. I came back home more optimistic than I have ever been before about the future of our country. Here were young people who were sincere and seriously concerned with the problems of their lives and their communities. They want to do the right thing themselves and they are willing to be the leaders of tomorrow. Our country need not worry when it is made up of youth such as I have had the privilege of associating with. Let us give them our support and our encouragement in the days which lie ahead.

PAUL E. TURK.

DORNOCH'S CONSTABLES.

La Grange, Ill., July 30.—Regarding the report in your paper of the Carnegie heiress' wedding at Dornoch, Scotland, I must say a few words. How I wish reporters would get their facts correct once in a while! I give that reporter credit for the true historical facts about the ancient cathedral where the wedding took place; I'll forgive him for putting Skibo castle, the Carnegie residence, fifteen miles from the town, when it is only three miles; [many a time I have been there!] but when he reports that my beloved home town, Dornoch, has only one police constable I rise up and protest. Imprisonment for life is too good for such a poor newspaper man.

Dornoch, Scotland, has two police constables. E. M. CURRIE.

PERHAPS WPA CAN TELL.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—What does a fellow have to do to be able to get a WPA job? I had been out of work since Feb. 19 and then applied for work with the WPA.

I was received and certified, but was told to wait for an assignment, which would take only a few days.

This "few days" have lasted for nearly six months and still I have not been called. S. P. H.

CARTOON HITS THE BULL'S-EYE.

Canton, Ill., July 29.—I desire to congratulate Mr. Orr on his cartoon appearing in your issue today.

He certainly hit the nail on the head. No one, so far as I have noticed, has ever heretofore come as near to showing the true inwardness and purpose of the New Deal as he has depicted in this cartoon. C. E. CHIPERFIELD.

THE HORSE ALSO GETS THIRSTY.

Melrose Park, Ill., Aug. 1.—With the arrival of hot weather and watering troughs miles apart, it looks like another dry summer for the horses. While we still employ them every day for various types of hauling, it would be only humane to remember they get thirsty as well as ourselves.

Filling stations on every corner and taverns three in a block. Let's squeeze in a few modern drinking fountains for the noble and loyal beast. Give the WPA more work to do. KAY WILSON.

THERE'S NO SUCH ANIMAL.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Peaceful picketing? There is no such animal. The Lombard incident is a beautiful example of peaceful picketing. The city authorities had the blind staggers. No doubt the hoodlums will be freed if taken into custody. The strong alliance between shyster politicians and labor racketeers should be broken. JAF KAY.

ESTATE FUNDS.

Chicago, July 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A died in 1924 and B was appointed executor of A's estate.

1. B filed an inventory and [2] a copy of the sale bill. B died in 1937 leaving A's estate unsettled and [3] $5,400 unaccounted for.

4. B was on A's note for $6,000 which he had to pay.

5. B never filed any claim against A's estate. Can A's heirs settle A's estate and make B's estate [which is worth $30,000] pay the $5,400 and interest?

R. G.

1. This is ordinary procedure.
2. We do not understand what you mean by this.
3. If there were sureties on the bond they might be held, but it seems possible that the will excuses the furnishing of sureties.
4. In general, a surety after paying in this way is entitled to indemnity from the principal debtor.
5. In our opinion it was not necessary for him to file a claim where he had a right of set-off. You do not state when the surety made the payment and there are material facts that are not before us. The attorneys handling the matter are in a better position to advise you than we are.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WAGE COLLECTION.

Chicago, July 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I wish to collect a debt for doing housework five days at the rate of one dollar a day. I have made numerous attempts to collect this money. Could you please tell me where the small debtors court is and how I may file claim for this money? I would like to know the cost, if any, of collecting this debt through the aid of the small debtors court. R. S.

The 1937 wage payment law requires payment in full [1] in a case of discharge, within five days; [2] in case of quitting, on next pay day unless employé gave five days' notice, in which case payment in full at time of quitting. It does not apply to commissions or wages in excess of $100. In case of wilful refusal to pay, wages continue for ten days and employer may be fined $25 to $200.

The Department of Labor, 205 West Wacker drive, Room 822, is handling wage collections for persons who are financially unable to prosecute them.

PEARL WHITE DIES IN PARIS; STAR OF MOVIE THRILLERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 4.—Pearl White, who dared death many times in the serial movie thrillers of twenty years ago, died today in the American hospital here. She was 49 years old.

The former American star, born at Green Ridge, Mo., died of a liver ailment for which she had been under treatment in the hospital since early in July. A private funeral service probably will be held here Saturday. Miss White had lived in Paris during the last fourteen years on a fortune she had amassed from her film career.

Burial to Be in France.

About a year ago she purchased a plot in Passy cemetery, near her Paris town house, and expressed the wish to friends that she be buried there.

Miss White's father, Edward C. White, who is 84 years old, said in Springfield, Mo., that his daughter was only 41 years old. He said she had added a few years to her age in order to "keep ahead of Mary Pickford."

The comely blonde, blue eyed actress, long before the talkies, had risen to fame in the films from a circus bareback rider. She never had a double to do the daring stunts.

Undoubtedly the greatest of her many serials was the "Perils of Pauline." It was full of hairbreadth escapes from death and ended each week with the words flashed on the screen—"Continued next week." The following week would bring delivery of the heroine and new thrills fraught with danger. She quit the movies in 1924.

Rejected Recent Offers.

Last year Miss White had several offers to return to the movies, but it was understood she had turned them down.

The actress was married twice. Each ended in divorce. Her first husband was Victor Sutherland, an actor. They separated in 1914. Her second husband was Wallace McCutcheon and they were divorced in 1921. Seven years later McCutcheon was found dead in Hollywood. He had committed suicide by shooting.

Organ Grinder's Monkey Bites Boy, 8, on Finger

Robert Goldstein, 8 years old, 1219 South Harding avenue, was bitten on the left index finger last night while playing with a monkey. The monkey belonged to an organ grinder, Roy Lombardi, 2951 South Wallace avenue. The Goldstein boy was treated at Mount Sinai hospital and the monkey ordered taken to the dog pound for observation.

CASEY ATTACKS JUDGES' RULING IN HORAN CASE

Twenty-five judges of the Municipal court acted arbitrarily and without proper authority in sentencing Bailif Albert J. Horan to jail on a comtempt charge, Judge Edward B. Casey of the court charged yesterday. He filed a dissenting opinion on a finding of the judges ten days ago.

Horan, who is appealing the finding, was ordered to the county jail until he complies with an order of the judges that he reinstate fifty-five deputies he discharged in the Democratic factional fight before the April primary. Horan is a Horner-Courtney supporter. The twenty-five judges are Kelly-Nash Democrats.

Judge Casey, one of two judges who opposed the majority finding, filed his dissenting opinion with the Municipal court clerk. He said the fifty-five discharged men, put back on the pay roll by the judges, are loafing in the city hall.

TVA AID FAVORS PRIVATE PLANTS FOR FERTILIZER

Charges Red Tape Clogs Government Project.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Dr. Harry A. Curtis, chief chemical engineer of the Tennessee Valley authority, told the congressional investigating committee today that private industry is preferable to government operation in the manufacture of fertilizer on a commercial scale. Red tape, he said, hinders TVA in its fertilizer enterprise.

Dr. Curtis disagreed with statements from some sources that TVA produces fertilizer for half the cost to private industry.

He described the objectives of the TVA plant at Muscle Shoals near Wilson dam as the development of new methods of manufacture and more concentrated types of fertilizer which save railroad freight and the furtherance of technical experiment and demonstration work.

Reads from TVA Act.

As to nitrate plant No. 2, built during the war, Dr. Curtis testified it would take six months and cost a million dollars to put the ammonia part of the plant into operation. A plan was prepared, he said, but the war department rejected it.

Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.] did the questioning of Curtis that brought out these matters. He read a passage from the TVA act providing that nitrate plant No. 2 should be kept in standby condition.

"The plant never was in standby condition," said Dr. Curtis. "The army maintained it after the war. When TVA took it over it was not in standby condition. It would cost a million dollars to put the ammonia part of the plant in standby condition, but the war department has decided against that."

It was brought out that advance and growth in the chemical industry have been such since nitrate plant No. 2 was built, twenty-two years ago, that the government sees no reason for modernizing the plant for the production of fixed nitrogen.

The nature of TVA's future fertilizer experimental work was taken up by Wolverton. He asked whether TVA will manufacture and sell its super phosphates or provide for the use of its processes by private industry.

"In general," said Dr. Curtis, "I believe the farmers are going to be best served if private industry took over the technical developments. I believe the methods developed will be of benefit to the fertilizer industry. I don't believe fertilizer can be produced as cheaply as private industry can do it."

"Will you tell us why?" asked Wolverton.

"When a government enterprise starts," replied Dr. Curtis, "it inherits red tape; it gets in a maze of figures. Government proceeds on the basis every man is a crook to be circumvented by all the red tape possible. It's not that way with private business."

Cites Misinformation.

In answer to questions, Dr. Curtis said the controler general's office had sent a man named Sonberg to look over the phosphate lands bought by TVA. "He came back with an earful of misinformation," said Curtis.

The committee at once sent word to the general accounting offices at Washington asking for all files on the sale of 570 acres of phosphate land to the TVA by the International Agricultural corporation of New York, at a profit of $527,185 to the company.

Details of this purchase were touched on lightly today, the investigators saying they needed time to look through the files of correspondence. It comes up tomorrow.

Dr. Curtis read a letter written to him Feb. 1, 1938, by John J. Watson, president of International Agricultural corporation, 61 Broadway, New York. Watson said a stockholder at the annual meeting asked him the profit on the sale to TVA and he gave the gross profit. This figure, he said, did not include taxes, interest, prospecting costs, and commissions.

Refusal of Data Told.

Watson wrote he was "surprised to be called by the Associated Press and asked what we had paid for the property and other questions which I refused to answer as I regarded them of a confidential character."

Watson spoke of a clipping from the Knoxville Journal of Jan. 28, 1938, and wrote: "I suppose it is natural for newspapers to be so inquisitive, especially when a corporation is dealing with the government. The day before I came to this office the newspapers were calling me from all directions for information, but I refused to give them any because I thought it best for you or Mr. Bass [Neil Bass, chief conservation engineer] to give out any information.

"This publicity is just another example how under the securities and exchange act stockholders and papers are searching into the most confidential records of all corporations."

Calls Purchase Fortunate.

Watson said the government was fortunate in buying the phosphate lands and that if business had been better his company would have started to work the deposit itself.

One document marked as an exhibit was an attestation that TVA Director Harcourt A. Morgan is a naturalized citizen. This set forth that he came to the United States from Canada Sept. 28, 1889, at the age of 21. He filed his first papers Nov. 13, 1891, at Baton Rouge, La.

For a quarter of a century Harcourt Morgan thought this gave him full citizenship, so the document said because the court clerk at Baton Rouge had told him so. He exercised citizenship rights and held public offices, among these being federal food administrator for Tennessee during the world war.

District Judge Edward T. Sanford, later a United States Supreme court justice, conferred citizenship on Morgan March 6, 1920, and his certificate of naturalization bears the date March 9, 1920.

Robert Gutsche, 55 years old, a painter, fell thirteen floors to his death yesterday when a scaffold on which he was working slipped from its halter. The accident occurred at the south side of the Mallers building, 5 South Wabash avenue. Frank Long, working on the same scaffold, saved his life by grasping a supporting rope and hanging on until he could swing into an open window. Long, who is 40 years old, lives at 3662 Lake Shore drive. He said he expected to return to work on the scaffold today. Gutsche lived at 3500 Rita avenue.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Berry Season Here.

August 4, 1938.

THE berry season is just starting on the farm. When we walked through the woods yesterday and noticed how many different shrubs and trees are slowly reaching the high point of their yearly growth cycle we again were reminded that summer is coming down the home stretch.

Delicious wild blackberries now are ripe. Wild black currant shrubs are bearing fruit although the berries are not yet ready to be picked. The fruit is thick on many wild cherry trees, and the ground cherry plants which produce miniature "Japanese lanterns," each of which contains a berry, are conspicuous in the field. Scarlet berries of the Tartarian honeysuckle are noticeable at the edges of the woods. Red berries of the bittersweet nightshade [slightly poisonous] are climbing over small shrubs and weeds, and the Solomon Seal berries now replace the tiny white flowers of these plants.

Make Blackberry Pie.

The wild blackberries undoubtedly have the number one position among the wild fruits this week because of their delicious flavor and the appetizing pie and jam which can be made from them. The farm wives have been making regular trips to the farm woods to gather these berries, and wild blackberry pie now is on the menu in some of the farm homes. The blackberries are abundant this season in several places on the farm.

The ground cherry, which grows in open fields where it can get plenty of sunlight, is merely an ornamental wild plant to most people, but the early settlers and the Indians knew how to use its fruit. Inside the tiny "Japanese lanterns" which droop from the branches are small berries which look somewhat like immature tomatoes when cut through. In some areas they are called "wild tomatoes." The berries are yellow when ripe, and can be used for preserves or pie. In the southwest Indians also use the berries for relish by mixing them with onions and other ingredients.

D. K. Grant of Chicago, a reader of this department, writes that we should not overlook the value of another fruit on the farm—the common elderberry. After reading the description of the elder which appeared in this column [with a picture of the elder flowers] Grant writes that he was surprised that we did not mention one use of the plant which in his estimation is the most important of all . . . for making fence corner pie!

Fence Corner Pie.

Mr. Grant is a Hoosier. He reports that when you gather ripe elderberries and make a pie with them the result is not elderberry pie but fence corner pie. His letter is as follows:

"Take the ripe berries and a little vinegar or grapes [wild preferred] to make them tart, and the elderberry makes one of the juiciest and most delicious pies ever baked. At least they do when my Ma makes 'em! If you don't believe it come out later on and try one. It might interest you to know what we Hoosiers used to call elderberry pie, and why. We used to call it, and some of the old-timers still call it, fence corner pie. The name of course comes from the days of the old rail fence. You may remember the waste land along the zig-zag rail fence and how the elders used to grow along these fences, especially in the corner of the field. This was especially true of the corners that happened to be next to a piece of woodland."

BY MARY MEADE.

The main dish salad never is so popular as it is in the summertime, when a cold luncheon is appreciated and when the luxury of a picnic is enjoyed as often as possible.

Leftover meats, cooked chicken, and canned salmon, one or another of which is to be found at least one day a week in the average household, are used to make these summertime whole meal salads.

Chicken and Noodle Salad.

[Serves Four.]

1 cup cold diced chicken
1 cup cold cooked noodles
½ cup chopped celery
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ cup mayonnaise
2 hard cooked eggs, sliced

Mock Chicken Salad Platter.

[Serves Six.]

3 cups diced cold roast pork
3 stalks celery, diced
1 green pepper, chopped
½ onion, grated
French dressing
Sprinkling of paprika
Whipped cream mayonnaise
3 hard cooked eggs
Sliced stuffed olives

Combine pork, celery, and green pepper with onion and let the mixture chill in French dressing. When ready to serve fold into the salad a dressing made by combining equal parts of mayonnaise and whipped cream and sprinkle with paprika. Pile on chicory or lettuce on a salad platter and garnish with sliced hard cooked egg and olives. Celery stalks stuffed with cream cheese and pineapple slices masked with mayonnaise and sprinkled with paprika add attractiveness to the arrangement.

Salmon Salad.

2 cups salmon in coarse pieces
2 hard cooked eggs, diced
¼ cup chopped pickle
⅝ cup diced celery
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Paprika

Combine ingredients with mayonnaise or cooked salad dressing and chill. Serve the salad in lettuce nests and garnish each serving with a strip of pimiento. Two deviled egg halves to accompany each salad add to heartiness and make the plate more attractive.

Ham and Macaroni Salad.

[Serves Six.]

1½ cups broken macaroni, uncooked
1 cup diced cooked ham
½ cup chopped pickle
¾ cup diced celery
3 tablespoons minced pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons grated onion
3 tablespoons vinegar
⅔ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon salt

Cook macaroni until tender in boiling, salted water. Drain and cool. Combine ingredients and mix well. Chill and serve in lettuce cups with a garnish of whole or sliced radishes. Other cooked leftover meats may be used in place of the ham.

WARM WEATHER WILTS PRICES IN FOOD MARKETS

Halts Meat Rise; Few Items Are Higher.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Hot weather is causing many food prices in the wholesale and retail markets to tumble. Retail merchants failed to mark up items that normally would be higher.

THE TRIBUNE's weekly survey figures indicate that an unusually small number of price tags were marked up in grocery stores for today and tomorrow. Food for cold lunches is being featured in stores generally.

Cheaper Meat on Way.

Meats failed to continue their weekly climb to higher levels. Butchers are expected to mark their prices lower within the next few days because they will be able to restock their coolers with cheaper beef, pork, and lamb.

Hot weather and the consumer's unfavorable reaction to recent high meat upset the live stock and wholesale meat markets at Union Stockyards this week. John Campbell, federal live stock reporter, says that the tend is definitly downward on cattle, hogs, lambs, and also on beef, pork, and dressed lamb.

Fresh pork took the biggest drop. Light loins are $3.50 to $4 a hundred pounds less than a week ago and heavy loins are off $1 to $1.50 a hundred pounds. Farmers were paid 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight less for fat hogs weighing 250 pounds or less and 25 to 35 cents a hundred on those weighing 250 or more. Hogs reached $10 a hundred Monday and then dropped to $9.60 yesterday—a 40 cent drop in four days.

Beef Animals Lower.

Good and choice steers and yearlings are 25 to 50 cents a hundred lower. Campbell reports that the practical top for the week was $12.75 compared with a $13 a hundred last week. Beef is steady to 50 cents a hundred off.

Fat lambs are 50 cents to $1 a hundred pounds lower than a week ago. The highest price paid during the week was $9.25 a hundred. Dressed lamb is a dollar a hundred less.

There are sugar sales to be found today and tomorrow in almost every shopping center in the city and surrounding suburbs. Beet and cane sugar may be bought for 6 cents a 10 pound bag less than a week ago.

Malaga grapes are now being handled generally by green grocers. Green seedless grapes are a few cents a pound cheaper than last week. Red potatoes and radishes are lower. Tomatoes are 1 to 3 cents a pound lower.

On the Bargain List.

These foods will be found lower in some stores: Dry onions, lemons, green beans, celery, and cabbage. Green peas are on the up and down list—off in some and higher in other stores. Bartlett pears are less.

Most fruit and vegetable merchants have quit handling berries. The main picking season for berries is over and they are difficult to handle in hot weather.

Bargains are to be found in butcher shops. Pot roast is 3 to 6 cents a pound under last week's prices in many places. Some shops raised their rib roasts 2 cents a pound. Pork loins are 1 to 2 cents off.

Dressed lamb prices are jumping around. Shoulder and rib chops are 3 cents off in some shops, while rib and loin chops are up 4 cents in a few places.

Shopper Gets Bargains.

Here and there over the city and in the suburban towns beef steak will be found higher. With a little shopping, however, housewives will find sirloin steaks at 3 cents a pound less than a week ago. Round and sirloin steaks are up 2 cents and porterhouses 6 cents a pound in some shops.

A long list of wholesale prices are lower than last week at the central fruit and vegetable market, according to federal reports. Included are green beans, cucumbers, roasting ears, peaches, tomatoes, apples, pears, carrots, beets, green onions, radishes, grapes, apricots, and nectarines. A few items, influenced by hot weather, are higher. They include head lettuce, cantaloupes, watermelons, lemons, and plums.

GEORGE RECTOR COOKS UP PEACH SPECIALS FOR SUNDAY READERS

George Rector, the famous chef, has a weakness for peaches, to which he yields in his presentation of delightful recipes in the woman's section of next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Typical of these tempters is Peach Conde, for which the fruit is poached in a vanilla flavored sirup, perched on a prepared base of rice that could do solo dessert duty, and finally drenched with raspberry sirup.

With the same approach but with ingredients slightly altered, Mr. Rector arrives at an irresistible Peach Melba; with maraschino liquor, grated coconut, and sliced peaches he turns out still another top notch dessert.

CORN ON THE COB (OR OFF) MAKES A MEAL IN ITSELF

Here's Dope on Picking, Cooking and Serving.

Corn-on-the-cob! The very words spell good eating and in the heartiest manner. With plenty of butter and a salt shaker handy, it's a meal in itself.

Sweet corn must be fresh to be good. Select ears that are a fresh green with silk running from golden to dark brown in color. Pull back the husks to make sure that ears are free from worms and kernels are full and plump. Slender ears may be well filled and have kernels as plump as fat ears. Tenderness may be judged by pressing a kernel gently to see that the milk flows.

Buy only enough corn for one meal. It will lose its sweetness if it stands and should be cooked as soon as possible. If it is necessary to keep it for any length of time, choose a cool storage spot.

GRILLED CORN.

Boiled corn is delicious grilled in the oven broiler. To do this, drain corn quickly and spread generously with butter. Place on rack in preheated broiler oven, close to flame. Turn ears as they brown and sprinkle with salt. Use a high temperature.

CORN-ON-THE-COB.

Remove husks and silk and drop into rapidly boiling salted water. Use about 1½ teaspoons salt to each quart of water. Cover kettle and boil until tender, about eight to ten minutes. If corn is very young and tender six minutes may be sufficient. For corn that is quite mature and for field corn [which is very good when young and fresh] ½ teaspoon of sugar is often allowed for each quart of water. This is not necessary, however, and even field corn has excellent flavor without the addition of sugar.

When corn is done, remove from water immediately.

If you like, corn may be cut from the cob with a sharp knife, seasoned with salt and pepper and reheated in butter and a small amount of cream.

Wagner Music Starts Ravinia on Final Week

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With only a slight throbbing in the air and possibly a bottle or two in the rock pool to serve as reminders of the Benny Goodman orgy of the evening before, Ravinia park settled back last night into its accustomed routine.

A sizable audience trailed decorously into the park as dusk began to fall. Eugene Ormandy and the Chicago Symphony orchestra played a solid all-Wagner program. The throng vented its feelings in cordial applause, not in shrieks and stampings.

A little sadness was mixed into the general air of satisfaction, for this program began the sixth and final week of the 1938 Ravinia festival. With the darkness coming earlier and the crickets making an autumnal racket in the fields around the pavilion, no one with a reasonably well developed grasp of the obvious could help harboring a thought or two about the declining year and the swiftly approaching end of the summer's North Shore music.

As any one could have guessed, Eugene Ormandy's Wagner playing is immensely effective. His violinists and violists and cellists all but tore their strings off trying to get one added ounce of pungency into their playing. The brasses blew great windy blasts and even the woodwind players took on an epic quality which is not usually associated with their mediums. The percussion men outdid once or twice the volume achievements of Goodman himself.

Phrases were turned in a most heart searching manner, with listeners waiting breathlessly to see what new marvel of expressive nuance the next period would bring forth. Passages such as the "Ride of the Valkyries" profited by the tremendous rhythmic lift and the steely precision with which the conductor endowed them.

These "Walküre" excerpts came in the second half of the program. Preceding them was music from other of the "Ring" dramas as well as the prelude to and the Love Death from "Tristan and Isolde."

The "Ring" was filled out with "Siegfried's" forest music and the evening came to a resounding close with the prelude to "Die Meistersinger."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There's a new lipstick abroad in the land that is a honey for those of you who have acquired a deep, deep tan. It's in a shade called "sienna," which certainly ought to speak for itself. Quite a bit of brown in it, but not too much; the true base is a warm red.

This looks like a million on those women with complexions that are golden brown and teeth that are white as snow. They always strike us as looking distinguished—especially if their makeup is right.

With the wrong lipstick, the deep tan can look just plain muddy. With this one, it won't. It has enough of the brown undertone to harmonize with the brown tones in the skin, but there is more of that lovely shade of warm red to dramatize your summer complexion very well indeed.

You'll like the texture of this sienna baby. You might think, when you see it in the stick, that it isn't as creamy as it might be. Don't be misled. It goes on like satin and stays that way. If it were one smidge runnier it would be fatal, especially in summer weather. It won't crack up on your lips, and it will hold its color just as long as you'd want any lipstick to stay with you.

This is a new shade, brought out especially for your midsummer complexion. It's one of the prettiest we have seen. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Single Concert Makes Carter a Major Hero

BY CECIL SMITH.

A new star shot into the sky last night at Grant park. John Carter, 26, tenor of the Metropolitan Opera association, sang the second concert of his life and evoked a seething, almost hysterical enthusiasm in his audience that has been equalled in our generation only by Nelson Eddy.

The largest audience of the summer came to hear him. It was one of those unbelievable crowds that stretched off, packed solid, for hundreds of feet in every direction beyond the great array of free seats. It was a vocal, demonstrative crowd, full of women and girls who shrieked and cried out and of men and boys who whistled and pounded their palms. It was a great popular audience deciding in a single evening to add one more name to its small list of major heroes.

When the last of six encores brought the concert to a close a large sector of the audience, and especially of the women in it, mobbed the gate at the rear of the band shell. They tried to get close to John Carter, to see him better, and, if possible, to touch him. Ten policemen were required to make a path for his cab to move by inches through the excited mob. Women cried "Good night, Johnny," and their new idol gayly waved his good night to them.

If the thousands in the audience were having a new experience, so was John Carter. Only last Tuesday he sang his first public concert, in one of the parks in Milwaukee. Nobody had ever heard of him until last December, when he sang on one of the Metropolitan Opera radio auditions and won a contract to appear in opera next winter. Since then he has had a place on a weekly radio broadcast, but until this week he has never seen his audience outside the studio.

Dark haired and of middle height, and of Irish lineage, he looks a bit more Italian than Irish, and far more American than either one. His manner is simple and boyish, and he charms his audience as much by his normal friendliness and lack of affectation as by his voice.

Still, his voice is by all odds his major asset. It was no peculiar accident that led to his selection for the Metropolitan Opera. Here is a really outstanding voice of beautiful lyric texture. At his age he is not ready to make the welkin ring with stentorian high notes, and very probably he never will become a dramatic or heroic tenor.

But the warm texture of his middle voice is something all his own. Some of the clean freshness and touching naivete of an Irish tenor is there. Yet his training has evidently been chiefly in the Italian school, for he takes delight in the flowing legato and melting cadences of that style of singing.

After last night this New York boy who received his first musical training as boy soprano in several of the metropolitan churches need have no fear for his immediate future. His second concert has won him the distinction of being the only Grant park soloist ever reëngaged for a second appearance the following night. He will sing again tonight.

When you join the thousands in Grant park tonight you may rightly expect to make the acquaintance of a legitimately talented, greatly gifted, modest, genuine young artist. But you will be wrong, of course, if you come looking for an experienced, seasoned singer whose every note, phrase, and tempo is beyond blemish. He has a lot to learn and neither the routines of operatic singing nor the profundity of great interpretation come overnight.

I could tell you privately that he is likely to sing slow songs too slowly, so that they sometimes fail to move sufficiently. I could intimate that he sometimes does not place a high note just in the right spot, or that the mechanics of preparing a tone are sometimes a little conspicuous, or that he has a tendency to scoop up notes that should be attacked clean. These things and more I could tell you, but I prefer not to. He is an honest chap and a simple one, and he will keep his head. He will stay on top of the pile not because he is already a great singer but because he is one of the few who can hope to be one, and one of the fewer still who can be counted on to keep his balance in the face of popularity.

In a tumultuous audition last night the north side chose the first three amateur singers to enter the finals of the 1938 Chicagoland Music Festival.

The contest was probably the most keenly felt in the festival's history. Five hundred persons crowded the Grand ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel to hear the seventy singers in the tenor, contralto, and baritone sections. And to judge from their hilarity or dejection each of the 500 must have come with favorites already picked.

They were a critical audience, not a sympathetic one. The judges were hard put to chose the winners, dividing in two instances.

The tenors sang first. The judges, Frank Bennett, Maurice Rosenfeld, and Mabel Sharp Herdine, chose Freeman Wild, 216 East Ontario street, for first honors. They named Herman Struble, 3317 Lakewood avenue, for second place, and Lonnie Jackson, a tall young Negro from Evanston, third.

Jackson was the people's choice. He sang twice, easily and with a graciousness that brought his listeners to their feet cheering. Again and again they flaunted the no applause rule held before them on the stage. Jackson, 24 years old, is recently from Brownsville, Tex. He has studied music but four months and was delighted to be chosen third. He is a waiter.

Then came the contralto section. Miss Florence Shearer, 5434 Kenmore avenue, struggling against a sore throat and hay fever, won first. Miss Bernice Kessler, a pretty telephone operator, placed second, and Miss Jane Nelson, 6237 Maplewood avenue, was third. Here again it was the third place winner that won the audience. Miss Nelson, 17 years old, who placed first in a city high school contest last year, sang with a rich confidence. Both she and her friends cried when she placed third.

There was no conflict in the baritone contest. George Burhop, 2231 Carmen avenue, 26 years old, won first place. He is a graduate of Northwestern university and a pharmacist. It was his second contest. Richard Wheeler, 1653 Olive avenue, won second place. Two years ago he was chosen the best singer in Chicago's high schools. Howard Berhalter, 423 North Clark street, won third in his fourth Chicagoland contest. It was the first time he had placed.

A second north side contest will be held tonight at the Edgewater Beach hotel to decide candidates in the soprano, bass, and mezzo soprano classes.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 4.—The fact that the Joachims are getting $15,000 for a single week at the Chicago theater should excite the bravos, rather than the envy, of the professional performers. The Joachims are more familiarly known as the Ritz Brothers—Al, Jimmy, and Harry—and within a two year space they have become important additions to the arena of film comedians.

You have seen them glaring and grimacing from screens, making up in physical vigor whatever they have lacked in subtle technique. Robust, slapstick, and rowdy, they keep in there pitching for the full seven reels, and if they have failed to bring a grin to your frozen countenance by the time the manager announces the bingo game the lack of effort has been on your part rather than theirs.

To achieve their results the Joachims prefer a blunderbuss to the epee. Not for them the needle wit of a Montaigne or the delicate thrust and parry of a Jimmy Walker. Not for them the poker face of an Irvin Cobb sinking home a comedy line, the middle class righteousness of Charlie Chaplin, the impassivity of a Groucho Marx convulsing an audience, or the pained and offended dignity of W. C. Fields. They are closer to the family tree of the Keystone cops than to the roots and branches of Voltaire.

Others may be jesters by appointment to the king, but the Ritz Brothers are the jesters of the pee-pul. There being more people than kings, the Ritzes have reached the $15,000 a week class in vaudeville, or what is left of the ancient sport of ancient theaters.

This, I repeat, should cause professional performers all over the land to throw their hats in the air [first removing their heads from their hats, of course]. The success story of the Ritzes should be a Horatio Alger novel to the performers who can't get a break. It should be proof positive that if you turn enough corners eventually you'll bump into prosperity. The Joachims turned so many corners that two of them are permanently round-shouldered.

In fact, I'm a bit bowed in the left tendon myself, because the Ritzes were one of my acts and I became gray and unhappy trying to persuade night clubs and theaters to engage them for any reasonable stipend.

"This is a great comedy act," was the first line of the routine. "They kill people stone dead, roll 'em in the ailes." Theater managers would point out that they did not want their patrons assassinated within the theater, and that rugs would wear out rapidly if patrons were rolled in the aile at each performance. Broadway night clubs told me that my Ritzes were too rowdy for the ringside table patrons.

What the ravenous Joachims lived on during this discouraging period is not known to this deponent. They never borrowed money from me. I believe they existed for some time by cannibal practices, gnawing each other's elbows in lieu of steaks, and perhaps they took a nip out of Lou Irwin, their manager, now and then.

Occasionally they got a week-end engagement at Grossinger's and other Kamp Kare Frees in the Adirondacks, trading songs, dances, and witty sayings for some ounces of mountain herring, and goose liver which is known to the mountain trade as pate de foi gras. When they'd return reluctantly to Broadway after a week-end at Grossingers, the thin Ritzes always were plump, indicating that they were no mean foragers.

But whether they were thin or fat, cannibal or vegetarian, I couldn't sell them or give them to night clubs or theaters . . . That is why your reporter went into vaudeville himself, on the same theory that Mahomet went to the mountain when it became obvious the mountain wouldn't make the first move. They stopped shows cold at Loew's State, Atlantic City, Brooklyn, wherever we played.

At Atlantic City, after putting in a hard week at the Steel Pier, the four of us went into a gaming house. By dint of throwing twos and threes, the Joachims lost their entire week's pay within one hour and thirty minutes. Their brother, who is not an actor, was so stunned by this and so angry that they had gambled away their week's wages he engaged the dice himself. Within thirty minutes he was wiped out, because deuces and treys seemed to run in the Ritz family that night.

It pains me, a nongambling man, to record the fact that at this moment I stepped into this funereal atmosphere, and threw more 7s and 11s than have been seen on the eastern seaboard since Halley's comet neon lighted the skies.

The respect of the Ritzes that night turned to idolatry and they never even look at a cube of sugar without telling the story of how I saved them from being held for ransom. I did it to prevent them returning to their cannibal habits, because gambling is a snare and a delusion.

So performers everywhere should take fresh courage from the fact that the thin Ritzes have filled out at the cheeks, and that these Fugitives from Grossinger's Kamp Kare Free in the Adirondacks are now in Chicago earning $15,000 for the week. The Joachims prove that you've got to weather a cloudburst before you find the silver lining.

First of Black Styles Arouse Shopping Urge

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The town is enjoying the first smart fashion wave of black. Mop your brow as you will, you're not human if these sooty black finds don't arouse your shopping urge for something smart and new. Such black trifles as belts, gloves, and bags have a new spice in designs that seldom is equaled in the latter part of the season. New models that are daring, dashing, and excitingly unusual should be appreciated and taken out of circulation.

Black bags especially are fatally attractive to those with sufficient funds. Capacity is stressed, without losing any of the required swank. Bigger and better bags are here. They're flat and thinish, but designed to be seen without the aid of horn rimmed glasses.

Hats may be skittishly small, but the present showings of new bags are arrogantly wide and long. Quilt effects, stitching, tucks, folds, or the luxurious smooth sheen of thick suede alone make them spectacular affairs to clutch in your hands or to tuck under your elbow.

Slipon gloves of black are unadorned. They are still made to wrinkle thickly around the wrist. If they are trimmed they repeat some of the decorative trickery of black suede footgear grosgrain ribbon bows, and almost invisible tuckings being used.

Dull black kidskin gloves, severely simple except for the stitched designs at the back, are ready for the clever shopper who buys black now when the new stuff is new, though it may be stowed away till cooler weather.

The Housewife

Every housewife deserves the ease of one completely comfortable chair in the kitchen, for when she is peeling potatoes or preparing other vegetables she may as well sit down and rest at the same time. We came across such a chair the other day. It's one of the special values to be found during August.

It's of chromium and the back is scooped out just enough to be a good fit. Back and seat are finished in baked enamel in attractive colors, green, blue, red, etc. There's a springy effect to this chair that makes it almost like a rocker. You've only to sit in it to be convinced of its comfort. EDITH WEIGLE.

Too Personal View Points to Narrowness

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N Y News Syndicate, Inc.]

Women, as a whole, are accused of being too personal. Frequently the charge is true. When Hubert is absorbed in the baseball news and answers abruptly, his wife thinks he doesn't lover her any more. When Mary's fiancé talks of international affairs instead of devoting himself to her at a party, she complains of his neglect.

If the sweetheart of a brunette looks admiringly at a blonde, she thinks it is a reflection on herself. She doesn't realize that a man may have a general enthusiasm for beauty without loving her any the less.

A chip on the shoulder always comes from a too personal outlook. Women who find themselves being hurt by their sweethearts and husbands would do well to pause and make an effort to cultivate impersonal ideas. When Hubert's wife sees he is crazy about baseball, she might try and take an interest in the pitchers, too. Mary might wisely read up on international politics and join the conversation.

A well known psychologist suggests this method for gaining a more objective and less personal point of view about our problems. If you are hurt to the soul and see no solution to your worry, pretend another woman comes in and sits down opposite you. Imagine her telling you your problem as if it were her own. By the time you are through advising her, you will have a much clearer perspective on your own worry. Because you make yourself think of it as some one else's problem, you can be much more impersonal about it.

Irish Day Celebration to Make Register by Counties

Irish-Americans registering at the second annual Irish day celebration in Riverview park on Aug. 14 will be asked to indicate which county in Ireland they or their ancestors came from. The committee in charge hopes that this will determine whether Limerick, Cork or Kilkenny was the birthplace of the largest number of Irishmen who came to Chicago.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York, via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena; Arnold Vernon, elderly, rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire; Isobel Butler, who has a room next to the Vernon suite, and hopes to get in pictures through him; and Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold herself aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship in Mexico. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals. Isobel and Arnold Vernon fall in love. He tries to buy his freedom from Claire. When she refuses he threatens to make a new will disinheriting her. The ship fights through a terrific hurricane. Isobel finds Vernon in her cabin, unconscious, hit by a storm tossed trunk. She sends Claire to him and struggles to find a doctor. Claire takes a loaded pistol, wrapped in a towel, from the purser's suite and shoots her husband, leaving the weapon in Isobel's wardrobe. She then tells Alex she found her husband wounded in Isobel's cabin. Flagg, the purser, reveals that the day before Vernon had made a new will leaving everything to Isobel. Alex operates on Vernon. The captain starts an inquiry. The stewardess reports that she found a towel of the purser's in Claire's room and that Claire had given her an emerald ring to keep silent. Claire charges the stewardess stole the ring. Anne agrees to give Neil an answer to his proposal in a month. Neil tells Alex that he and Anne are secretly engaged. A color photograph Anne took of Claire proves Claire had the emerald ring after the date she said it was missing. A message from Isobel gives Vernon the will to fight and live. The captain and purser bluff Claire into a confession. She attempts to escape.

INSTALMENT XLI.

A LONELY EXIT.

Claire went up the companion into the thick shadows of the boat deck, thankful for the blackness that covered her. It was surely the darkest night she had ever seen.

She felt giddy now and strangely light headed. But her limbs were unsteady, her feet and hands heavy. They would hardly obey her will. Gradually her eyes became accustomed to the dark and she could distinguish the bulk of the lifeboats against the slightly less sable sky.

She knew then what she had been searching for. A lifeboat was the ideal place to hide. She climbed up on the outside rail and tried to wriggle under the tarpaulin cover. She would be able to breathe again and this dreadful agony of suspense would leave her when she had got inside.

She was exasperated and tearful because of her unmanageable limbs. She put out her hand to steady herself. There was nothing there. Nobody heard the faint lonely splash. The ship bore its little warm world with it—steaming steadily on.

. . . .

The day had been cool and cloudy with a lovely soft silver light. Too lovely, Anne had thought regretfully, to waste an hour of it in her cabin. But she stayed below and did her packing. The ship was docking early in the morning, too early to leave time for all she had to do. And there was something she wanted to do with the hours after dinner on this night—the last night.

Neil was not free to interfere with the plan she had made. He was spending the evening checking on the hurricane casualties and deputizing for Bernard Holt, the ship's surgeon, in writing up the final reports. Holt, he had informed her, had been suicidal, but was now himself again. It was definite that he still retained the use of his hand. "Alex must be marvelous!" said Anne promptly.

Neil agreed without thinking. "Yes—he has the ace surgeon's quality—speed of thought and cold courage in an emergency." He had added as an afterthought when he realized what he had said, "not that Holt's hand was a difficult job. Any run of the mill surgeon could have done that."

Anne had not answered. Marry him because she was lonely and Alex Reed cared for somebody else? Why, she must have been crazy. Today was Sunday. Wednesday she would start rehersals. When she had a part she would be too tired at night to realize she was lonely.

There was an optimistic atmosphere at the purser's table at dinnertime in spite of the miasma of speculative gossip and the atmosphere of sinister gossip which still pervaded the ship.

Alex Reed had come to the table in a fleetingly uplifted mood, because he had just left Arnold Vernon, who was now safely out of danger and keeping in a big way his promise of the morning.

Anne felt an actual pain in her heart. She knew what a great occasion it was for him, and she could not tell him how she felt about it and share his triumph with him. Vernon's recovery meant more than the prevention of tragedy; it meant that the power Alex believed in was actually there—that it had grown rather than diminished in his past inactive years.

The very things that Alex himself was thinking when his high mood collapsed and he retired into silence. And why shouldn't the power have grown? He had had time to read up on everything that was going on. While his body had been healing in the desert, his untiring mind had been at the side of surgical genius working everywhere, anywhere, in the world. And his sensitive fingers had gained skill working for hours at tying knots in the confines of match boxes.

Alex watched Anne talking and laughing with Neil across the table. She did not show the triumphant happiness of a girl on the verge of becoming engaged. His clear-seeing eyes saw some nervous strain—some gnawing doubt under youthful wit and gayety.

Dinner over, Anne saw the usual gesture of Isobel taking possession of Alex and the two going away together. Waiting for the elevator, she saw them pass and go on up the stairs while Alex whispered confidentially in Isobel's ear. Isobel looked radiantly happy.

Anne stepped out of the elevator into the foyer and went out on the promenade deck. The night was very still and soundless and phenomenally dark. The sky was dense with clouds—not a star was to be seen. However, it suited her mood—it had its own peculiar beauty.

She went up the companion to the boat deck. She groped across the children's playground and out to the chairs under the lifeboat. They were empty. Anne sat in one and gave herself up to the dreaming influence of the murmuring and invisible sea.

Immediately the atmosphere of the first few nights was strong upon her. She could see Alex's shadow in the other chair, see his face illumined redly as he lit his pipe and the little flame lived its moment. Almost as soon gone as the flame that had lit her heart.

Alex had been drawn to her for a few brief days. She was sure at least of that. But whatever her future brought her of new romance, no one would take his place. She would love him till she died.

She drew a deep breath suspiciously like a sob. Work, that was the answer to a hurt heart. Work was not an anodyne. It gave you the courage to feel pain and bear it. Work was her salvation.

A shadow moved surely and quietly across the deck and through the narrow gate. The intruder, seeing the white gleam of Anne's wrap in the chair beneath the lifeboat, withdrew, apologizing. Alex's voice! "Pardon me—but it's so dark. I didn't notice there was anybody there."

Anne's heart felt as if it paused and turned over. "But it's I, Alex. Wouldn't you like to stay?"

"Why, of course, Anne. What are you doing here alone?"

"Dreaming and thinking things. Making plans——"

"What plans?"

"Only the ones you already know."

So she was keeping it a secret, he thought. He felt faintly hurt. After all, they had been very good friends in the beginning, close friends, as if they had known each other for years. He took out his pipe, as she had hoped he would, packed the bowl carefully, and lit it. She watched the glow of the match flame illuminate his face. A pang went through her. She would never stop loving this man. She belonged to him. She was doomed to love him forever.

He drew on his pipe slowly and the air was tinged with the fragrance of the smoke. "I hope they'll make you happy, Anne."

"Happy," she said unexpectedly. "What do I care for happiness? I only ask to be busy, that's all. To be used—to be interested. Happiness is a marsh fire. You soon find your feet in a bog if you follow it."

"Why, Anne—you sound positively bitter!"

She laughed. She was giving herself away like a fool. "I didn't mean it to sound that way. I'm changing, that's all. Becoming a realist——"

There's Music in the Proper Pronunciation

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Recently we discussed how a beautiful voice could make friends for you. But the loveliest voice in the world is handicapped if your speech is slovenly. There can be music in pronunciation, too.

Perhaps the crowd you go with is careless in speech. Unconsciously you have picked up their errors. Strangers will judge you by them, not realizing it is your friends speaking.

Maybe you are a girl who has struggled against odds. Your family were dreadfully poor and you didn't have much schooling. But somehow or other you managed to work up to a good job and a good salary. Splendid. If you could get ahead without advantages you have character and ambition enough to improve your speech. It will add to your charm and help you in business and social life as well.

Pronounce your words distinctly and correctly Look them up in the dictionary if you are in doubt. Mumbling and muttering, slurring words and sentences definitly detract from the appeal of your voice. Listen to persons who speak beautifully and then check up on your own speech

"Gimme" for "give me," "idje for "did you," "whatje", and "smorning" for "this morning" are common sins against the king's English. "Ahst" for "ask" has a much more pleasing quality than "ast," hasn't it? Notice how often you hear them pronounced "bekuz" instead of "becaws" and "column" pronounced "colyum" instead of "column."

On trolley cars and even in your business you may be exposed to errors in speech. Quite unconsciously you may slip into them yourself.

Your speech betrays your background. But a woman or girl with a real desire for charm can create a setting for herself.

"Lipstick must match your rouge," says Antoinette Donnelly in her booklet, "Makeup Magic," which is chock full of helpful suggestions about makeup methods. Get a copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There are many mothers of boys in their teens who look on anxiously at their husband's lack of understanding of these young people. Some of these mothers write to me, and it is one of these letters I wish to quote today:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have read your articles on adolescent children. I have twin boys, 14, about whom your help will be of great benefit to me. While my boys are the average type and both in good health, my problem is that both children have different dispositions.

"To understand their difficulties at all times and to keep a uniform, happy atmosphere between the two of them is sometimes not quite under my control. Then, they have a strict father who does not understand why boys of 14 do not always obey him on one minute's notice.

"I realize I am much too lenient with them, but I feel so sorry for them most times. I feel both parents should not be strict, as this, to my thinking, does not give the children any one to turn to when they need a problem settled.

"I have read your articles out loud to my husband in hopes that he, too, would get a better view and realize he no longer has babies whom he can order to obey, but that a little tactfulness must be used, especially in our case. Both these boys do resent a command, while with a softer tone of voice they will obey immediately.

"My husband, of course, thinks what he does is right. In the old days it may have worked, but not today. Folks do not use the old theory of 'spare the rod and spoil the child!' We today understand our children with a much higher respect."

Oddly enough, it is fathers who seem to show less understanding and tolerance of their adolescent sons than mothers. If your husband is not like that, you may not believe it—but I see it on every hand. If we wanted to do a job of psychological analysis we might find many causes or underlying motivations for this. But that would probably not help as much as to give some brief, practical advice to fathers. Such advice is really contained in this letter, but might be restated as follows for the fathers who have boys in their teens—in their early, middle or late teens:

Avoid the "superior officer" attitude. You may gain obedience [or not!] but you won't gain much else.

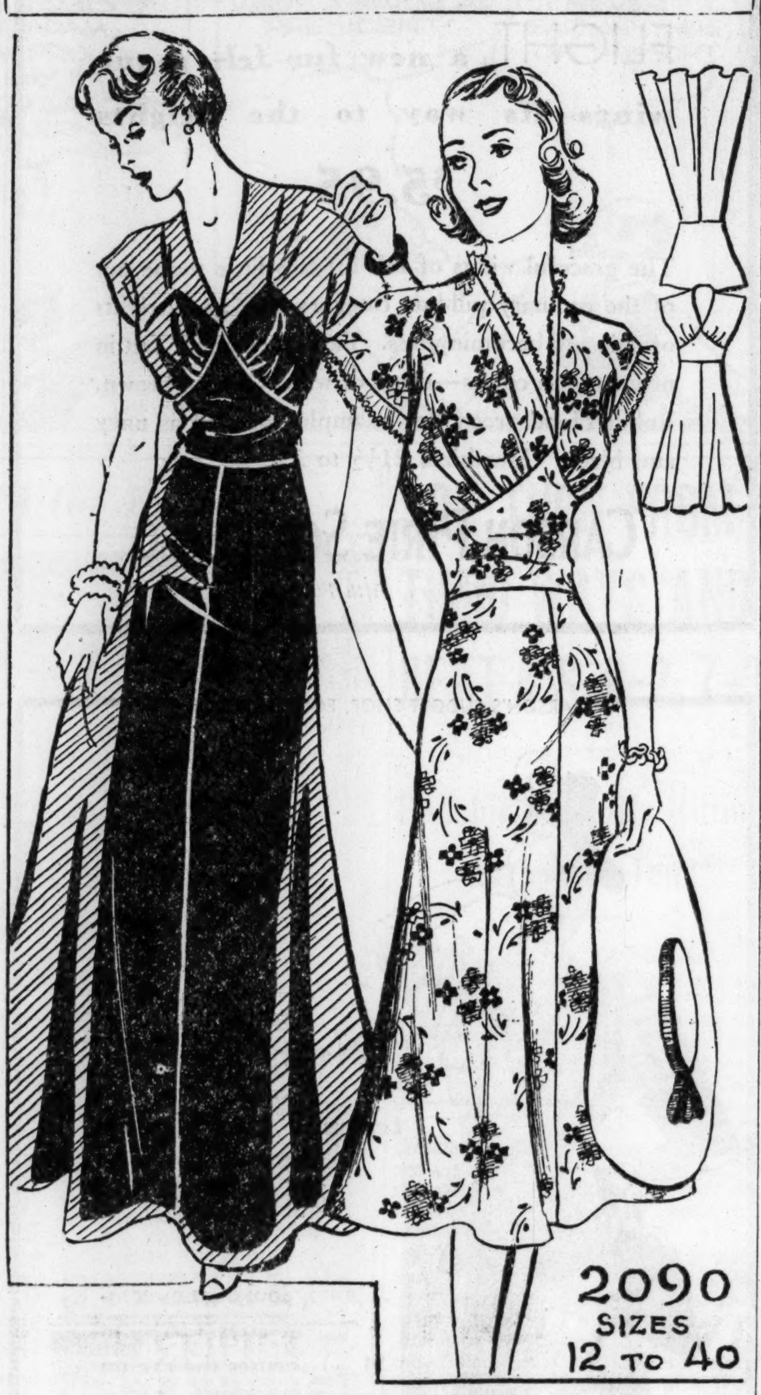
Treat your son more like an equal, like an intelligent person with whom you can talk things out.

Be slow to anger and criticism. Be just and firm, too. Be ready with praise. Don't be afraid to show your affection.

Try honestly to get your boy's point of view as well as trying to make him see yours. Above all, be and stay friends with him through thick and thin.

"Understanding the Adolescent" is a booklet of interest to parents and teachers. It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Dinner or Daytime Dress



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

There are two ways you can use this pattern. You might make a cool dinner dress, as illustrated at the left, or employ the design to fashion a frosty print for daytime wear. Either style is lovely. Your choice depends upon your wardrobe needs.

The dinner gown should have a simple V neckline without any trim. The bodice is shirred at either side of the up-dipped waistline sector, which is suavely draped. The paneled skirt fits smoothly at the hips and then flares widely at the hem. The shoulder line is kimono style, cut in one with the shoulder. In simple black sheer, with absolutely no trimming, this is a distinctive frock for the midseason.

The daytime version takes kindly to colorful yet dainty prints, and the edging might be cool looking ruffling. The same styling applies, except that the skirt is street length.

Style No. 2090 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1½ yards of ruffling for the street length version.

According to CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The following hand was played this morning, shortly after midnight, in one of those delightful little home battles which encourage conversation still farther into the night.

South, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

SOUTH

♦ K J 7 5 4
♣ A K 10 9

"South is a college professor with more education than intelligence. He reads your column every day but, in spite of that opportunity, he still is just an ordinary ham' player. He opened the bidding with one diamond. East and West were the wives in the case. West bid one spade. North, a mechanical engineer, jumped to four diamonds. East passed, and South said four no trump. West passed. North responded with five diamonds, and South said six diamonds, which ended the bidding. West led the king of spades, which was taken by declarer with the ace. The first lead of trumps showed a laydown for the grand slam. One of the ladies, who often has been accused of bidding too conservatively, remarked sarcastically: 'Why didn't you bid the grand slam, since you had a laydown for it?'

"Should North and South have bid the grand slam, and if so what should have been the bidding? Should North have bid only three diamonds first, so that he could have shown his partner his heart honors or his spade singleton before the bidding reached too high a level?

"Yours very truly,
"Y. A. N."

Despite the fact that North-South had more combined values than were needed for thirteen tricks, the grand slam was not so easy to bid that they should hide their heads. If I were Y. A. N., I would make a record of this deal and spring it on the sarcastic ladies about six months from now, giving them the North-South hands. If they fail to reach the "laydown grand slam," the abused husbands should laugh long and loudly. [Of course, I assume no responsibility in case the correct contract is reached!]

However, it is true that expert bidding would be effective. To wit:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 spade	2 hearts	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
7 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

The key bid is North's proper choice on the first round. Two hearts is more informative and more constructive than any diamond raise. South then makes the normal, forcing bid of three clubs. To this strong rebid, North obviously has the values for a better-than-preference, jump raise in diamonds. South's four no trump is conventional, and North shows the agreed suit ace by jumping to six-odd. Now South certainly can visualize thirteen tricks. North made a free two heart bid, he gave a jump preference for diamonds, and finally showed the diamond ace. A loser in the combined hands becomes almost out of the question.

Readers Rally as Heat Drains Free Ice Fund

This week's soaring temperatures have brought generous response to pleas for gifts to THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund. More than $170 was contributed by readers yesterday, most of whom regretted, they wrote, that they could not send more to alleviate the suffering of the less fortunate.

Yet their gifts could not keep pace with the mounting number of letters and calls for nurses, doctors, and mothers requesting life-saving ice. At the United Charities office, which operates the fund, Miss Edna Mae Wray counted thirty calls in one hour, and there were fifty letters on her desk awaiting her inspection.

"Mothers have been taught by social service workers and nurses to drip water from their faucets on milk on keep it from souring," she said, "and I have dozens of calls every day telling me they have had to stop it because landlords object to rising water bills. They ask me what to do. And what can I tell them, when there are no more tickets to send to their aid?"

Sally's Guests Enthralled by Theater Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

When the curtains closed on the first scene of "The Sleeping Beauty," the audience of 100 boys and girls broke the tense silence which had held them while the black fairy strode up and down the stage plotting mischief. "I don't like that one," said a little girl seated next to me, shaking her head until her pigtails bobbed.

We were in the charming little Jack and Jill theater, where, under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley, a talented group of youngsters were giving a special performance of "The Sleeping Beauty" for my party guests. It was all very exciting, with real curtains and costumes and footlights and the youngsters loved every minute of it.

There were the king and queen, with all the ladies in waiting, and the nurse for the pretty little blonde princess, and the court jester, who was a roly-poly little fellow who enjoyed his rôle immensely.

All the good fairies danced and sang and watched over the little princess until finally the prince came to rescue her.

By curtain time, however, every one was wide awake and hungry after a nap 100 years' long. The court ball had begun, so my guests were thoroughly convinced that "they all lived happily ever after." Miss Foley and her troupe had provided an afternoon of excellent entertainment.

QUIZ 3 OFFICIALS OF AUTO CONCERN ON SALES TAXES

State Says Seized Books Hint $25,655 Shortage.

Three officials of the Walton Motor Sales company, 2229 South Michigan avenue, were questioned at the state's attorney's office last night about their sales tax payments to the state over a five year period. They were not held.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coughlin said the company paid $27,038 in sales taxes from July, 1933, to March, 1938, but that its books, seized by the state department of finance, indicate a possible shortage of $25,655.

The officials questioned were Joseph Levy, 431 Roscoe street, president; William C. Harley, 2642 North 78th avenue, Elmwood Park, secretary, and John Mueller, 5445 Eddy street, vice president.

Thomas Bugan, attorney for the state department of finance, said all three officials denied the concern owed the state any money. An audit by the state and the company will be made, he said.

AWARDS PRESENTED TO CITIZEN SOLDIERS AT FORT SHERIDAN

Awards for excellence during the month's encampment at Fort Sheridan were made yesterday as the Citizens' Military Training camp prepared to disband. Thirteen hundred young men from Illinois and Wisconsin will return home today.

Robert Saunders.

Robert S. Saunders, 7010 Stony Island avenue, was given the No. 1 prize—the Pershing gold medal, a trip to Washington, and a saber from the Daughters of the American Revolution—for outstanding soldierly qualities. Dan F. Koehler, 1609 Cullom avenue, received a gold medal donated by the American Legion for outstanding work in the upper class, and Edward J. Kristufek, 1824 Blue Island avenue, received the Legion auxiliary medal for outstanding work in the lower class.

Other Chicagoans who won distinction are: John F. Kimbel, 10454 Calhoun avenue; Arthur I. Klecker, 4610 North Harding avenue; Warner Samuelian, 2626 Adams street; Haskell M. Aikman, 8928 Commercial avenue, and Earl C. Smalling, 3144 North California avenue.

GRAND JURY ACTS TO CLEAR SLAYER OF OWN BROTHER

The grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted a no bill clearing Leo O'Rourke, 20 years old, who shot and killed his brother, Thomas, 22, on July 24. Two days after the slaying a coroner's jury absolved O'Rourke. The grand jury action was reported shortly after Judge Michael G. Kasper had ordered him held on a murder charge.

O'Rourke told Judge Kasper that he shot his brother in a vacant lot near their home, 6159 South Ashland avenue after the latter threatened to kill their father. John O'Rourke, the father, testified that he had had Thomas arrested twice for assaulting him. Witnesses said that Thomas had an open knife in his hands at the time he was slain.

MIODUSKI TRAILS REP. RYAN BY 140 VOTES IN RECOUNT

State Representative John G. Ryan was 140 votes ahead of Adam S. Mioduski last night in the recount of votes being conducted to determine if he or Mioduski was nominated for the house of representatives in the 13th senatorial district last April 12. Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of the Circuit court, who is deciding whether 832 controversial ballots should be marked for Ryan or Mioduski has completed examining more than 200 of them, and handwriting experts in the board of election commissioners are at work on another batch of 7,709 ballots. Mioduski was declared winner over Ryan in the canvass by 140 votes, the exact figure by which Ryan now leads.

GETS UNDIVIDED SUPPORT FROM HIS HOME STATE

McMillin Is Second and Pond Third.

BY ARCH WARD.

Harry Kipke, who hopes to bid farewell to his long football career by coaching the All-Stars in their game against the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field, Aug. 31, has regained the lead in the national poll that will decide the college staf.

Kipke has the undivided backing of his home state. Radio station WJR and Detroit newspapers, as well as downstate journals, are appealing to the fans for support of the former University of Michigan player and coach. The Kipke campaign committee, which includes some of the most important industrial and political figures in the state, has pushed its drive throughout the nation. Votes already have come in from thirty-eight states.

As the battle of ballots rushes on toward the finish line, it becomes apparent that the race for head coach is a four cornered contest among Kipke, Bo McMillin of Indiana, Ducky Pond of Yale, and Elmer Layden of Notre Dame, who rank in that order in this morning's standings.

Robertson Strong Candidate.

The fifth position on the staf probably will go either to A. J. Robertson of Bradley or Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern. There is an outside chance that Bernie Moore of Louisiana State, who is backed heavily in the south, may crowd into the select group.

McMillin, who is running far ahead in Indiana, Kentucky, and Kansas, is being aided in the final drive for votes by Kappa Kappa Kappa, social sorority which usually has limited its outside activities to charitable enterprises. Mrs. Beryl Holland, wife of Dr. J. E. P. Holland, Indiana university physician, and founder of the sorority, has called on all chapters in Indiana to support the Hoosier coach. She has had voting booths erected in several cities. The Indiana legislature Tuesday passed a resolution urging the people of the state to vote for Bo.

Sports editors of newspapers in Waterbury, Hartford, New Haven, Torrington and other Connecticut centers are optimistic over the prospects of landing the No. 1 spot on the staf for Pond of Yale. Efforts of newspapers in New England to elect Pond have been aided materially by the enthusiastic support the Eli leader is receiving from alumni and friends of Yale throughout the land.

More than Five Million Votes.

The number of first place votes in today's standings totals 5,273,332. The final figure, which will appear next Wednesday morning, will in all probability approximate the 8,526,328 votes that were counted in the player poll.

The five coaches who are honored by the fans will express their appreciation in a coast to coast radio broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System at 8:15 p. m., Chicago time, Wednesday night. If Pond succeeds in winning a place, and there is every indication he will, he will speak from WOR, Newark. Kipke will be put on at WJR, Detroit, and the others will talk from W-G-N.

The squad will report at Northwestern university a week from today. Several players from remote parts of the country, who plan to drive to Evanston, will leave their homes today or tomorrow.

Sixty-Six to Report.

Acceptance of Elmore Hackney, Duke university quarter back, brings the number of players who will report to 66. One other, Joe Ruetz of Notre Dame, who had planned to enter California for graduate work Aug. 18, is trying to defer his enrollment until after the game.

The increased interest in the player and coaches' polls is reflected in the demand for tickets. While the game always has been a sellout, requests for seats this year are heavier than ever. Less than 3,000 of the $3.30 seats remain and the game is almost four weeks away.

JUST LIKE CHRISTMAS!

The All-Americans vs. Professional Champions football game comes only once a year, and tickets are going fast for the battle between the 1937 College Stars and the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field on Aug. 31.

Equipoise, 2d Highest Turf Winner, Dies

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Equipoise, second to Sun Beau as the world's leading money winning race horse, died tonight at the C. V. Whitney farm near here.

In his six years of racing the chestnut son of Pennant-Swinging, won $338,610 and held the world record of 1 minute 34 2-5 seconds for the mile, set in 1932 at Arlington Park.

Equipoise's death was unexpected. He became ill Wednesday. An autopsy will be performed tomorrow. Equipoise was retired in 1935 after suffering a bowed tendon.

Won in Twenty-nine Races.

In fifty-one starts Equipoise won twenty-nine, placed in ten, and showed in four. Many turfmen considered him an equal of the great Man o' War.

He was foaled here in 1928, being bred by the late Harry Payne Whitney. He finished his turf career in the colors of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

Among Equipoise's triumphs were the Pimlico Futurity, National Stallion stakes, and the Eastern Shore handicap as a 2 year old, winning a total of $156,835.

Only 12,000 fortunate fans were on hand that memorable last day of June in 1932 when Equipoise reached his all-time peak as a 3 year old. Carrying 128 pounds and with Jocky Sonny Workman making no especial effort to hustle him in the late stages, the brilliant son of Pennant-Swinging ran the mile in 1:34 2-5 to take three-fifths of a second off the world record made by Jack High in the Metropolitan handicap of 1930.

$38,000 Short of Sun Beau.

Equipoise reached the end of the trail and missed his last chance to equal the all-time money winning record of the great Sun Beau in the Santa Anita handicap in Los Angeles on Feb. 23, 1935. Equipoise finished seventh, seven and a half lengths behind Azucar.

Equipoise's total earnings fell approximately $38,000 short of the $376,744 compiled by Sun Beau.

1930	2	16	8	5	1	2	$156,835
1931	3	3	1	0	0	2	3,000

SOX TURN FROM TIMID WAYS AND BEAT A'S, 8-2, 7-3

Radcliff Runs His Hitting Streak to Ten.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Having reached what they regarded as a new low by dropping two decisions the afternoon previous to the lowly Athletics, the White Sox dressed up in their best baseball manners yesterday and salved their wounds with a couple of victories over the same fellows. They took Connie Mack's assemblage of performers apart with ease, 8 to 2, in the first half of a double-header and did it again almost as easily, 7 to 3, in the second engagement.

Thornton [Lefty] Lee and Jack Knott were important as subduers of the Mack bat wielders, but neither sparkled with the brilliance of Rip Radcliff. The Ripper, it may be recalled, closed Wednesday's second game with three successive hits. With that as a starter he peeled off five more in a row in yesterday's first encounter. Before being stopped in the fourth inning of the second meeting he had smashed two more for a string of ten hits, two shy of the big league record established earlier this season by Pinky Higgins of the Red Sox.

An Easy Day for Pitchers.

Although White Sox hits were dropping on the premises throughout the afternoon, the venerable Connie Mack found occasion to employ only three pitchers, probably because of a shortage in that department. Nelson Potter served throughout the first game, to the delight not only of Radcliff but also to that of Jerry Walker, whose share of hits off Potter was a triple, a double, and a single. The same Jerry also was favorably impressed by Messrs. Lee Ross and David Smith, the latter a fresh import from California, in the second affair. Jerry used the pair for two doubles and two singles.

The effort of Lee to register his fifth victory of the year and of Knott to capture his fourth were made simple by the emphatic fashion in which the Sox employed their bats. Lee was bulwarked with a seven run lead in four innings, an advantage which made him so comfortable that he surrendered only two hits until the sixth. The encouragement given Knott was similar. He was handed a six run advantage in four innings.

FIRST GAME

The Athletics were both discourteous and courteous to the Sox in the opening inning. Potter plunked Berger on the skull with a pitch and, because Manaker Dykes had no other infielders except himself, Connie Mack agreed to let Berger return after treatment. Rosenthal ran for Berger and was forced by Owen. After Walker had been thrown out, Radcliff doubled to right, Owen scoring. The Sox picked up another in

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

CLINT FRANK of Yale, one of the leading players of the 1937 football season, writes this department from Oslo, Norway, as follows: "Please convey my deep appreciation to the thousands of fans who supported me in the All-Star football poll. I hope they will not think me unappreciative because I am unable to join the squad. My father has given me a graduation gift in the form of a trip to Europe, and, as I feel this will be the last opportunity I shall ever have to take a vacation of this nature and of this duration, I have decided to stay until nothing remains to do, or see, or, of more vital significance, to spend. I expect to return to the United States early in October. I hope my decision to remain for a prolonged vacation in Europe does not seem ungrateful to you or to the spirit of the sport that has helped me so much in the past years. May this year's be the greatest of the All-Star games. I'll be pulling for good weather in Chicago the night of Aug. 31."

Those Lonely Hearts Guys.

They're usually 6 foot 2 or so,
Dark and handsome as can be
They always have been told by friends
They have a charming personality;
They've traveled near and far,
They maybe own a ranch or two
And "love to make trips in my car."
Then what makes them so darn lonely
Is more than I can see,
Unless it's 'cause there's no one living
Who's good enough company.

If I Were Sundered.

How often have I paused beside thy door
Afraid to knock lest when I heard thee speak
I should grow strangely reticent before
The softness of thy voice and in my cheek
A crimson glow should flare to tell thee of
The flame which thou hast kindled in my breast,
A light of unextinguishable love
That haunts the very moments of my rest.

I would not have thee know for all the stars
How my heart flutters like a frightened bird
Beating against its carnal prison bars
When but the rustle of thy gown is heard;
I am afraid to think what things might be
If I were sundered suddenly from thee.

HARTNETT HITS HOMER IN FIVE RUN 6TH INNING

French Goes Route; Yields Six Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 4.—Manager Gabby Hartnett in the Cubs' 6 to 0 victory over the Giants today demonstrated to Frankie Demaree and Rip Collins what he meant when he told them Wednesday night that he wanted men who can and will swing at the ball. With his two high priced splinter collectors watching from the bench Gabby's little object lesson consisted of a 400 foot homer with two on base which supplied half the total runs the Cubs made in support of a great comeback performance by Larry French.

For five innings it appeared that Hartnett's big tirade against indifferent, unskilled, and meek men had borne no fruit, except that there was a great deal of hustle on the defense. The boys were swinging but with no effect. Only fifteen batsmen faced Bill Lohrman, who thus stretched his string of five victories and no defeats. There was only one Cub hit, by Joe Marty, and one other ball that went beyond the infield, Hartnett's fly in the fifth.

The Boys Start Hitting.

But the lads started hitting. Marty and Jim Asbell, who entered the lineup with the benching of Demaree, started it with blistering singles. Two runs got home before Gabby got to do his big swing number. The Hartnett homer made it five runs for the inning and Asbell, with another single, French with a sacrifice, and Bill Jurges with a single rounded out the day's run manufacture in the seventh.

If it hadn't been for Gabby going on the warpath after yesterday's flopperoo, we probably would have told you about Larry French first of all. Larry, who won his eighth victory and didn't come close to suffering his sixteenth defeat, was great. The Giants did get all their hits in the first five innings, in which they made six. When the Cubs presented him with the handsome lead in the sixth French got tougher than rawhide. Only twelve Giants faced him in the last four innings.

Larry Issues One Walk.

Larry walked only one man, Moore, with one out in the eighth, and a fast double play forthwith nullified the pass. Even when the Giants were hitting the ball he was brimming over with confidence, a new Larry, indeed.

The game enabled the Cubs to tie the series with the Giants and even the season series. During their stay here this time they handed the defending champs their eleventh shutout, 7 to 0, Tuesday, looked bad in taking an 8 to 3 spanking yesterday, then came back to plaster the New Yorkers with their twelfth shutout today. The season series stands at 9 to 9.

Since the Pirates lost to Boston the Cubs gained a full game on the leaders whom they trail by seven games. They are a game and a half back of the Giants, who lost a half game on the rained out Reds to break the third place tie which existed at the beginning of the day's business.

Scale Heights of Futility.

For five innings before they broke through in the big sixth the Cubs had scaled the heights of futility. The six gents who faced Lohrman in the first two innings didn't get the ball out of the infield. Marty led off the third with the Cubs' first hit, a single to center, but immediately was forced by Asbell. French then bounced into a double play. The three Cubs who faced Lohrman in the fourth were infield victims. In the fifth only three faced the Giant pitcher, but Hartnett distinguished

Keen competition for the eligible places is anticipated, as in addition to a strong field of Chicagoans there are star players from other Illinois cities and from Wisconsin, Iowa, and Missouri.

This year's entry list includes a number of business men golfers who are taking advantage of the innovation made by the C. D. G. A. in staging the championship over two weekends instead of running on consecutive days as heretofore. Chick Evans, who won the original championship in 1914, is the dean of the contestants.

The Wolf River Is Down; Trout, Bass Are Biting

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois trout fishermen who have been staying away from the Wolf river in northern Wisconsin on account of the high level of that stream, now ought to be able to catch a mess of fish there. On our recent swing through parts of Wisconsin to check on the fishing conditions we traveled over highway 55 to look at the Wolf.

Although the river is still up as compared to the low levels of recent years, it is beginning to produce some nice catches. The trout are gathering at the mouths of the cold spring creeks and they have been hitting flies.

As a rule you expect the best fly fishing around sundown. But Billy Alft, a resident of the Wolf river valley, says that during the past ten days fish have been hitting flies in the afternoon before the sun went down and the air got cool.

The Wolf is due for quite a comeback, judging by the work that will be done on the stream in future months. In the first place residents of the valley will plant around 29,000 rainbows this fall in an effort to bring back the rainbow trout fishing. Many brook trout also will be stocked.

This summer has been an easy one on the river. Not many good catches have been made on account of the high water level of the stream. But with the river getting back to normal [barring more heavy rains] trout fishermen ought to be able to make some catches during August by fly fishing at the mouths of the creeks which empty their cool spring water into the main stream.

Now that most Wisconsin lakes have more water in them fishermen are finding wall-eyes in places where they did not hook them during the dry, low water seasons. This is true of Lake Metonga at Crandon where some excellent catches of wall-eyes are being made. Instead of staying on the deep bars in the middle of the lake the wall-eyes are cruising around at times fairly close to the shore. We also found this true on Duck lake near Eagle river where, one evening, we hooked three wall-eyes in shallow water.

M'KEESPORT, PA., GOLFER TAKES PRINTERS' TITLE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Eddie Rack, the apprentice boy from McKeesport, who usually plays his golf on public links, won the Union Printers' international golf championship today with a 311 for seventy-two holes at the Edgewood Country club.

He was seven over par with a 79 for the final eighteen. C. E. Schell of Reading, Pa., finished with a 74 for a total of 314, four strokes better than C. R. Peters of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Ed Gableman, Cincinnati's defending champion, floundered to the finish with an 88 and wound up seventh in the championship bracket of eight on the basis of a 333 total for the four days of competition.

Joe Balestri, Washington, D. C., bookbinder, not a contender for the Walter Hagen trophy emblematic of the Printers' championship, successfully defended his allied trades title won last year in Baltimore. Although his fourth round 81 was not impressive, he had a 316 total.

Play Finals in Public Park Tennis Tomorrow

Finals in the Chicago public parks' tennis tournament will be played at Garfield Park tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock. Winners will be sent to Los Angeles to compete in the national public parks tourney, starting Aug. 15. John Clark of Hamilton park will meet Joe Zukas, Ogden park, in the men's singles; Mitzie Radek and Catherine Malcomb, both of Hamilton park, will clash in the women's singles, and the Joseph-Harvey team of Russell Square will face Quinn-Mertz, Garfield park, in the men's doubles.

Redskins Hope All-Stars Play Guessing Game

BY GEORGE HALAS.

[Head Coach, Chicago Bears.]

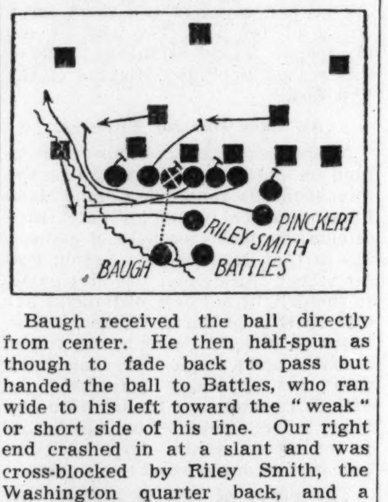
The running plays of the Washington Redskins, which capitalize the threat of Sammy Baugh's passing, may win the game in Soldiers' field Aug. 31 if the collegians are over-anxious. If the men who back up the college line hang back too long to determine whether or not a pass is coming, the Washington backs may go crashing through for long gains.

On the other hand, if they move in too rapidly they may find a Redskin taking a short forward pass in the area they've left unguarded. Similarly, if the linemen charge in pell-mell to rush Baugh on an expected pass, they may be ambushed by the Redskins from the flank.

It's Happened Before.

That's what happened to our right end, when Cliff Battles scuttled past him for ten yards to a touchdown in our championship encounter.

Here is a diagram of the scoring play Have no doubt that the All-Stars will see variations of it on the night of Aug. 31.



Baugh received the ball directly from center. He then half-spun as though to fade back to pass but handed the ball to Battles, who ran wide to his left toward the "weak" or short side of his line. Our right end crashed in at a slant and was cross-blocked by Riley Smith, the Washington quarter back, and a Washington lineman. Other Redskins wheeled out of the line to join the interference, as indicated on the chart, and Battles crossed the goal line standing up.

Passes Mixed with Power Plays.

Baugh's passes are cleverly mixed with sweeps around the flanks and quick stabs into the line, with plenty of deceptive moves before the actual play is revealed. Riley Smith is a cool, alert, and seasoned quarter back, and his generalship is of high order.

[This is the fifth of a series of articles by George Halas. Another will appear Sunday.]

ANTONIO BEATS EVERETT, 1 UP, IN SOUTHPAW FINAL

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Alex Antonio of Linden, N. J., won the championship in the national left handed golfers tournament today by defeating Alvin Everett of Rome, Ga., 1 up, in the 36 hole final match.

Everett missed an easy putt which would have given him a half on the final hole and sent the match into overtime. Everett fought back to make the match interesting after having been 5 down with only eight holes to play.

Riggs Enters Semi-Finals of Doubles Meet

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—Sidney Wood of New York; Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, Bobby Riggs of Chicago, and Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Cal., today reached the semi-finals of the 48th annual Meadow club's invitational tennis tournament. Wood, seeded eighth in the tournament, came from behind to whip Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., 7-5, 8-6. McNeill, whom Wood meets next, had an easy time disposing of Charles Hare, England's second ranking player, 6-3, 6-4.

Riggs swept through the impotent defense of Hal Surface of Kansas City, Mo., 6-2, 7-5. Surface never was able to break Riggs' service and the first set required only 15 minutes. Kovacs defeated Joe Hunt, of Los Angeles, 6-4, 7-5, keeping the Californian away from the net, his favorite position.

YANKEES POUND KENNEDY TO WIN OVER TIGERS, 8-4

Rally for Six Runs in Fifth Inning.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—(AP)—The New York Yankees landed on Vernon Kennedy with a six run rally in the fifth inning today and coasted in with an 8 to 4 victory over the Tigers behind Monte Pearson's nine hit pitching. The victory boosted the Yanks' American league lead to 2½ games over the idle Cleveland Indians, whom they meet in a three game series beginning tomorrow.

Pearson got away to a shaky start, but after yielding four runs and five hits in the first two innings he pitched shutout ball the rest of the way for his ninth victory of the year and sixth in a row. Kennedy was charged with his fourth straight defeat.

The Yanks batted around in their big fifth, during which George Selkirk, for the third time in his career, equaled the major league record of drawing two bases on balls in one inning.

himself by knocking a long fly to Ripple.

In the first five Giant innings the New Yorkers did some hitting, but never really scared the Cubs much. Cissell doubled with one out in the first inning, but Ripple lined to Reynolds and Ott was called out on strikes. There were two singles with one out in the second, but French called a halt. Ott led off the fourth with a single, but subsequently was nicked trying to steal. And French again was able to brace himself after yielding two singles in the fifth.

Marty Opens the Big Sixth.

Then came the rollicking Cub sixth. Marty opened it with the Cubs' second hit, a single to left. Asbell came through with the first of his hits, a single to center, Marty stopping at second. French attempted to sacrifice but forced Marty at third, Lohrman to Ott. Jurges singled off Cissell's glove, loading the bases. Cavarretta then walked after a three and two count, forcing Asbell across the plate with the first run of the game. Hack sent a long fly to Seeds, French scoring. Hartnett then smashed his No. 6 homer. It was 400 feet to the upper deck in left center. The skipper, of course scored behind Jurges and Cavarretta. Reynolds lined a single to left but was forced by Herman, ninth batsman of the inning.

After French bowled over the Giants in order in the sixth, the Cubs fattened their lead by one run in the seventh. With one down Asbell smacked his second single, moved over on French's sacrifice and scored on Jurges' line single to right. Cavarretta was called out on strikes.

In the eighth Danning batted for Lohrman and tapped to Jurges. Moore walked but Cissell hit into a double play.

CUBS IDLE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 4.—The Cubs tomorrow will enjoy a day off in Boston. The scheduled game was moved back to make a double header Sunday. Vance Page, right hander recently obtained from Indianapolis, will make his first mound appearance for the Cubs in the series opener Saturday.

Larry French pitched with an injured right foot. He was hit on the foot by his own foul during batting practice. The injury bled considerably, but didn't ache.

Augie Galan tonight changed his scene of convalescence from Philadelphia to Boston. He may not draw a starting assignment until the Cubs return home

White Sox Get Revenge; Beat Macks Twice

The big third, when the Sox scored four times, started with a single by Radcliff. Appling flied out, Kreevich singled, and a pass to Kuhel filled the bases. Radcliff was out at the plate on Sewell's bouncer to Potter. Lee singled again to score Kreevich and Kuhel. Moses' throw-in went wild, so Sewell also crossed the plate. Lee went to second on the error and was shoved across the plate on Berger's single.

Walker Gets a Double.

The Sox annoyed Potter some more in the fourth. They scored a run on Walker's double and a single by Radcliff to make the score 7 to 0.

The Athletics could show only two hits as the result of five innings of swinging against Lee, but produced two more in the sixth and counted twice. Moses walked, but was forced by Werber. Hayes beat out a bunt to Kuhel. Johnson hit a two bagger into right center, sending Werber and Hayes across the plate.

The Sox perfected their eighth and last run off Potter in the eighth on Walker's triple and Radcliff's eighth successive hit in two games.

SECOND GAME

Berger opened the first inning of the second game with a set of strikes, but this didn't discourage the Sox. They got busy immediately and lathered Ross for two runs. Owen walked and stole second. Walker scratched a hit to Werber and on the latter's bad throw to first Owen went to third. Radcliff's single sent Owen home and Walker to third. Walker counted on Appling's infield out. Kreevich singled, but Radcliff's attempt to score was nipped on Moses' throw to Brucker.

The going was so tough for Ross in the third that he failed to retire the first five men to face him. Owen and Walker both doubled for one run. Radcliff's singled scored Walker. Radcliff went to second on the throw and home on Appling's single. The next happening was a pass to Kreevich, but Ross suddenly found himself and retired the next three men.

Smith Goes to Work.

When the fourth got under way D. Smith was on the mound and the Sox christened him with one run. This was brought about on successive singles by Berger, Owen, and Walker.

Knott, who was given little cause for worry in the first five innings, was slapped for four hits in the sixth, two scoring. Brucker doubled with one out and Johnson flied to short center, but there was noticeable confusion among several Sox fielders in the vicinity, so it dropped for a single, Brucker taking third. He scored on Chapman's infield out. Sperry's single moved Johnson across the plate. Parker also singled, but D. Smith fanned.

Smith kept the Sox in check after the fourth until the eighth, when singles by Berger and Owen and a double by Walker, all after two were out, scored a run. The Macks got a useless run in the ninth on a single by Moses, Kreevich's error on a fly ball, and a hit by Johnson.

Sox Pick Lyons to Face Chase, Senators Today

Ted Lyons, the pitching patriarch, will be used today in the opener of the White Sox series with the Washington Senators in Comiskey park. Lyons will draw Ken Chase as an opponent.

James Dykes, the White Sox manager, was fairly bubbling over with energy yesterday. He burned up some of this pep by lifting himself out of the dugout where he had been in seclusion for days, to serve in a coaching capacity at first base.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, announced the purchase of William B. Lillard, 20 year old shortstop of the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast league. The price was not disclosed.

Pirates Lose to MacFayden and Bees, 4-3

Boston, Mass., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Danny MacFayden pitched the Boston Bees to a 4 to 3 victory over Pittsburgh's league leading Pirates today, giving him his tenth victory of the season and his fourth straight. He yielded 12 hits but he held the Pirates in check in the pinches.

Vince DiMaggio of the Bees hit his sixth home run of the season with Al Lopez and Rabbit Warstler on base in the fifth. Pitcher Mace Brown, who replaced Bill Swift in the eighth, was charged with the loss.

PHYSICIAN FINDS UMPIRE ORMSBY HAS INFECTION

The illness which has confined Emmett [Red] Ormsby, American league umpire, to the Little Company of Mary hospital since last Monday, was diagnosed yesterday by physicians as a streptococcic infection.

Dr. Richard J. Bennett Jr. said Ormsby's condition was not serious, but that he would remain in the hospital for some time. Recurring periods of high fever had puzzled several doctors, but a consultation resulted in a diagnosis.

Ormsby, a veteran umpire and former minor league baseball player, officiated the first three games of the season in Chicago before retiring from duty because of illness.

FAIRFLAX AND LASSATOR WIN IN STAKE TRIALS

But Only Seremba Colt Is Eligible Tomorrow.

BY FRENCH LANE.

One owner of a candidate for the Sheridan handicap to be run at Washington Park tomorrow was extremely happy last night. Another owner of a 3 year old, for which the Sheridan is fashioned, was downcast.

The happy fellow was Frank Seremba, whose colt Fairflax won a smashing victory in the Tinley Park purse in which Sheridan eligibles were running. His convincing victory likely will send him to the post tomorrow as the favorite.

The sad horseman was J. J. Flannigan who handles the big Valdina Farm stable owned by E. F. Woodward of Texas. His 3 year old Lassator won the other division of the Tinley Park purse after coming from far back. But Mr. Flannigan had neglected to nominate Lassator for the Sheridan.

It's Fairflax All the Way.

From start to finish Fairflax made a show of his rivals. Among his victims and soundly beaten was the Louisiana Derby winner Wise Fox which had mustered almost as much support as the Canadian colt.

Closest to Fairflax which had been taken in hand in the late stages, but which was still two lengths in front at the end, was Charley Cleary's colt Jayfcee. In third place was Shining Heels.

Wise Fox looked the picture of condition as he paraded proudly to the post. He gave every indication he was all set to do a lot of running. But he wasn't. He was far back all the way and still was losing ground when the six furlong battle ended.

Fairflax, ridden by Porter Roberts, dashed over the six furlong course in 1:12 2-5. This wasn't fast time, but it was the speediest trip taken over this particular stretch of the track since the Washington Park season opened.

Lassator Wins in Final Strides.

Lassator got up in the final strides under a carefully judged ride by Earl Steffen to win his race by a length. His time was a second slower than that made by Fairflax. In the betting Lassator paid $25.40.

This upset by Lassator for the fourth straight day ended the dreams of more than 7,000 persons who tried to earn $4,000 by picking the first seven winners.

Three Selections Alive.

Three were still alive when the race started. Two of them had picked Pin Money. The other, Unselfish. This situation throws $5,000 into the amateur handicappers' pool for today.

More than 25,000 have tried to win the prize during the first four days of the season. One fellow picked the first six winners on Monday, but was dead in the seventh race. However, that was the best performance yet turned in by one of the amateur handicappers.

Juveniles Put On Thriller.

The Lincolnshire purse for 2 year olds was another high spot on the program. It brought nine of the best juveniles at the track to the post. Dixiana's stable's All Time High, one of the most fashionably bred horses in the country, was the favorite, Morris Vehon's Smart Trick was the second choice and an extreme outsider in the betting was Maetown owned by Mrs. Clarence Dale of Chicago.

All Time High flattered his backers for a time as did Smart Trick while they were forcing the pace.

Turning into the stretch Hello Cap had taken a slight lead. However, he swung wide and took All Time High and Smart Trick with him.

Maetown Goes Through on Rail.

Jocky K. McCombs, who has become the idol of the long shot players at Washington park, had been racing Maetown close to the rail. When the leaders went wide he sneaked through on the rail with Maetown, thus saving enough ground to account for the victory. Rangedust, a Texas colt, made up ground to take down second money. Hello Cap saved the small end of the pot.

Maetown sent the longshot players into a wild celebration when the mutuel price of $44.40 for $2 was recorded.

Dixiana stable's King's Heir, which broke down in a race on Wednesday, was destroyed yesterday. He had suffered a broken bone in his front right leg.

SEC ASKS SPEED IN SIMPLIFYING LARGE UTILITIES

Ordered to Submit Plans by Dec. 1.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—The Securities and Exchange commission today put pressure on public utility holding companies to simplify their structures. Chairman William O. Douglas ordered plans for integration and corporate simplification to be submitted to the SEC by Dec. 1, 1938.

Complying with the famous "death sentence" section of the public utility act of 1935, Douglas sent a letter containing the order to the heads of sixty-six public utility holding companies. He said that plans should be submitted by the utility heads by that date, although such plans may be only tentative.

Follows Up Recent Warning.

Thus, Douglas followed up his warning last week that the SEC was ready to tackle the problem of simplifying vast holding company structures. Section 11 of the act, known as the "death sentence" section, provided that "as soon as practicable after Jan. 1, 1938," the commission should order the changing over of holding companies systems into single integrated public utility systems.

Speaking before the American Bar association in Cleveland, O., last week, Douglas derided the use of the term "death sentence" and asserted that compact utility concerns have weathered times of depression better than have large widespread systems.

Discusses Plans with Utilities.

In his letter today, Douglas said: "During recent months representatives of a number of public utility holding companies systems have been discussing with us informally their plans for compliance with section 11 [B] [1], dealing with geographical integration, and section 11 [B] [2], dealing with corporate simplification, of the public utility holding company act of 1935. Some of these plans deal with parts of the necessary program for the respective systems; others are rather complete and full fledged, although necessarily tentative.

"The plan of any one system insofar as it calls for acquisition or disposition of assets or of securities usually involves the plans of one or more other systems. Thus, the development of section 11 programs frequently will necessitate action by two or more systems.

Consider Effect on Systems.

"Furthermore, consideration by the commission of tentative proposals by one system should preferably be given in light of the desires and hopes of other systems which are affected. The commission has consistently taken the view that the development of a section 11 [B] [1] program for one system should be made in light of the requirements of the various systems which may be directly or indirectly involved.

"Because of these considerations and because of the desire of the commission to get on with its task under section 11, I am writing you and the heads of other registered holding companies at the direction of the commission to request that the various systems present to us not later than Dec. 1, 1938, their suggestions, plans and programs, even though they may be tentative, looking toward compliance with sections 11 [B] [1] and 11 [B] [2]."

Asks Utility Group to Assist.

Along with this letter Douglas sent another to the recently formed Committee of Utility Executives, organized to coöperate with the SEC. He suggested that the committee might aid in coördinating programs of some of the major systems or possibly act as a clearing house for an exchange of ideas on the problem.

Douglas said that he wanted to emphasize that "we are not departing from our program for coöperative endeavor but are seeking rather to implement the round table technique with a concrete proposal to those who want to get on with the job."

Officials of the commission said that a number of holding companies have already submitted tentative programs. A hearing has been set for Aug. 8 on the integration of one company—Utilities Light and Power corporation. It will be the first such hearing held.

MEXICO SEIZES MORE LAND HELD BY U. S. CITIZENS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

Mexico City, Aug. 4.—Mexico intends to continue expropriation of United States owned lands. This was indicated by the publication today in the official gazette of a decree by which 1,800 acres of pasturage in the state of Jalisco belonging to Dora and Oscar Newton, United States citizens, will be taken.

The decree nationalizing the Newton property was published after the delivery of the Mexican note to the United States yesterday in which Mexico refused to arbitrate indemnity payments for United States lands expropriated.

Corporation Securities Payment Is Recommended

Garfield Charles, special referee in bankruptcy, yesterday recommended to Federal Judge J. Leroy Adair payment of a liquidating dividend to creditors of the bankrupt Corporation Securities company of Chicago. He recommended payment of $759,192, or 4¾ per cent, on claims totaling $15,983,000.

Nuisance Tax to Be Retained, Says Magill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Roswell Magill.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—Continuance of the 450 million dollar yearly manufacturers' excise, or "nuisance," taxes, and further studies on new taxing powers by the federal treasury were indicated today by Roswell Magill, acting secretary of the treasury.

Many of these "nuisance" taxes are due to expire in June or July of 1939. Most of them have been in effect since 1932. They include taxes on gasoline, toilet preparations, communications, automobiles and accessories, theater admissions, stock transfers, and certain imports.

When asked at his press conference today on conflicting reports whether these taxes would be recommended to congress for reënactment, Magill said:

Large Deficit Indicated.

The revised budget for the 1939 fiscal year estimates a deficit of nearly 4 billion dollars. On the basis of the July operations, however, the deficit will be close to 5 billion dollars. In July, first month of the new fiscal year, the treasury deficit was more than 450 million dollars.

Magill, as undersecretary, has been in charge of the treasury's taxing activities. He is acting head of the treasury in the absence of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., who is vacationing in Europe.

The treasury, Magill said, is constantly making studies of tax proposals that may be recommended at a later date.

"In case there is any argument for repeal of the gasoline tax, etc., we must be prepared to substitute in case of such repeal," he asserted.

The treasury preferred to maintain old and established taxes, Magill indicated, recalling the maxim that "an old tax is better than a new tax," because the people have become accustomed to it.

Considers Broader Tax Base.

Broadening of the income tax base, as proposed by Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], has also been given serious consideration by the treasury tax finders. This would be accomplished by reducing exemptions and increasing surtaxes.

At a committee hearing during the last session of congress, Magill testified that lowering of exemptions to $800 for single persons and $2,000 for married ones would produce an estimated 70 million dollars in additional revenue a year.

Magill said that he had no comment to make on the foreign exchange market in which the pound sterling has fallen, other than "we are keeping our eyes on it."

Magill also revealed preliminary statistics on corporation income and excess profits tax returns for 1936, showing a big increase in corporation taxes compared with 1935. The surtax on undistributed profits was introduced in 1936 and this accounted for a large part of the bulge in taxes. Many corporations, however, preferred to distribute earnings in dividends rather than pay the tax.

Gain Is 450 Millions.

Taxes levied in 1936, according to this preliminary report, amounted to $1,191,388,900 on the basis of 530,779 returns. In 1935 the total take was $739,774,300. The gain was more than 450 million dollars.

The new and much disputed surtax on undistributed profits in 1936 yielded $144,967,800 to the federal treasury. The normal tax on income that year amounted to $1,024,756,200 and the excess profits tax was $21,664,900.

Of the returns filed for 1936 a total of 203,162 showed a combined net income of $9,477,979,700, and 275,695 showed a combined deficit of $2,156,054,700. A total of 51,922 had given no income data. A strict comparison connot be drawn between some of the figures for 1936 and those for 1935 because of changes in the revenue acts for the respective years.

F. W. WOOLWORTH JULY SALES DIP BELOW YEAR AGO

The F. W. Woolworth company reported yesterday that July sales were 8 per cent under those of the same month last year. Sales in the first seven months of 1938 were 1.8 per cent below a year ago. Executives attributed the July decrease partly to the fact that this year there was one less business day in July.

Sales amounted to $22,733,440 compared with $24,715,331 a year ago. Sales in the first seven months totaled $155,788,931 against $158,595,224 in 1937.

Decreased July sales were announced by four other chain store companies. Reports follow:

Judge Asked to Rescind Oil Case Ruling

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Judge Stone.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 4.—Government counsel today asked Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone to expunge and rescind his recent order dismissing eleven of the 46 defendant major oil companies and their high officials, who were convicted of an anti-trust fixing conspiracy by a jury Jan. 22.

The judge took the matter under advisement and requested that written briefs be filed by government and defense attorneys as soon as possible. He gave no hint as to how he will rule on this new angle in the government's prosecution of the oil industry.

Argues Verdict Can't Be Revised.

The major contention of John Henry Lewin, assistant attorney general who presented the government's motion, was that Stone, as a federal judge, had no authority to "revise" a jury's verdict in criminal cases. Once the jury has returned its verdict, Lewin contended, the trial judge has only two alternatives—fix sentence or order a new trial.

Lewin said that to his knowledge there is no precedent for the action Judge Stone took on July 19, when he dismissed the conspiracy charges against ten individuals and one oil company, although they had been found guilty by a jury.

"We submit, your honor," Lewin concluded, "that we can't find any precedent that permits the reservation idea in criminal cases. The customary manner of changing the jury's findings is to grant a new trial. This is of real importance to the United States."

New Trial Set for Sept. 26.

On Jan. 22, at the end of a trial that lasted 111 days and was known as the "first Madison oil case," a federal jury returned a verdict finding 30 individuals and 16 oil companies guilty of a conspiracy to raise and fix artificially high prices on gasoline in ten middle western states. On July 19, nearly six months later, Judge Stone sustained that verdict only as to five individuals and twelve companies. He granted outright dismissals to ten individuals and one oil company and ordered a new trial for 15 officials and three companies. This trial is set for Sept. 26.

Stone's ruling knocked the props from under what government attorneys had regarded six months before as a victory over the oil industry.

Weymouth Kirkland, counsel for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, whose president, Edward G. Seubert, was one of the 11 defendants freed of conspiracy charges by Stone last month, today termed the government's motion "highly technical." He maintained that the court has an inherent right to revise the jury's verdict.

Prospects of a new investigation of the oil industry faded this afternoon with announcement that the federal grand jury, after returning nine indictments on general criminal charges, was dismissed without a return date being set. The subpenas issued recently for witnesses in the renewed probe have been "temporarily suspended."

I. C. C. EXAMINER URGES WIPING OUT STOCK IN REORGANIZING MONON

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—(AP)—An interstate commerce commission examiner proposed today that both preferred and common stockholders be wiped out in reorganizing the Chicago, Indianapolis, and Louisville [Monon] railway.

The examiner, Milo H. Brinkley, suggested that control of the Monon be taken away from the Southern Railway company and the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company. The L. and N. and the Southern each owns $4,902,450 of par value, or 46.7 per cent, of the common stock and $1,936,700 par value, or 38.8 per cent, of the preferred stock. Brinkley also recommended that notes of $1,170,366 held by them be canceled. All claims of general creditors also would be eliminated.

Brinkley proposed a capitalization of $34,000,000 compared with present capitalization of about $42,000,000. Under his plan fixed interest charges would amount to $56,000 with contingent charges of about $725,000 a year. This compares with fixed interest of about $1,500,000 under the old company. Present bondholders would receive new securities in exchange for their present holdings.

Pullman's Net Profits Lower in 2d Quarter

Pullman, Inc., yesterday reported second quarter net income of $216,349, or 6 cents a capital share. Its profit was $428,551, or 11 cents a share, in the preceding three months and $3,332,502, or 87 cents a share, in the June 1937, quarter.

The company's statement included operations of both the transportation and manufacturing divisions. A separate report for the Pullman company, which carries on the transportation operations, showed a profit for June, but a loss for the first six months of the year. June was the first month since January in which the transportation company had a profit. The June profit amounted to $297,374, compared with profit of $862,484 a year earlier.

Has Loss in 6 Months.

For the first six months the Pullman company had a net loss of $355,898, against profit of $2,591,010 in the first half of 1937. Net loss for this year was after deduction of $200,000 a month reserve for amortization of the firm's air conditioning investment. No similar deduction was made in 1937.

The company's gross revenues increased to $5,223,018 from $5,084,928 in June of last year. Gross for the first six months amounted to $29,658,965, against $30,857,289 in the like 1937 period.

Parent Company Shows Profit.

Pullman, Inc., the parent company, had net income of $644,900, or 17 cents a share, in the first six months. This was less than 1-10 the profit of $6,690,202, or $1.73 a share, earned in the first six months of 1937. For the twelve months ended June 30, net income was $6,311,649, against $10,262,328 in the preceding twelve months.

CANADA ASSURES ITS FARMERS OF 80 CENT WHEAT

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 4.—(AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King today announced 80 cents as the fixed minimum price for wheat this year. At that figure the Canadian wheat board will take delivery of all wheat harvest in 1938 offered it by Canadian farmers.

At the same time the prime minister indicated there would be no change in the marketing policy of the wheat board. Wheat will be offered for sale continuously at world prices. Should the board's operations result in a loss the federal treasury must reimburse it.

The price fixed today is lower than the 87½ cents which has been fixed during the three previous years the wheat board has been in existence. No conditions or restrictions are attached to the new price.

Lend, Urges RFC; Play Safe Warns FDIC

Washington, D. C., Aug. 4.—[Special.]—The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation today warned the country's banks against taking excessive risks on loans. The warning appeared in the corporation's semi-annual fiscal statement. It followed closely upon a series of demands by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, for a liberalization of bank lending policy.

Leo T. Crowley.

Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the FDIC, pointed out in the statement that the recent adoption of uniform bank examinations would not change the examination method of the FDIC. It will continue to criticize loans "on the basis of judgment as to the ability of the obligor or debtor to repay the obligation," he said.

Won't Modify Appraisal.

Any impression which the announcement of uniform bank examinations may have created that the FDIC would modify its loan appraisal procedure was definitly dispelled by Crowley's statement.

After stating that the new standards would "make supervisory policy more effective," he added:

"The standards with regard to the determination and criticism of the quality of loans and securities conform in all essential respects with those which have been used by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

Although he asserted that "bankers are becoming increasingly conscious of their own responsibilities and are coöperating in the elimination of weak management and unsound practices," Chairman Crowley warned against taking excessive risks.

Warns Against Undue Risks.

"Since the advent of deposit insurance the major part of the depositors' risk has been transferred to the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation," he said. "Insurance of deposits, however, does not justify bankers in taking greater risks than they otherwise would. In the long run the funds available to the corporation must come from the banks' earnings.

"For the banks as a whole, therefore, losses in both operating and closed banks resulting from deterioration of assets must be paid out of earnings if the banking system is to survive. Over the seventy year period preceding establishment of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation such losses amounted to more than 12 billion dollars."

BANK CLEARINGS ARE FAR BELOW SAME 1937 WEEK

New York, Aug. 4.—[Special.]—With a single exception, the period ended June 8, bank clearings at the twenty-two principal cities of the country have lagged far behind the corresponding week last year for thirty-nine successive weeks, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Clearings totaled $4,841,380,000, or 17.1 per cent below the 1937 figure of $5,838,715,000. In the preceding week the year-to-year decline was 14.6 per cent. Compared with the preceding week, clearings showed an increase of $190,140,000, whereas in the same week last year the increase was $392,387,000.

Chicago volume of $274,200,000 was 17.2 per cent under $331,100,000 in the like 1937 week.

SPENDING, LIKE RIVER FLOOD, IS INSIDIOUS PERIL

Public Unaware of Future Disaster.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

People who dwell in river valleys behind tall levees do not live in continual fear of flood. Being so close to danger, they become calloused to it. The flood may not come this year. If it does, it may not hit their particular part of the valley. And if it should—well, every one cannot move out of river valleys because there will be a flood some day. Where is there to go?

When an economist says that the government of the United States of America is beginning its ninth year of unbalanced budgets and that this is a dangerous situation, the ordinary citizen is about as little concerned as a dweller in a river town who is told some day his house may float away.

Danger Lacks Immediacy.

When danger lacks immediacy it lacks the dramatic quality which is necessary to stir human emotions. And people bestir themselves to avoid danger only when their emotions are aroused. Reason has little to do with it. If it had, people wouldn't live on river bottoms or the sides of active volcanoes, nor would they placidly accept the assumption that a government can forever go on spending more than it takes in.

The beginning of the ninth year of unbalanced budgets means that children who were about twelve years when the government of the United States last kept within its income have now reached their majority and are ready to vote. They have had time enough to go through both high school and college on unbalanced budgets. It means that young men and women who were 21 are now nearly 30 and probably have a few lusty youngsters.

Depend on Government.

The beginning of the ninth year of unbalanced budgets means also that vast minority groups among the voters themselves have gradually built themselves vested interests in the billions which every year are not collected in taxes but are artificially created through borrowing. The longer these groups continue to live off government "income" which doesn't exist the harder it is to get them to get along without it—and the harder will be the bump when they have to get along without it.

Economists, business men, bankers and even Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau have pointed out the danger in this situation. No competent authority believes for a minute that a nation can keep on indefinitly spending a great deal more than it receives in income and still escape the sort of economic chaos that eventually follows drastic inflation.

How Long Can It Go On?

How long can it go on? Only until something happens to scare people into vigorously using the tremendous supply of bank deposits that has been created by the government's deficits.

When does such a scare occur? No one knows the answer. It took the people of Germany from the fall of 1914 until well into 1922 before they realized what had happened to the credit of their government. In early 1922 German people were still hoarding paper marks.

Although the majority of voters does not worry about the government's financial situation any more than the dweller on the river bottom worries about the possibility of flood, the people who have substantial amounts of money to invest

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 4.—Gains and losses were about evenly divided at the close of trading on the stock market today. Of 716 issues traded, 270 closed higher, 258 lower, and 188 unchanged. Most of the leaders were higher, with gains ranging from fractions to around 2 points. Trading was quiet, totaling 609,600 shares.

The list opened higher, dropped back in forenoon trading, then quickly recovered as selling pressure eased. Final prices were just below the day's best levels.

Aviation issues were particularly prominent in the afternoon. United Aircraft spurted 1⅛ points. Douglas, Boeing and North American Aviation edged fractionally higher. Curtiss-Wright issues hardened on publication of the statement showing a big rise in profits.

Good buying appeared in motor stocks. General Motors, up 1⅛ points, was pushed close to the year's best level. Chrysler netted a major fraction, although at one time it was more than 1 point higher. Low priced auto stocks were steady.

Rubbers also had relatively good attention. United States Rubber and Goodrich were among the ten most active issues. Both added fractions.

Steel shares were buoyant despite denial of the report that the Empire Steel and Tin Plate company, an independent Ohio concern, had won a pay reduction concession from its workers. United States Steel closed 1⅛ points higher. Bethlehem, Youngstown, Republic, and National gained fractions. Coppers were in fair demand in the face of a slight drop in the export price of the metal.

Higher prices were the rule in the carrier section. Electric equipment stocks added fractions to 1⅝ points. Most of the oil stocks gave ground. Gold stocks were steady.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The bond market was mixed today, with rails generally weaker, industrials somewhat improved, and utilities showing little change. United States government obligations were quiet and narrow.

A few railroad liens managed to show gains, including Great Northern 4s of '46 at 96, Illinois Central 4¾s at 40⅞, and Southern Railway 4s at 45. Baltimore & Ohio issues dropped. The convertible 4½s were off 2¼ at 19½ and the refunding 5s dropped 1¾ at 23½.

Foreign loans were improved, with Japanese issues prominent in the rise after weakness of the last few days.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks were uneven yesterday in another quiet session. Trading totaled 18,000 shares against 19,000 on the preceding day. Twenty-five issues advanced, the same number declined, and thirty-one were unchanged.

Bendix Aviation, which led the volume with 1,900 shares sold, advanced ¼ to 20½. Marshall Field rose ⅜ to 12⅝. Chicago corporation closed unchanged at 2¼. Zenith Radio gained ⅛ to 20⅝.

The exchange announced that Deere & Co.'s 3,007,908 shares of no par common and 1,500,000 shares of 7 per cent cumulative $20 par preferred will be admitted to trading today.

Bank Stocks.

Advancing on heavier trading late yesterday, stock of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company moved up $2.50 to $72.50 bid, $73.50 asked. One dealer quoted the stock 25 cents higher at $72.75 bid. Shares of the First National bank and the Chicago Title and Trust company also gained, the former closing $2 higher at $222 bid, $226 asked, and the latter up $1 to $145 bid, $148 asked.

RAIL PAY PARLEY ENDS; MEDIATION TO BE NEXT STEP

Carriers and Unions Fail to Reach Agreement.

The railroad wage dispute yesterday entered the mediation stage. Members of the Carriers' Joint Conference committee, representing the railroads, and the Railway Labor Executives' association, representing eighteen unions, concluded their negotiations at the Palmer house without reaching an agreement.

The railroads on April 29 at a meeting in Chicago voted to put a 15 per cent reduction into effect on July 1. Under the railroad labor act the cut could not be made effective while it was under negotiation.

H. A. Enochs, chairman of the Carriers' Joint Conference committee, yesterday told the brotherhoods he had nothing more to say.

Railroads Demand Cut.

George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, stated that he had concluded his arguments. He reiterated his previous statements that the unions will not accept the cut.

Harrison said he does not expect an agreement to be reached through mediation. If mediation fails the next step will be for the unions to take a strike vote. It will take about thirty days to take the vote. When this is done the mediator can inform the President that a national crisis exists. Thereupon, the law provides that the President shall appoint a fact finding commission.

Other Steps to Be Taken.

The fact finding commission has thirty days in which to get information and make its findings. Then another thirty days must elapse before either party to the dispute can act.

The possibility of a strike is regarded as remote. It is held likely that the labor and management will agree to adopt the recommendation of the fact finding commission if the dispute is carried to it.

The national mediation board will intervene officially next week, it was announced yesterday by Dr. William Leiserman, chairman of the board, in Washington. The board probably will go to Chicago to hold hearings.

Request for mediation, which opened the way for entry by the national board, was made by a spokesman for the rail executives, who telephoned to Dr. Leiserson from Chicago.

PORK AND LIGHT HOGS SINK AGAIN ON HOT WEATHER

Another decline swept the markets for fresh pork and light hogs yesterday. Pork eating throughout most of the country has declined sharply as a result of hot weather in the last few days, packers report, and this has necessitated price concessions and reduced slaughtering to keep supplies of fresh meat moving. The clearance in wholesale channels yesterday was the poorest in many weeks.

Price cuts in fresh pork in Chicago yesterday ranged from 50 cents to $1.50 per hundred pounds. The downturn was sharper here than elsewhere, although the glut of fresh pork is becoming more serious in the east than in Chicago.

Best grades of hogs weighing downwards from 250 pounds sold off 5 to 25 cents yesterday. Heavy butchers were held mostly steady and sows ruled strong to 10 cents higher. The strength in these grades elevated the average for the day 5 cents to $8.10, despite the decline in lightweights.

Lambs slumped to the lowest levels since last May on yesterday's 25 to 50 cents break. Strength developed in the trade for most classes of steers and yearlings.

SWIFT TO EXPAND IN SOUTH; TEXAS SUIT IS SETTLED

Old Anti-Trust Action Finally Compromised.

Settlement on Wednesday of an anti-trust suit by the state of Texas against Swift & Co., Chicago meat packers, will permit the company to expand its cottonseed oil business in the southwest, Swift officials said yesterday.

The case, which has been pending in the state courts for twenty-two years, was settled with the approval of District Judge Roy C. Archer at Austin, Tex. The original suit ended in 1916 with a consent decree ordering Swift & Co. and several other packing firms to dispose of their cottonseed oil properties when a fair price could be obtained.

Operated Under Trusteeship.

Meanwhile the plants could be operated under a trusteeship arrangement, according to the decree. The trusteeship operation has continued, with Swift & Co. unable to find a buyer at what is considered a fair price. The Consumers' Cotton Oil company, a Swift subsidiary, operates the mills. Former Attorney General W. A. Keeling is the trustee.

The case was revived by the offer of the estate of the late Col. Marvin E. Singleton, St. Louis capitalist, to dispose of the Singleton mills group in Texas to Swift & Co. Under the terms of the consent decree, Swift interests could not be expanded in Texas.

Will Continue Operations.

The court order issued Wednesday at Austin permits the Consumers' Cotton Oil company to purchase the Singleton mills and continue operations in the state. The only vestige of the original consent decree remaining is the continued operation of the Swift subsidiary under a trustee.

Armour & Co. and another packer included in the consent decree have long since disposed of their Texas cottonseed oil business.

RUMOR WORKERS OF STEEL FIRM ACCEPT PAY CUT

An agreement between the management of the Empire Steel and Tin Plate company and its employés on a 25 per cent wage cut was reported yesterday. Empire Sheet is a small independent company with plants at Mansfield, Ashtabula, and Niles, O.

The Dow-Jones financial news service reported that officers of the company and employés at its plant had reached an agreement directly between themselves on cuts running up to 25 per cent. Between 600 and 700 men were reported to be affected.

Although employés and the company have been operating under a contract with a lodge affiliated with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, it was stated that the wage cut agreement was worked out with the employés without any action by the C. I. O. The association is a C. I. O. affiliate.

James M. Hill, president and manager of Empire Sheet, and Joseph Scanlan, plant head of the Amalgamated association, denied that there had been any wage cut. However, several employés of the company, who refused to allow their names to be used, said that a wage cut had been made.

United Verde Extension Mining.

Investors' Guide: Kindly give me information on United Verde Extension company.—J. J. G.

Answer: The United Verde Extension Mining company is going out of business. Directors proposed last fall that the company be dissolved and completely liquidated because its ore bodies had been exhausted and development work had not disclosed any new ore on its property. Stockholders subsequently approved the proposal.

The plan of dissolution and liquidation calls for the sale of physical properties and the payment of liquidating dividends to stockholders as funds become available from such sales. The first liquidating dividend, a $2 payment, was disbursed Dec. 20, 1937. The $2 was in addition to a regular $1 payment last year.

The company reported that on Nov. 1, 1937, it had cash on hand amounting to $2,504,295, marketable securities of $1,031,688, and other securities valued at $301,983. The $2 liquidating dividend in December amounted to about $2,100,000. The balance sheet on Dec. 31, 1936, latest available, showed mining property, less depletion reserves, worth $423,388, plant and equipment worth $34,588, lands and other property worth $179,595, and various other investments worth $302,086. These assets, plus current assets, made total assets of $5,204,850 at the end of 1936. Very little mining has been done since then.

National Lead.

Investors' Guide: I am interested in knowing the earnings of National Lead company Can you tell me how much it has earned this year and in each of the last three years?—D. S. W.

Answer: The National Lead company earned $1,804,864, or 27 cents a share, in the first half of this year, compared with $5,192,266, or $1.36 a share in the first half of 1937. Net income was $4,886,952, or 95 cents a share in 1937; $7,232,531, or $1.71 a share, in 1936, and $5,261,390, or $1.08 a share on present capitalization in 1935.

Insull Utilities Investments, Inc.

Investors' Guide: I see that a payment will be made this fall to holders of Insull Utilities Investments, Inc., debenture holders. I have some common stock in this company. Will I get anything?—H. I. G.

Answer: Holders of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., debentures probably will receive about 6 cents on the dollar or a little more. Because the debentures rank ahead of the stock, nothing can be expected on the stock.

FOREIGN MONEYS RALLY ON WANE OF WAR SCARES

European Hoarders Less Eager for Gold.

An improved political outlook in both Europe and Asia caused European currencies to show strength in foreign exchange dealings yesterday for the first time this week. The British pound, which on Wednesday sold at a new low since April, 1937, led the recovery with an upturn of more than a cent.

After losing part of its early gain the pound rallied again in late dealings to close at $4.89⅝, up 1¼ cents. Another strong unit was the Netherlands guilder, which climbed 0.13 of a cent to 54.70 cents. The French franc advanced 0.00¾ of a cent to 2.74¾ cents, although the discount on 90 day forward francs widened a little.

Belgian Currency Higher.

The Belgium belga, a steady performer while other units were falling rapidly earlier in the week, edged forward 0.01½ of a cent to 16.93 cents. The Swiss franc, another steady performer, finished at 22.88 cents, up 0.02½ cent.

European hoarders also were less eager to buy gold, although sales still were above average. About $11,830,000 worth of the metal changed hands in the London open market, compared with the exceptionally heavy sales of $14,885,000 worth on Wednesday. Most of the gold on both days was supplied by the British control fund, according to reports.

Gold Cheaper in London.

In terms of the dollar the price of gold in London dipped to $34.76 an ounce, compared with a final price on Wednesday of $34.78. This made it profitable, after payment of shipping charges and insurance, to ship gold to the United States for sale to the treasury at $35 an ounce. Engagements of gold in England for shipment here totaled $1,520,000 for the day.

Engagement of another $1,327,000 of gold in Canada for shipment to the United States also was reported. A shipment of $2,531,000 gold from Canada was received in New York on Wednesday, being the first shipment in several months.

WORLD EVENTS PUT DAMPER ON GRAIN TRADING

Public interest in North American and European grain markets was again small yesterday.

Unsettlement in the foreign exchange market, conflicting reports regarding the European and far eastern political situation, and a disposition to await announcement of the Canadian guaranteed minimum price to be paid for the 1938 wheat crop were largely responsible for the worldwide lack of interest.

The bulk of the trading in wheat and corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade was within a range of about ½ cent a bushel. All deliveries of grain futures sold at or within a small fraction of a cent a bushel of the season's lowest levels.

Corn closed ½ cent higher on buying induced by dry and hot weather over part of the main producing area, causing fears of crop damage. There also was buying on rumors that the government was considering lending farmers 59 cents a bushel on the 1938 crop. Price changes in oats, rye, and soy beans were limited to small fractions of a cent a bushel.

COTTON

The bulk of yesterday's trading in cotton futures on American exchanges was within a range of about .05 cent a pound. Trade was restricted by uncertainty regarding the situation in Europe and the far east and by the unsettled foreign exchange market. Liverpool futures closed lower, and cables from England said trading was the smallest thus far this year. Closing trades were at net gains of .04 to .08 cent a pound.

Spot cotton closed .05 cent higher with New York, 8.60 cents; New Orleans, 8.65 cents, and Galveston and Houston, 8.40 cents a pound. Prices follow:

HANCOCK OIL CO. AND LOEW'S VOTE DIVIDEND BOOSTS

U. S. Envelope to Omit Common Payment.

Substantial dividend increases were ordered yesterday by the Hancock Oil company of California and Loew's, Inc., motion picture producing, distributing, and exhibiting company.

The oil firm, in addition to declaring regular quarterly payments of 25 cents a share on class A and B stocks, announced that extra dividends of 50 cents would be paid on the two issues. In the preceding quarter extras of only 20 cents a share were paid.

Pays $1 a Share.

Loew's, of which the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture studio in California is a subsidiary, declared an increased dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, payable Aug. 25 to stockholders of record Aug. 15. In the two preceding quarters disbursements of 50 cents a share were made.

The only dividend omission reported yesterday was that of the United States Envelope company. Although the regular preferred payment of $3.50 a share was ordered, directors voted to take no action on the common dividend.

GRAIN TRADERS SEEK NEW VOTE ON PRICE RULE

A petition was circulated on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday requesting the directors to call for a ballot vote of the membership on suspending the "to arrive" rule from Sept. 1, 1938, to June 1, 1939. The rule governs bidding and commission charges on grain bought for deferred shipment from the country.

An effort to eliminate the "to arrive" rule was defeated late in June. The new petition is expected to be presented to the directors on Aug. 9.

Public Remains Unaware of Future Disaster.

think about it a lot. So do the managements of corporations employing most of the workers. It is because they do think about it that there exists what the market letter writers keep referring to as "lack of confidence."

Who Worry; Who Don't.

To the average WPA employé the government's lesson in the economics of deficits is complete when he receives his weekly check. He lets some one else worry about the collection. To the investor and the employer whose enterprises must provide the jobs to take people off the WPA the government's deficit is the big impediment.

High taxes are discouraging enough, but if they are to keep rising as the government spends more each year and if, even so, there is a distinct possibility that they may not produce enough to save the government's credit and that there may ultimately be drastic inflation, the investor and the enterpriser have no incentive for risking their money.

Economy is difficult, but it is generally admitted that only economy on the part of the government will put idle men and dollars back to work in a way that will produce genuine recovery.

Recall Morgenthau's Remarks.

Secretary Morgenthau definitly expressed this opinion in his speech last Nov. 11 in which he said that "the basic need today is to foster the driving force of private capital" and that "we believe that one of the most important ways of achieving these ends at this time is to continue progress toward a balance of the federal budget."

Mr. Morgenthau, like Mirabeau, has found, however, that in public life sound reasoning frequently gives way to political expediency. Recently he has had to applaud the big increase in the deficit for the year ending June 30, 1939.

It was Mirabeau who in 1789, when France was threatened with a second dose of paper money inflation because the first dose had produced only a temporary boomlet, described such inflation as "a nursery of tyranny, corruption, and delusion — a veritable debauch of authority in delirium."

Mirabeau's Career an Example.

Subsequent events proved that Mirabeau's prophecy was entirely correct. Unfortunately for his personal niche in history, however, he had six months later yielded to pressure and approved the second inflationary step.

The so-called New Deal's twin ideas of "spending for prosperity" and regimentation of private enterprise are not its inventions. They have been the skeleton of the programs of most of the leading nations since the beginning of the world war. They haven't yet been pushed as far in this country as they have been abroad, but the direction is almost the same in each case.

Pursued to its logical conclusion, government extravagance leads to dictatorship because, having seen after the world war what inflation can do if carried too far, the people of each nation have striven to avoid a repetition of such catastrophe by permitting the creation of despotic governments with drastic powers to regulate not only money but all enterprise.

Dictatorship Heightens Misery.

Present events indicate, however, that dictatorship heightens the misery and that it merely postpones the economic collapse.

In France, whose people are individualists, the trend toward dictatorship has been resisted somewhat more successfully, but the people have taken their licking. The public debt of France is now ten times what it was before the war and the franc, the Frenchman's unit of currency, is worth one-tenth what it was before the war.

In the United States the dollar has been debased only about 40 per cent to date, but there is no assurance that its present value can be maintained if the government's deficits continue.

All of these considerations indicate that a genuine and definite move toward balancing the federal budget would do much toward restoring the confidence of the people whose confidence means jobs for the unemployed and prosperity for the nation—the enterpriser and the investor.

Wages and Living Costs.

Some companies have in recent years set up plans for adjusting earnings of employés to changes in the cost of living. An illustration of the manner in which such a system works is found in the plan put into effect by the General Electric company in October, 1936.

The plan provides that the monthly index of the cost of living compiled by the United States department of labor is used as a base. It provides for "cost of living adjustments" in wages, with the limitation that wages shall not be reduced by these adjustments below the October, 1936, level.

If the department of labor index increases as much as 1 per cent the wages of employés are advanced 1 per cent. Increases are provided up to a maximum of 10 per cent above the October, 1936, level, if the index rises that much. When the cost of living decreases adjustment of employé earnings are made downward, but not below the October, 1936, scale.

The plan is applicable to the first $3,000 of earnings of all employés receiving $4,000 a year or less.

NEAR NORTH SIDE
You probably are living in a nice little spot, but why not join up with some one and enjoy the thrill of a 2 story living room and your own bedroom and bath? Or a home in a little house built in a little Pomander Walk right down near the loop? There are a great many fine business people who waste a lot of time and energy commuting every day to the outskirts of Chicago, instead of living down here near the lake, near all things they wish to see and hear, and near the loop. Do come in and see us and perhaps we can help you save a lot of time and energy, and get a new joy out of living.
